SOCIAL SECURITY COMPROMISE IS REACHED

Tidelands Oil Bill Is Vetoed By President

Truman Says Supreme Court Should Decide Ownership Question

MEASURE RENOUNCES ANY FEDERAL CLAIM

Administration Leaders Manage To Delay Any Vote On Overriding

By CLAIR JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Truman vetoed the so-called "tidelands oil bill" today, declaring that the question whether the nation or the states own the lands in question should be decided by the supreme court, not by Congress.

The bill would have renounced any federal claim to certain oil rich lands, principally lands between the low tide mark and the three-mile limit.

"The ownership of the vast quantity of oil in such areas presents a vital problem for the nation from the standpoint of national defense and conservation," Mr. Truman wrote.

"If the United States owns these areas, they should not be given away. If the supreme court decides that the United States has no title to or interest in the lands, a quitclaim from the Congress is unnecessary."

Gain Postponement

As the clerk started to read the veto message in the House, where the bill originated, administration leaders interrupted to gain a postponement until tomorrow. Thus any vote on overriding the veto was postponed until then. Only a few members were on the floor at the time.

Rep. Doyle (D-Calif), the measure's author, told a reporter he thinks he could muster the two-thirds majority required to override the chief executive. The House adopted the legislation last Saturday by a 188 to 67 vote, which is more than two thirds.

But, he added, there is considerable doubt whether a two-thirds majority could be lined up in the Senate, so he doubts "whether it will be practical" to try and override. The Senate passed the measure 44 to 34.

Doyle said proponents of the bill will meet in the morning to decide what stand to take.

The president points to the suit brought by the Justice department against California to decide the question, which the supreme court will hear next fall, and declared that the court's jurisdiction "should not be interferred with."

Ickes-Pauley Controversy

This suit was one of the chief factors in the controversy between Harold L. Ickes, former secretary of the interior, and Edwin W. Pauley, whom the president wanted to appoint as undersecretary of the navy. Ickes told the Senate Naval committee that Pauley held out the prospect of Democratic campaign contributions from California oil men if the suit were not pressed. Pauley denied it.

The vetoed bill would have renounced any federal claim to the lands involved in the suit.

The president said that the question of their ownership "has been a subject of genuine controversy for a number of years."

In addition the bill would confirm state title to coastal lands out to low tide, and to lands beneath the rivers and lakes. These lands always have been assumed to belong to the states, and they are not involved, the president said, in the supreme court case.

Atom Research Center

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Selection of Camp Upton, N. Y., as the site for one of three new atomic research centers was announced today by Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the army's atomic bomb project.

Yugoslavia Hits Trieste Compromise

Netherlands Warns Conference Against Big Power Domination

By LYNN HEINZERLING

PARIS, Aug. 1 — Yugoslavia bluntly announced today it could not accept the Big Four compromise solution of Trieste, and the Netherlands warned the peace conference delegates that the small nations are opposed to the great powers imposing their will on others.

In a bitter attack on the Trieste decision, Yugoslav Vice-Premier and Chief Delegate Edward Kardelj declared his country would reject the solution because "it abandons large sections of our people to the oppression of Italy."

Explosion Was Expected

The explosion on Trieste came after Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov amended a Greek motion in the Rules committee to open the conference to "any peace question." The committee adopted Molotov's amendment that any delegation could raise any question "pertaining to the draft treaties."

The Yugoslavs have bitterly opposed the Trieste decision since the four-power foreign ministers council accepted the French plan to place the disputed port under international control.

Kardelj, at a plenary session, declared the French line as the boundary between Italy and Yugoslavia was a "negation of all the fundamental principles for which our people fought."

Just before Kardelj's announcement, Dutch Foreign Minister Baron Van Boetzelaer revived the equality dispute between the big and little nations with the declaration that "we are opposed to having the great powers impose their will on the others."

Lie Serves Notice

"It isn't enough to avoid the catastrophies of the past, it isn't enough that the vanquished should change their ways" he said. "The victors themselves, as well, must refrain from a policy of intimidation, egotism and intolerance."

Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations and an observer at the treaty negotiations, served notice to the conference that it must complete its work in time for the United Nations General Assembly session to open on schedule September 23. Failure of the Paris conference to complete its work by then, Lie said, would "hamper us very much."

Transcontinental Record Is Set By B-29

BURBANK, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP)—An army B-29 raced from New York to Burbank today in seven hours, 28 minutes, establishing a new east-west mark between the two points. The previous record, set last May 28 by a Lockheed navy Neptune, was nine hours, 23 minutes.

The craft, piloted by Capt. Boyd L. Grubaugh, left LaGuardia field at 9:54.34 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) and landed here at 2:22.34 p. m. Pacific Standard Time, (5:22.-34 PES). Grumbaugh thus hit almost on the nose his prediction of a seven hour, 30 minute crossing.

It was a record for conventional type planes, although fast pursuits have crossed the country more speedily.

Boy, 13, Confesses He Slew 11-Year-Old Girl

SITKA, Alaska, Aug. 1 (AP)—FBI Agent Lee O. Teague reported tonight a 13-year-old boy had confessed the knife slaying of 11-year-old Anna Marie Ward.

Teague, agent in charge of FBI Alaska headquarters at Anchorage, identified the boy as Chris Didrikson. He disclosed no motive. An autopsy showed 30 knife wounds in the body of the pretty young daughter of City Supervisor William Ward.

The boy is being bound over for federal grand jury action under the juvenile code.

Explosive Issues Are Listed On U. N. Assembly Agenda

51-Nation Body To Tackle Spanish Case And Veto Question

By LARRY HOUCK

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — The United Nations tonight announced the agenda for the September meeting of the General Assembly, listing such explosive issues as the Spanish case and the veto power of the Big Five.

The United Nation 51-nation body will convene September 23 at the refurbished World's Fair site at Flushing for its first session on United States soil.

A third controversial question—that of Jewish immigration into Palestine—was not mentioned, but Egypt and Iraq, acting with the Arab League, have announced they would bring it before the assembly.

Evatt Opposes Veto Power

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, spearheading opposition of small nations to the veto power, officially asked to have the voting item on the agenda.

The Spanish question is certain to come up early. One of the first major items on the calendar will be consideration of the report of the Security council, which went through a series of bitter debates over Generalissimo Franco's regime.

Three vetoes in one session by Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian delegate, blocked a motion to refer the question of outlawing the Falangist regime directly to the General Assembly, but the big body will receive the whole case anyway in the council's report.

This report also will cover the Iranian case which the council still holds on its agenda pending official notice from the Teheran government that all Russian troops are out of Iran.

Membership Bids Studied

Admission of new members was put under a separate listing although all applications must clear through the Security council. A council committee yesterday began studying bids from Albania, Outer Mongolia, Afghanistan and Transjordan and anticipates applications from Siam, Iceland, Sweden and Ireland.

The assembly will elect three new members to the Security council to replace Egypt, Mexico and the Netherlands. Colombia has been mentioned as a strong candidate for Mexico's seat and the other two replacements were expected to be drawn from the Arab League and Western Europe in keeping with geographic distribution of the representatives.

Russia Denies Policies Ruin Hungary's Economy

LONDON, Aug. 1. (AP)—Russia disclosed tonight that she has rejected as "completely groundless" an American complaint that Soviet policies in Hungary were ruining Hungary's economy.

The official Soviet news agency Tass released a Russian note to the United States government saying the American allegations did not "correspond with the facts."

The Soviet government also turned down as "inacceptable" an American suggestion that a Russian, American and British joint commission work out a plan for the economic rehabilitation of Hungary.

The note—which Tass said Russian Deputy Foreign Minister V. G. Dekanozov sent the American ambassador, Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, last Saturday—replied to Smith's July 22 protest against alleged extensive use of Hungarian industrial production for Russian reparations payments and maintenance of Red army occupation forces.

11 Servicemen Killed In Navy Plane Crash

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP)—Eleven army and navy personnel perished early today in the crash and explosion of a four-engined navy Privateer bomber on nearby Kearny Mesa 3½ miles southwest of Marine Camp Miramar.

A spokesman for the navy said the bomber crashed and burned after striking a clump of trees on a hillside near Camp Miriamar. The navy control tower reported it had lost radio contact with the plane four minutes after it took off for Dallas.

The navy, which withheld the victims' names, said the craft carried a navy crew of five and six army and navy passengers. All the passengers were officers.

SALE OF HARD LIQUOR TO ENLISTEES ON NAVY PROPERTY SANCTIONED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—With a "yo ho ho" and a twitch of bell-bottomed trousers, the navy has sanctioned the sale of hard liquor to enlisted men on navy property—for the first time since the grog-drinking days of 1862.

The order applies only to naval bases and stations outside the United States and it stipulates that a soft drink fountain must be run with the bar.

The order was issued July 13 in a letter to commanders of Pacific and Atlantic fleets. It was not made public here until today when reports of the change began to trickle in from abroad.

MISSING GIRL'S BODY FOUND—Police are shown removing the body of Ruth McGurk, 25, from a lonely cranberry bog reservoir near Onset, Mass, yesterday. Investigators disclosed last night that she was raped and strangled. She was last seen alive at a dance hall Saturday night. The grim discovery spurred a search for a young man known only as "Frank," with whom the girl vanished.

Gunshot Volleys Mark Tennessee's Primary Election; McKellar Leads

Veteran Senator Apparently Defeats CIO-PAC Backed Candidate

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 1 (AP)—Mob violence broke out in a Southeast Tennessee county sest tonight in a local flareup over today's Democratic primary in which veteran Sen. Kenneth D. McKellar was piling up a lengthening lead over a CIO-PAC backed candidate in statewide returns.

Sheriff Pat Mansfield, of Athens, in McMinn county, not far from Chattanooga, broke off a telephone conversation with a newspaperman at 9 p. m. (CST) with the words "I can't talk any more—there's mob violence here at the county jail right now."

The sheriff spoke from an area in which disorders were reported twice during the day as the electorate reached fever pitch in a hotly-contested local election.

Paper Concedes Carmack's Defeat

Meanwhile the Nashville Tennessean, state capital newspaper which backed Edward Ward Carmack against McKellar, declared editorially in its first edition that Carmack had lost. Carmack was backed by the CIO-PAC. The newspaper also conceded the defeat of former Gordon Browning, who also had the paper's support, in his race against incumbent Democratic Gov. Jim Nance McCord.

Democratic nomination in statewide contests usually means election in Tennessee.

An Associated Press tabulation gave Carmack, 58,403 and McKellar 72,290 with 1,271 of the state's 2,300 precincts reported.

For governor, 1,300 precincts, the tabulation was: Browning 60,512 and McCord 72,596.

Carmack Declines To Concede

Carmack, speaking from his Murfreesboro home on a radio hookup, declined to concede to McKellar and said there had been "many indications of fraud" in the campaign.

Carmack said that it was still too early to make a formal statement on the outcome of the race but declared that his "fight against dictators" had only begun.

Speaking from Washington over the same station, Sen. McKellar claimed his victory and said the vote was the proper answer to what he described as the "vilification of the campaign."

Education Fund

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—President Truman's signature made law today legislation authorizing $28,500,000 annually in grants to states, on a matching basis, for vocational education in agriculture, home economics, trades and industries and distributive occupations.

ELECTION VIOLENCE BRINGS MOBILIZATION OF TENNESSEE GUARD

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 1 (AP)—State Adj. Gen. Hilton Butler said at midnight that he was mobilizing the Sixth regiment of the state guard in connection with election violence in McMinn county.

Butler said he did not know exactly where the troops would be sent or what they would do but that "I'm going to see the governor right now about that."

The adjutant general said he was talking to a state guard officer by long distance from the McMinn county jail.

"He called my attention to shots which I could hear over the telephone," Butler said, "and then another shot apparently severed the connection. Right then I decided to quit investigating and start moving."

Freighter Reported Sunk Is Still Afloat

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — The freighter American Farmer, which the coast guard reported sunk last night after a deep-sea collision with another American ship, is still afloat and may be towed to port, the United States Lines announced tonight.

The United States Lines said a radio message had been received from Capt. Arthur P. Cronin, master of the American Farmer, who with his crew and passengers was picked up by another ship.

The message read:

"Ship still afloat. Position American Farmer 49.04 north 3.21 west. Number one and number two hatch covers gone. Forward deck awash. May be chance to tow vessel stern first. All crew and passengers safe aboard Benjamin Goodhue bound New York."

Loaded with 8,000 tons of much-needed food for Great Britain, the Farmer was reported last night to have been sunk after a collision with the cattle ship William Riddle about 400 miles west of England.

The new, 8,258-ton freighter carried six passengers and 51 crew members. The 7,176-ton Riddle radioed that she was heading towards a British port at a reduced speed of seven knots, with damage at the waterline.

Frontier Dispute

PARIS, Aug. 1. (AP)—France has proposed to place her frontier dispute with Siam before the International Court of Justice at the Hague, a French government spokesman said today.

Hundreds Of Men Reported Storming County Jail At Athens

ATHENS, Tenn., Aug. 1 (AP)—At least 14 persons were injured, five seriously, in gunfire between a crowd estimated at 500 persons surrounding the McMinn county jail and barricaded officers within tonight in open warfare day strife broke into open tion dispute.

A report circulated among bystanders that one of the jail's defenders had been killed but there was no way to check its truth.

Observers said around 100 deputized officers were within the jail, scarcely half a block away from the county courthouse in the center of the town's main square.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 1—(AP)—Gunshot volleys estimated at "between 200 and 300 shots" rang out tonight at Athens, Tenn., turbulent McMinn county seat, and a physician reported from the town that hundreds of men were storming the county jail in a local election flareup.

The physician telephoned from the Foree hospital that at least four persons had been wounded and brought to the hospital in bitter strife between a GI-backed ticket of candidates and another county faction.

"Listen to the shots—I can hear them from the hospital," said the doctor in a call to the Knoxville Sentinel.

Earlier, Sheriff Pat Mansfield broke off a telephone conversation with the hurriedly-spoken words—"I can't talk any more—there's mob violence here at the county jail right now."

The gunfire capped a series of hectic events marking Tennessee primaries in which the veteran Sen. K. D. McKellar apparently won a sixth-term nomination over the challenge of Edward Ward Carmack.

Photographer Attacked

A photographer at Memphis reported an election official leaped upon him and broke his flash bulb. Memphis CIO-Political Action Committee leaders complained that their watchers were ejected from the voting places or warned to keep their distance.

Even before the disturbance at Athens reached the gunshot stage, a Chattanooga photographer told his newspaper he had been thrown in jail and his film destroyed as he attempted to photograph an election scene.

In his excited telephone conversation, Sheriff Mansfield suggested rapidly-developing violence at Athens, in Southeast Tennessee about 70 miles from Chattanooga.

"Things are too hot here now. I haven't got time to talk to you—I'm standing in front of the door," he said hurriedly as he hung up the telephone.

Chattanooga newspapermen, returning from Athens, had reported seeing two ballot boxes seized by armed deputies sheriff and later witnessing a group of the deputies disarmed by members of the opposing political faction, beaten and taken to an undisclosed destination.

Shots Are Heard

A few minutes after the McMinn sheriff hung up the phone, a Chattanooga Times correspondent reported hearing "at least 100 shots" from the general direction of the county jail. He was not near the jail at the time.

Probers Told How To Trace Faulty Shells

Combat Vets Report They Kept Records On Defective Ammunition

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Combat veterans told the Senate War Investigating committee today that the defective mortar shells which killed their buddies can be traced to the manufacturer—and told it how.

One who served in Italy wrote that his 100th chemical mortar battalion "had quite a bit of defective 4.2-inch ammunition" and that he has its lot numbers. An ex-corporal of the 65th chemical company in Belgium reported that he kept records on "a disgraceful number of defective fuses."

And another soldier wrote that "army regulations require that ammunition be stored and issued by lot-number; that a report, giving lot-number, be made of all accidents involving defective ammunition and the faulty round be impounded."

"From this information," he added, "it should not be difficult to find out who manufactured the rounds which caused muzzle bursts."

Gun Crew Killed

This correspondent also reported that an entire gun crew was killed or wounded by a defective mortar shell in tests at Fort Bragg, N. C., in 1943 and that "a full report was made by the field artillery board and copies will be found in its files."

"These reports show the lot-number of the defective round and from that information the manufacturer can be ascertained," he declared.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) also has reported receiving "a letter from Texas which would indicate that a certain explosion occurred there."

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), another committee member, told reporters a "demand" already is being pressed upon the chemical warfare service for quick delivery of the lot numbers of the 4.2 shells produced by the various manufacturers.

"Once we have those, and the lot of numbers of the shells which caused these casualties, it should prove easy to fix responsibility," he said.

General's Testimony Challenged

The letters from officers and GIs with first-hand, battlefield experience challenged the testimony of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the chemical warfare service, that it would be "almost impossible" to fix responsibility.

They also gave the first information that the defective rounds had turned up in the Pacific as well as the European theater. One reported that at least four men of the 82nd chemical mortar battalion were killed by a muzzle burst on Bougainville island in 1944.

Another combat veteran wrote that "so many lot numbers was set aside to each manufacturer."

This was one of a number of letters the committee has received from officers and GIs who had first-hand experience with the defective shells. The letters were received since the story first came to light in scrutiny of the wartime operations of a munitions combine.

Bookkeeper Injured In Three-Story Fall

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1. (AP)—Police reported that James H. Busick, 57-year-old bookkeeper, was seriously injured today in a fall down a stair well from the twelfth to the ninth floor of the Mercantile Trust Company building.

The bookkeeper was in the building on a business errand, police said.

Busick was taken in a fire department ambulance to Mercy hospital, where attendants said he had suffered a broken left shoulder, a possible fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries.

The victim apparently had been leaning against a low railing encircling the stairwell while waiting for an elevator, police said. In falling, they added, he struck a banister at either the tenth or eleventh floor, then landed face down on the ninth floor stairs.

Bill Freezes Old Age Levy At 1 Per Cent

Measure Provides Larger Federal Grants For Needy Persons

MAJOR ADJOURNMENT BARRIER IS REMOVED

Conferees Discard Controversial "Variable Grant" Provision

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — A compromise Social Security bill, freezing the old age insurance tax at one per cent and providing larger federal grants for needy persons in all states, was agreed upon tonight by a House-Senate conference committee.

The action blasted away what appeared to be the last major barrier to congressional adjournment by tomorrow night.

Under the compromise, approximately 2,000,000 aged persons and 75,000 blind persons would get five extra federal dollars a month beginning October 1.

The conferees discarded the controversial "variable grant" provision which would have given a greater proportion of federal money to low income states, many of them in the South, and set up this system:

New Formula

1. Beginning October 1, the federal government would put up $10 of the first $15 paid as relief to needy aged and blind persons, and would match any state payments made to these persons above $15, on a 50-50 basis. The entire program currently is on a 50-50 federal-state matching basis. The new bill raised from $25 to $25 a month the total amount the federal government will contribute to one recipient.

2. The government will provide six of the first nine dollars paid to dependent children, with the state paying three, and sums given the child above $9 will be matched by the federal government.

Writesr of the compromise said the new formula, departing slightly from the old 50-50 matching system, would work uniformly in all states but would be especially beneficial in low-income states where state contributions now are small.

The new system would mean that an aged or blind person would get a top monthly allowance of $45, with full state participation in the matching arrangement. The present top is $40.

Freezes Old Age Tax

The top for children would be $27.50 for the first child in a family and $18 for other children.

The bill freezes the Social Security old age and survivors insurance tax at one per cent for another year. Had the bill been lost in the rush toward adjornment, as once threatened, the tax would have jumped automatically on January 1 to 2.5 per cent against employes pay and employers' payrolls—or an increased annual tax of $2,000,000,000.

Both chambers have passed the bill freezing the tax, but the stalemate developed when a group of House Republicans declared war on an amendment tacked on by the Senate. This would provide larger federal grants to low-income states, particularly in the South, for relief to needy aged persons, the blind, and dependent children.

The Republican opposition collapsed when the Democrat-dominated Rules committee threatened to bring in a rule that would allow a direct vote on outright acceptance of the Senate bill, with the variable grants feature.

Beer Price Boosted

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Bottled beer for off-premise consumption went up one-half cent to one cent per 12-ounce bottle today under new OPA price ceiling lists, but the price of beer consumed in restaurants and taverns will be rolled back to the June 30 level.

Honeymooners Seized After They Kidnaped Trooper At Gun Point

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP)—A honeymooning couple which kidnaped State Trooper Charles R. Kell at gun point today when he tried to stop them for speeding was captured tonight at Hopewell, where they had abandoned the kidnap car.

First to be taken was the woman, identified by State Police Superintendent Charles H. Schoeffel as 16-year-old Constance Ethel Blondell. She was taken when her husband fled approaching police, leaving her behind.

The man, who Schoeffel said was August Bernard Doak, an escaped convict, was taken a mile and a half away as he tried to cross the Hopewell railroad bridge, which was guarded by a trooper.

Schoeffel said the girl's mother and stepfather live in New York city, and that Doak had escaped from a Southern Michigan penitentiary September 28, 1945, while serving a 10 to 20 year term for armed robbery.

The girl told Schoeffel she and Doak were married last night in Elkton, Md.

Kell was forced into an old black sedan with Tennessee license plates a mile west of Raritan in Somerset county. He escaped when his abductors stopped at Pleasant Run in adjacent Hunterdon county.

The trooper said he was ordered to get out of the car and remove his shirt. He said he kicked Doak in the groin instead, then fled under several pistol shots.

The girl was picked up when she and her companion attempted to break through a state police cordon at Woodsville in Mercer county, a few miles from the former home of Charles A. Lindbergh in Hopewell, where the famous aviator's son was kidnaped.

Troopers Robert Berry and Louis Wert gave chase but the man leaped from the still moving car and escaped.

Truman Declares U. S. Seeks Just Peace, Not Power Or Reparations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — President Truman emphasized tonight that the United States is not seeking to gain power, reparations or territory out of its World War Two victory.

Addressing a dinner celebrating the 39th birthday of the army air force, the president said he spoke for a nation which wanted only a just peace, and that it had "no axes to grind."

He expressed hope that Secretary of State Byrnes will succeed at Paris in working out a peace that is just to both enemies and Allies in the recent war.

The president reminded his audience that it is almost a year since V-J day.

He said he wanted to see the United States take the leadership in the cause of peace in the same spirit displayed in winning the war.

"If you haven't the heart and the mental stamina to win the peace," he said, winning the war doesn't mean too much.

Mr. Truman added that he wanted to see the American production machine become the same force for winning the peace as it was for winning the war.

Mr. Byrnes, the president said, is in Paris in an effort to get started on the road to winning the peace.

"We have no axe to grind," he stressed.

The United States, he continued, wants "no power, territory or reparations," all it wants "is a just peace."

Mr. Truman said it was essential, however, that the United Nations have a 'police force" capable of enforcing "that peace." The United Nations "won't get anywhere" without such a force, he said.

"It's up to you to maintain the morale for peace that you had in war," he told the assembled World War Two pilots.

Tidelands Oil Bill Is Vetoed By President

MEASURE RENOUNCES ANY FEDERAL CLAIM

Administration Leaders Manage To Delay Any Vote On Overriding

By CLAIR JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Truman vetoed the so-called "tidelands oil bill" today, declaring that the question whether the nation or the states own the lands in question should be decided by the supreme court, not by Congress.

The bill would have renounced any federal claim to certain oil rich lands, principally lands between the low tide mark and the three-mile limit.

"The ownership of the vast quantity of oil in such areas presents a vital problem for the nation from the standpoint of national defense and conservation," Mr. Truman wrote.

"If the United States owns these areas, they should not be given away. If the supreme court decides that the United States has no title to or interest in the lands, a quit-claim from the Congress is unnecessary."

Gain Postponement

As the clerk started to read the veto message in the House, where the bill originated, administration leaders interrupted to gain a postponement until tomorrow. Thus any vote on overriding the veto was postponed until then. Only a few members were on the floor at the time.

Rep. Doyle (D-Calif), the measure's author, told a reporter he thinks he could muster the two-thirds majority required to override the chief executive. The House adopted the legislation last Saturday by a 188 to 67 vote, which is more than two thirds.

But, he added, there is considerable doubt whether a two-thirds majority could be lined up in the Senate, so he doubts "whether it will be practical" to try and override. The Senate passed the measure 44 to 34.

Doyle said proponents of the bill will meet in the morning to decide what stand to take.

The president points to the suit brought by the Justice department against California to decide the question, which the supreme court will hear next fall, and declared that the court's jurisdiction "should not be interferred with."

Ickes-Pauley Controversy

This suit was one of the chief factors in the controversy between Harold L. Ickes, former secretary of the interior, and Edwin W. Pauley, whom the president wanted to appoint as undersecretary of the navy. Ickes told the Senate Naval committee that Pauley held out the prospect of Democratic campaign contributions from California oil men if the suit were not pressed. Pauley denied it.

The vetoed bill would have renounced any federal claim to the lands involved in the suit.

The president said that the question of their ownership "has been a subject of genuine controversy for a number of years."

In addition the bill would confirm state title to coastal lands out to low tide, and to lands beneath the rivers and lakes. These lands always have been assumed to belong to the states, and they are not involved, the president said, in the supreme court case.

Yugoslavia Hits Trieste Compromise

By LYNN HEINZERLING

PARIS, Aug. 1 — Yugoslavia bluntly announced today it could not accept the Big Four compromise solution of Trieste, and the Netherlands warned the peace conference delegates that the small nations are opposed to the great powers imposing their will on others.

In a bitter attack on the Trieste decision, Yugoslav Vice-Premier and Chief Delegate Edward Kardelj declared his country would reject the solution because "it abandons large sections of our people to the oppression of Italy."

Explosion Was Expected

The explosion on Trieste came after Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov amended a Greek motion in the Rules committee to open the conference to "any peace question." The committee adopted Molotov's amendment that any delegation could raise any question "pertaining to the draft treaties."

The Yugoslavs have bitterly opposed the Trieste decision since the four-power foreign ministers council accepted the French plan to place the disputed port under international control.

Kardelj, at a plenary session, declared the French line as the boundary between Italy and Yugoslavia was a "negation of all the fundamental principles for which our people fought."

Just before Kardelj's announcement, Dutch Foreign Minister Baron Van Boetzelaer revived the equality dispute between the big and little nations with the declaration that "we are opposed to having the great powers impose their will on the others."

Lie Serves Notice

"It isn't enough to avoid the catastrophies of the past, it isn't enough that the vanquished should change their ways" he said. "The victors themselves, as well, must refrain from a policy of intimidation, egotism and intolerance."

Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations and an observer at the treaty negotiations, served notice to the conference that it must complete its work in time for the United Nations General Assembly session to open on schedule September 23. Failure of the Paris conference to complete its work by then, Lie said, would "hamper us very much."

Transcontinental Record Is Set By B-29

BURBANK, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP)—An army B-29 raced from New York to Burbank today in seven hours, 28 minutes, establishing a new east-west mark between the two points. The previous record, set last May 28 by a Lockheed navy Neptune, was nine hours, 23 minutes.

The craft, piloted by Capt. Boyd L. Grubaugh, left LaGuardia field at 9:54.34 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) and landed here at 2:22.34 p. m. Pacific Standard Time, (5:22.-34 PES). Grumbaugh thus hit almost on the nose his prediction of a seven hour, 30 minute crossing.

It was a record for conventional type planes, although fast pursuits have crossed the country more speedily.

Boy, 13, Confesses He Slew 11-Year-Old Girl

SITKA, Alaska, Aug. 1 (AP)—FBI Agent Lee O. Teague reported tonight a 13-year-old boy had confessed the knife slaying of 11-year-old Anna Marie Ward.

Teague, agent in charge of FBI Alaska headquarters at Anchorage, identified the boy as Chris Didrikson. He disclosed no motive. An autopsy showed 30 knife wounds in the body of the pretty young daughter of City Supervisor William Ward.

The boy is being bound over for federal grand jury action under the juvenile code.

Explosive Issues Are Listed On U. N. Assembly Agenda

51-Nation Body To Tackle Spanish Case And Veto Question

By LARRY HOUCK

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — The United Nations tonight announced the agenda for the September meeting of the General Assembly, listing such explosive issues as the Spanish case and the veto power of the Big Five.

The United Nation 51-nation body will convene September 23 at the refurbished World's Fair site at Flushing for its first session on United States soil.

A third controversial question—that of Jewish immigration into Palestine—was not mentioned, but Egypt and Iraq, acting with the Arab League, have announced they would bring it before the assembly.

Evatt Opposes Veto Power

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, spearheading opposition of small nations to the veto power, officially asked to have the voting item on the agenda.

The Spanish question is certain to come up early. One of the first major items on the calendar will be consideration of the report of the Security council, which went through a series of bitter debates over Generalissimo Franco's regime.

Three vetoes in one session by Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian delegate, blocked a motion to refer the question of outlawing the Falangist regime directly to the General Assembly, but the big body will receive the whole case anyway in the council's report.

This report also will cover the Iranian case which the council still holds on its agenda pending official notice from the Teheran government that all Russian troops are out of Iran.

Membership Bids Studied

Admission of new members was put under a separate listing although all applications must clear through the Security council. A council committee yesterday began studying bids from Albania, Outer Mongolia, Afghanistan and Transjordan and anticipates applications from Siam, Iceland, Sweden and Ireland.

The assembly will elect three new members to the Security council to replace Egypt, Mexico and the Netherlands. Colombia has been mentioned as a strong candidate for Mexico's seat and the other two replacements were expected to be drawn from the Arab League and Western Europe in keeping with geographic distribution of the representatives.

Russia Denies Policies Ruin Hungary's Economy

LONDON, Aug. 1. (AP)—Russia disclosed tonight that she has rejected as "completely groundless" an American complaint that Soviet policies in Hungary were ruining Hungary's economy.

The official Soviet news agency Tass released a Russian note to the United States government saying the American allegations did not "correspond with the facts."

The Soviet government also turned down as "inacceptable" an American suggestion that a Russian, American and British joint commission work out a plan for the economic rehabilitation of Hungary.

The note—which Tass said Russian Deputy Foreign Minister V. G. Dekanozov sent the American ambassador, Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, last Saturday—replied to Smith's July 22 protest against alleged extensive use of Hungarian industrial production for Russian reparations payments and maintenance of Red army occupation forces.

11 Servicemen Killed In Navy Plane Crash

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP)—Eleven army and navy personnel perished early today in the crash and explosion of a four-engined navy Privateer bomber on nearby Kearny Mesa 3½ miles southwest of Marine Camp Miramar.

A spokesman for the navy said the bomber crashed and burned after striking a clump of trees on a hillside near Camp Miriamar. The navy control tower reported it had lost radio contact with the plane four minutes after it took off for Dallas.

The navy, which withheld the victims' names, said the craft carried a navy crew of five and six army and navy passengers. All the passengers were officers.

SALE OF HARD LIQUOR TO ENLISTEES ON NAVY PROPERTY SANCTIONED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—With a "yo ho ho" and a twitch of bell-bottomed trousers, the navy has sanctioned the sale of hard liquor to enlisted men on navy property—for the first time since the grog-drinking days of 1862.

The order applies only to naval bases and stations outside the United States and it stipulates that a soft drink fountain must be run with the bar.

The order was issued July 13 in a letter to commanders of Pacific and Atlantic fleets. It was not made public here until today when reports of the change began to trickle in from abroad.

MISSING GIRL'S BODY FOUND—Police are shown removing the body of Ruth McGurk, 25, from a lonely cranberry bog reservoir near Onset, Mass, yesterday. Investigators disclosed last night that she was raped and strangled. She was last seen alive at a dance hall Saturday night. The grim discovery spurred a search for a young man known only as "Frank," with whom the girl vanished.

Gunshot Volleys Mark Tennessee's Primary Election; McKellar Leads

Veteran Senator Apparently Defeats CIO-PAC Backed Candidate

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 1 (AP)—Mob violence broke out in a Southeast Tennessee county seat tonight in a local flareup over today's Democratic primary in which veteran Sen. Kennet D. McKellar was piling up a lengthening lead over a CIO-PAC backed candidate in statewide returns.

Sheriff Pat Mansfield, of Athens, in McMinn county, not far from Chattanooga, broke off a telephone conversation with a newspaperman at 9 p. m. (CST) with the words "I can't talk any more—there's mob violence here at the county jail right now."

The sheriff spoke from an area in which disorders were reported twice during the day as the electorate reached fever pitch in a hotly-contested local election.

Paper Concedes Carmack's Defeat

Meanwhile the Nashville Tennessean, state capital newspaper which backed Edward Ward Carmack against McKellar, declared editorially in its first edition that Carmack had lost. Carmack was backed by the CIO-PAC. The newspaper also conceded the defeat of former Gordon Browning, who also had the paper's support, in his race against incumbent Democratic Gov. Jim Nance McCord.

Democratic nomination in statewide contests usually means election in Tennessee.

An Associated Press tabulation gave Carmack, 58,403 and McKellar 72,290 with 1,271 of the state's 2,300 precincts reported.

For governor, 1,300 precincts, the tabulation was: Browning 60,512 and McCord 72,596.

Carmack Declines To Concede

Carmack, speaking from his Murfreesboro home on a radio hookup, declined to concede to McKellar and said there had been "many indications of fraud" in the campaign.

Carmack said that it was still too early to make a formal statement on the outcome of the race but declared that his "fight against dictators" had only begun.

Speaking from Washington over the same station, Sen. McKellar claimed his victory and said the vote was the proper answer to what he described as the "vilification of the campaign."

ELECTION VIOLENCE BRINGS MOBILIZATION OF TENNESSEE GUARD

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 1 (AP)—State Adj. Gen. Hilton Butler said at midnight that he was mobilizing the Sixth regiment of the state guard in connection with election violence in McMinn county.

Butler said he did not know exactly where the troops would be sent or what they would do but that "I'm going to see the governor right now about that."

The adjutant general said he was talking to a state guard officer by long distance from the McMinn county jail.

"He called my attention to shots which I could hear over the telephone," Butler said, "and then another shot apparently severed the connection. Right then I decided to quit investigating and start moving."

Hundreds Of Men Reported Storming County Jail At Athens

ATHENS, Tenn., Aug. 1 (AP)—At least 14 persons were injured, five seriously, in gunfire between a crowd estimated at 500 persons surrounding the McMinn county jail and barricaded officers within tonight in open warfare day strife broke into open tion dispute.

A report circulated among bystanders that one of the jail's defenders had been killed but there was no way to check its truth.

Observers said around 100 deputized officers were within the jail, scarcely half a block away from the county courthouse in the center of the town's main square.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 1—(AP)—Gunshot volleys estimated at "between 200 and 300 shots" rang out tonight at Athens, Tenn., turbulent McMinn county seat, and a physician reported from the town that hundreds of men were storming the county jail in a local election flareup.

The physician telephoned from the Foree hospital that at least four persons had been wounded and brought to the hospital in bitter strife between a GI-backed ticket of candidates and another county faction.

"Listen to the shots—I can hear them from the hospital," said the doctor in a call to the Knoxville Sentinel.

Earlier, Sheriff Pat Mansfield broke off a telephone conversation with the hurriedly-spoken words—"I can't talk any more—there's mob violence here at the county jail right now."

The gunfire capped a series of hectic events marking Tennessee primaries in which the veteran Sen. K. D. McKellar apparently won a sixth-term nomination over the challenge of Edward Ward Carmack.

Photographer Attacked

A photographer at Memphis reported an election official leaped upon him and broke his flash bulb. Memphis CIO-Political Action Committee leaders complained that their watchers were ejected from the voting places or warned to keep their distance.

Even before the disturbance at Athens reached the gunshot stage, a Chattanooga photographer told his newspaper he had been thrown in jail and his film destroyed as he attempted to photograph an election scene.

In his excited telephone conversation, Sheriff Mansfield suggested rapidly-developing violence at Athens, in Southeast Tennessee about 70 miles from Chattanooga.

"Things are too hot here now. I haven't got time to talk to you—I'm standing in front of the door," he said hurriedly as he hung up the telephone.

Chattanooga newspapermen, returning from Athens, had reported seeing two ballot boxes seized by armed deputies sheriff and later witnessing a group of the deputies disarmed by members of the opposing political faction, beaten and taken to an undisclosed destination.

Shots Are Heard

A few minutes after the McMinn sheriff hung up the phone, a Chattanooga Times correspondent reported hearing "at least 100 shots" from the general direction of the county jail. He was not near the jail at the time.

Freighter Reported Sunk Is Still Afloat

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — The freighter American Farmer, which the coast guard reported sunk last night after a deep-sea collision with another American ship, is still afloat and may be towed to port, the United States Lines announced tonight.

The United States Lines said a radio message had been received from Capt. Arthur P. Cronin, master of the American Farmer, who with his crew and passengers was picked up by another ship.

The message read:

"Ship still afloat. Position American Farmer 49.04 north 3.21 west. Number one and number two hatch covers gone. Forward deck awash. May be chance to tow vessel stern first. All crew and passengers safe aboard Benjamin Goodhue bound New York."

Loaded with 8,000 tons of much-needed food for Great Britain, the Farmer was reported last night to have been sunk after a collision with the cattle ship William Riddle about 400 miles west of England.

The new, 8,258-ton freighter carried six passengers and 51 crew members. The 7,176-ton Riddle radioed that she was heading towards a British port at a reduced speed of seven knots, with damage at the waterline.

Probers Told How To Trace Faulty Shells

Combat Vets Report They Kept Records On Defective Ammunition

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Combat veterans told the Senate War Investigating committee today that the defective mortar shells which killed their buddies can be traced to the manufacturer—and told it how.

One who served in Italy wrote that his 100th chemical mortar battalion "had quite a bit of defective 4.2-inch ammunition" and that he has its lot numbers. An ex-corporal of the 65th chemical company in Belgium reported that he kept records on "a disgraceful number of defective fuses."

And another soldier wrote that "army regulations require that ammunition be stored and issued by lot-number; that a report, giving lot-number, be made of all accidents involving defective ammunition and the faulty round be impounded."

"From this information," he added, "it should not be difficult to find out who manufactured the rounds which caused muzzle bursts."

Gun Crew Killed

This correspondent also reported that an entire gun crew was killed or wounded by a defective mortar shell in tests at Fort Bragg, N. C., in 1943 and that "a full report was made by the field artillery board and copies will be found in its files."

"These reports show the lot-number of the defective round and from that information the manufacturer can be ascertained," he declared.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) also has reported receiving "a letter from Texas which would indicate that a certain explosion occurred there."

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), another committee member, told reporters a "demand" already is being pressed upon the chemical warfare service for quick delivery of the lot numbers of the 4.2 shells produced by the various manufacturers.

"Once we have those, and the lot of numbers of the shells which caused these casualties, it should prove easy to fix responsibility," he said.

General's Testimony Challenged

The letters from officers and GIs with first-hand, battlefield experience challenged the testimony of Maj. Gen. Alden H. Waitt, chief of the chemical warfare service, that it would be "almost impossible" to fix responsibility.

They also gave the first information that the defective rounds had turned up in the Pacific as well as the European theater. One reported that at least four men of the 82nd chemical mortar battalion were killed by a muzzle burst on Bougainville island in 1944.

Another combat veteran wrote that "so many lot numbers was set aside to each manufacturer."

This was one of a number of letters the committee has received from officers and GIs who had first-hand experience with the defective shells. The letters were received since the story first came to light in scrutiny of the wartime operations of a munitions combine.

Bookkeeper Injured In Three-Story Fall

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1. (AP)—Police reported that James H. Busick, 57-year-old bookkeeper, was seriously injured today in a fall down a stair well from the twelfth to the ninth floor of the Mercantile Trust Company building.

The bookkeeper was in the building on a business errand, police said.

Busick was taken in a fire department ambulance to Mercy hospital, where attendants said he had suffered a broken left shoulder, a possible fracture of the skull and possible internal injuries.

The victim apparently had been leaning against a low railing encircling the stairwell while waiting for an elevator, police said. In falling, they added, he struck a banister at either the tenth or eleventh floor, then landed face down on the ninth floor stairs.

Bill Freezes Old Age Levy At 1 Per Cent

Measure Provides Larger Federal Grants For Needy Persons

MAJOR ADJOURNMENT BARRIER IS REMOVED

Conferees Discard Controversial "Variable Grant" Provision

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — A compromise Social Security bill, freezing the old age insurance tax at one per cent and providing larger federal grants for needy persons in all states, was agreed upon tonight by a House-Senate conference committee.

The action blasted away what appeared to be the last major barrier to congressional adjournment by tomorrow night.

Under the compromise, approximately 2,000,000 aged persons and 75,000 blind persons would get five extra federal dollars a month beginning October 1.

The conferees discarded the controversial "variable grant" provision which would have given a greater proportion of federal money to low income states, many of them in the South, and set up this system:

New Formula

1. Beginning October 1, the federal government would put up $10 of the first $15 paid as relief to needy aged and blind persons, and would match any state payments made to these persons above $15, on a 50-50 basis. The entire program currently is on a 50-50 federal-state matching basis. The new bill raised from $25 to $25 a month the total amount the federal government will contribute to one recipient.

2. The government will provide six of the first nine dollars paid to dependent children, with the state paying three, and sums given the child above $9 will be matched by the federal government.

Writers of the compromise said the new formula, departing slightly from the old 50-50 matching system, would work uniformly in all states but would be especially beneficial in low-income states where state contributions now are small.

The new system would mean that an aged or blind person would get a top monthly allowance of $45, with full state participation in the matching arrangement. The present top is $40.

Freezes Old Age Tax

The top for children would be $27.50 for the first child in a family and $18 for other children.

The bill freezes the Social Security old age and survivors insurance tax at one per cent for another year. Had the bill been lost in the rush toward adjornment, as once threatened, the tax would have jumped automatically on January 1 to 2.5 per cent against employes pay and employers' payrolls—or an increased annual tax of $2,000,000,000.

Both chambers have passed the bill freezing the tax, but the stalemate developed when a group of House Republicans declared war on an amendment tacked on by the Senate. This would provide larger federal grants to low-income states, particularly in the South, for relief to needy aged persons, the blind, and dependent children.

The Republican opposition collapsed when the Democrat-dominated Rules committee threatened to bring in a rule that would allow a direct vote on outright acceptance of the Senate bill, with the variable grants feature.

Beer Price Boosted

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Bottled beer for off-premise consumption went up one-half cent to one cent per 12-ounce bottle today under new OPA price ceiling lists, but the price of beer consumed in restaurants and taverns will be rolled back to the June 30 level.

Honeymooners Seized After They Kidnaped Trooper At Gun Point

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP)—A honeymooning couple which kidnaped State Trooper Charles R. Kell at gun point today when he tried to stop them for speeding was captured tonight at Hopewell, where they had abandoned the kidnap car.

First to be taken was the woman, identified by State Police Superintendent Charles H. Schoeffel as 16-year-old Constance Ethel Blondell. She was taken when her husband fled approaching police, leaving her behind.

The man, who Schoeffel said was August Bernard Doak, an escaped convict, was taken a mile and a half away as he tried to cross the Hopewell railroad bridge, which was guarded by a trooper.

Schoeffel said the girl's mother and stepfather live in New York city, and that Doak had escaped from a Southern Michigan penitentiary September 28, 1945, while serving a 10 to 20 year term for armed robbery.

The girl told Schoeffel she and Doak were married last night in Elkton, Md.

Kell was forced into an old black sedan with Tennessee license plates a mile west of Raritan in Somerset county. He escaped when his abductors stopped at Pleasant Run in adjacent Hunterdon county.

The trooper said he was ordered to get out of the car and remove his shirt. He said he kicked Doak in the groin instead, then fled under several pistol shots.

The girl was picked up when she and her companion attempted to break through a state police cordon at Woodsville in Mercer county, a few miles from the former home of Charles A. Lindbergh in Hopewell, where the famous aviator's son was kidnaped.

Troopers Robert Berry and Louis Wert gave chase but the man leaped from the still moving car and escaped.

Truman Declares U. S. Seeks Just Peace, Not Power Or Reparations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — President Truman emphasized tonight that the United States is not seeking to gain power, reparations or territory out of its World War Two victory.

Addressing a dinner celebrating the 39th birthday of the army air force, the president said he spoke for a nation which wanted only a just peace, and that it had "no axes to grind."

He expressed hope that Secretary of State Byrnes will succeed at Paris in working out a peace that is just to both enemies and Allies in the recent war.

The president reminded his audience that it is almost a year since V-J day.

He said he wanted to see the United States take the leadership in the cause of peace in the same spirit displayed in winning the war.

"If you haven't the heart and the mental stamina to win the peace," he said, winning the war doesn't mean too much.

Mr. Truman added that he wanted to see the American production machine become the same force for winning the peace as it was for winning the war.

Mr. Byrnes, the president said, is in Paris in an effort to get started on the road to winning the peace.

"We have no axe to grind," he stressed.

The United States, he continued, wants "no power, territory or reparations," all it wants "is a just peace."

Mr. Truman said it was essential, however, that the United Nations have a 'police force" capable of enforcing "that peace." The United Nations "won't get anywhere" without such a force, he said.

"It's up to you to maintain the morale for peace that you had in war," he told the assembled World War Two pilots.

Future Of U. N. Rests With Big Powers, Lie Says

Secretary Declares Veto Imposes Obligation To Seek Agreement

By LARRY HOUCK

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—The future of the United Nations rests with the big powers, Secretary-General Trygve Lie said today in emphasizing they must seek agreement in a spirit of compromise and mutual trust.

Declaring that the veto power granted to the United States, Russia, Great Britain, China and France "imposed upon them an obligation to seek agreement among themselves," Lie continued:

"The United Nations was not designed to perform the functions of a peace conference nor was it equipped to act as a referee between the great powers. It was founded upon the basic assumption that there would be agreement between the permanent members (Big Five) of the Security council upon major issues.

Lengthy Report

"Many of the issues which have come before the Security council have arisen from inability to reach such agreement."

Lie made his statements in a lengthy report for the General Assembly covering activities of all organs of the world agency since its first meetings in London. The report, released by Lie's office here in his absence on a tour of Europe, will be taken up by the assembly when it convened September 23.

The secretary-general said flatly that he did not feel that the United Nations so far has fulfilled the broad hopes placed in it and questioned whether the desire to establish the authority of the United Nations has not sometimes "been impeded by a lack of mutual trust among members."

"Life Or Death" Choice

"I should be failing in my duty in presenting this report if I did not emphasize the absolute necessity that the powers should seek agreement among themselves, in a spirit of mutual understanding and a will to compromise, and not abandon their efforts until such agreement has been reached," he said.

Then describing the United Nations as no stronger than the collective will of the nations, he said:

"It can be used and developed in the light of its activities and experience to the untold benefit of humanity, or it can be discarded and broken. As in the control of atomic power, the choice is between life and death. The failure of the United Nations would mean the failure of peace, the triumph of destruction."

Man Finally Succeeds In Committing Suicide

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Alsieo Alberti went to many doctors complaining of "ripping pains in the chest" but they assured him he was in good condition for a man of 82.

Still he worried more and more, said his daughter, Anita.

Sunday he swallowed three bottles of a liquid his doctor said was poisonous along with six sleeping pills, two beers and a pint of whisky. He was rushed to a hospital.

Shortly after he was released yesterday, a motorist saw him climb a fence and leap into the East river. He was pulled from the water and taken to a hospital suffering from submersion.

An attendant making his rounds early today thought the old man was sleeping but quickly switched on the light when he saw a dark stain on the pillow.

Alberti's throat had been cut with a razor blade and he was dead.

Chief Medical Examiner Thomas A. Gonzales said it was suicide.

Gunshot---Hundreds

McMinn county jail said that he estimated "between 200 and 300 shots have been fired."

Knoxville Journal Reported Ed Harris, in a telephone call to his paper, said the veterans had asked him to leave the city to escape being hurt or killed. He telephoned from Sweetwater, Tenn., ten miles from Athens.

"The GIs were planning to storm the jail before I was told to leave," he said.

The Journal further staid that Allan Stout, announcer for Knoxville radio station WROL, in a recorded broadcast to his station, was close to the scene of the firing.

According to the broadcast all women were ordered off the streets and gunshots can be heard plainly on the record, the paper said.

Earlier J. B. Collins, reporter-photographer for the Chattanooga News Free Press, had told his paper he was arrested at Athens, held in jail for more than an hour and his film destroyed.

Ballot Box Removed

Feeling has been high in McMinn county where an all-GI ticket was offered in opposition to a slate backed by the political organization of Paul Cantrell, state senator and a candidate for sheriff. Mansfield, a chief lieutenant in Cantrell's organization, is running for state senator.

Managing Editor James E. Jarvis, of the Chattanooga Times, said he saw two supporters of the GI-ticket break out of a lockedpolling place at Athens shortly after counting of the ballots started. They were threatened by an officer with a drawn revolver as they walked away, Jarvis said.

Then, he related, a car bearing several deputies drove up to the polling place and then ballot box was removed under armed guard to the county jail.

Shortly afterwards, he said, seven deputies were disarmed by a crowd of veterans and their supporters, taken into a filling station, beaten and then hustled into a car and driven out of town.

There has been no further report on what became of the men.

When Mansfield came to the telephone tonight, he was asked "how the situation was."

"Oh, it's going Democratic," he said in a light tone.

Then the connection was broken. Operators rang the Athens number back and Mansfield again answered.

"I can't talk to you now, things are too hot," he said. "There's mob violence here at the county jail right now."

Efforts to have another call completed were unsuccessful and there was no immediate report on what was occurring there.

In Monroe county, Jake Tipton, about 60, was shot to death in front of the rural voting place near Tellico Plains, but there was doubt that his death was directly connected with the election.

G. H. Biereley, undertaker who went for the body, said he understood this shooting stemmed from an "old grudge."

At Sweetwater, also in Monroe county, hospital attaches said Clyde Lindsey, Vonreo, and a boy named Johnson were treated for knife wounds.

At Athens, in turbulent McMinn county, two men identified at the Forre hospital as Bob Hairrell and Tom Gillespie received treatment for bullet and knife wounds.

Reporter-Photographer Collins, whose film was reported at Athens, was the second photographer to have trouble in Tennessee election flare-ups.

The other was George Pierce, Press Scimitar photographer at Memphis, who reported an election official sprang at him and broke his flash bulb as he photographed a padlocked ballot box.

Future Of U. N. Rests With Big Powers, Lie Says

Secretary Declares Veto Imposes Obligation To Seek Agreement

By LARRY HOUCK

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—The future of the United Nations rests with the big powers, Secretary-General Trygve Lie said today in emphasizing they must seek agreement in a spirit of compromise and mutual trust.

Declaring that the veto power granted to the United States, Russia, Great Britain, China and France "imposed upon them an obligation to seek agreement among themselves," Lie continued:

"The United Nations was not designed to perform the functions of a peace conference nor was it equipped to act as a referee between the great powers. It was founded upon the basic assumption that there would be agreement between the permanent members (Big Five) of the Security council upon major issues.

Lengthy Report

"Many of the issues which have come before the Security council have arisen from inability to reach such agreement."

Lie made his statements in a lengthy report for the General Assembly covering activities of all organs of the world agency since its first meetings in London. The report, released by Lie's office here in his absence on a tour of Europe, will be taken up by the assembly when it convened September 23.

The secretary-general said flatly that he did not feel that the United Nations so far has fulfilled the broad hopes placed in it and questioned whether the desire to establish the authority of the United Nations has not sometimes "been impeded by a lack of mutual trust among members."

"Life Or Death" Choice

"I should be failing in my duty in presenting this report if I did not emphasize the absolute necessity that the powers should seek agreement among themselves, in a spirit of mutual understanding and a will to compromise, and not abandon their efforts until such agreement has been reached," he said.

Then describing the United Nations as no stronger than the collective will of the nations, he said:

"It can be used and developed in the light of its activities and experience to the untold benefit of humanity, or it can be discarded and broken. As in the control of atomic power, the choice is between life and death. The failure of the United Nations would mean the failure of peace, the triumph of destruction."

Gunshot---Hundreds

McMinn county jail said that he estimated "between 200 and 300 shots have been fired."

Knoxville Journal Reported Ed Harris, in a telephone call to his paper, said the veterans had asked him to leave the city to escape being hurt or killed. He telephoned from Sweetwater, Tenn., ten miles from Athens.

"The Gis were planning to storm the jail before I was told to leave," he said.

The Journal further staid that Allan Stout, announcer for Knoxville radio station WROL, in a recorded broadcast to his station, was close to the scene of the firing.

According to the broadcast all women were ordered off the streets and gunshots can be heard plainly on the record, the paper said.

Earlier J. B. Collins, reporter-photographer for the Chattanooga News Free Press, had told his paper he was arrested at Athens, held in jail for more than an hour and his film destroyed.

Ballot Box Removed

Feeling has been high in McMinn county where an all-GI ticket was offered in opposition to a slate backed by the political organization of Paul Cantrell, state senator and a candidate for sheriff. Mansfield, a chief lieutenant in Cantrell's organization, is running for state senator.

Managing Editor James E. Jarvis, of the Chattanooga Times, said he saw two supporters of the GI-ticket break out of a lockedpolling place at Athens shortly after counting of the ballots started. They were threatened by an officer with a drawn revolver as they walked away, Jarvis said.

Then, he related, a car bearing several deputies drove up to the polling place and then ballot box was removed under armed guard to the county jail.

Shortly afterwards, he said, seven deputies were disarmed by a crowd of veterans and their supporters, taken into a filling station, beaten and then hustled into a car and driven out of town.

There has been no further report on what became of the men.

When Mansfield came to the telephone tonight, he was asked "how the situation was."

"Oh,' it's going Democratic," he said in a light tone.

Then the connection was broken. Operators rang the Athens number back and Mansfield again answered.

"I can't talk to you now, things are too hot," he said. "There's mob violence here at the county jail right now."

Efforts to have another call completed were unsuccessful and there was no immediate report on what was occurring there.

In Monroe county, Jake Tipton, about 60, was shot to death in front of the rural voting place near Tellico Plains, but there was doubt that his death was directly connected with the election.

G. H. Biereley, undertaker who went for the body, said he understood this shooting stemmed from an "old grudge."

At Sweetwater, also in Monroe county, hospital attaches said Clyde Lindsey, Vonreo, and a boy named Johnson were treated for knife wounds.

At Athens, in turbulent McMinn county, two men identified at the Foree hospital as Bob Hairrell and Tom Gillespie received treatment for bullet and knife wounds.

Reporter-Photographer Collins, whose film was reported at Athens, was the second photographer to have trouble in Tennessee election flare-ups.

The other was George Pierce, Press Scimitar photographer at Memphis, who reported an election official sprang at him and broke his flash bulb as he photographed a padlocked ballot box.

Man Finally Succeeds In Committing Suicide

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Aldeo Alberti went to many doctors complaining of "ripping pains in the chest" but they assured him he was in good condition for a man of 62.

Still he worried more and more, said his daughter, Anita.

Sunday he swallowed three bottles of a liquid his doctor said was poisonous along with six sleeping pills, two beers and a pint of whisky. He was rushed to a hospital.

Shortly after he was released yesterday, a motorist saw him climb a fence and leap into the East river. He was pulled from the water and taken to a hospital suffering from submersion.

An attendant making his rounds early today thought the old man was sleeping but quickly switched on the light when he saw a dark stain on the pillow.

Alberti's throat had been cut with a razor blade and he was dead.

Chief Medical Examiner Thomas A. Gonzales said it was suicide.

Truman Orders Army And Navy To Cut Spending

Other U. S. Agencies Directed To Retrench To Combat Inflation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Truman ordered the army and navy today to "reduce expenditures substantially" below their present programs despite protests from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

The Maritime Commission also was directed specifically to retrench, making it virtually certain that its plans for seven modern new passenger liners will be cancelled, leaving the United States without a single big passenger liner except for those to be reconverted from troopships.

Mr. Truman wrote the heads of all departments and agencies that "the present inflationary situation and the need for reducing the public debt make it imperative that expenditures be held at the lowest possible level."

Eisenhower and Nimitz have protested to the advisory board of Dr. John R. Steelman's reconversion office that their spending plans, already reduced below original budget estimates, cannot safely be trimmed any further. Steelman had proposed that the bulk of the proposed reductions come from the armed services. Eisenhower declared the army will need $200,000,000 more than its present appropriation to cover pay increases.

The president wrote that "it is the intention of the Congress and of the administration that the recent civilian pay increase be absorbed to a very considerable extent. I believe this can be done if active attention is given to all feasible methods of improving personnel utilization. Economics and short cuts should be introduced in all operations."

COL. AUSTIN BAUGHMAN DIES NEAR FREDERICK

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 1. (AP)—Col. E. Austin Baughman, who wrote many of Maryland's automobile laws as state commissioner of motor vehicles from 1916 to 1935, died today at his family estate, Poplar Terrace, near Frederick.

Private funeral services will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. at the St. John's Catholic church in Frederick.

Col. Baughman was stricken at his breakfast table and died almost immediately.

The son of the late Gen. L. Victor Baughman and Helen Abell Baughman, the colonel—whose military title came from an appointment to the staff of Gov. Edwin Warfield in the state guard—was born October 10, 1882, at Frederick.

He was the third Maryland commissioner of motor vehicles since the creation of the office in 1910.

During his 19-year tenure as commissioner, he consistently favored more and stronger motor vehicle regulation and sent to the General Assembly many of the measures that have become basic parts of the present statute.

Bayonets Into Sickles Is New Korean Routine

Terminal Leave Pay Application Forms Are Expected To Be Ready In 10 Days

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. — (AP)—Without waiting for President Truman to sign the bill, officials got busy today on arrangements for paying some $2,431,000,000 of terminal leave pay to an estimated 15,000,000 World War II enlisted men and women.

The government printing office began work on application forms which are expected to be ready in 10 days. They will be distributed to veterans through the post office probably before the month's end, army officials said.

The plan calls for payment in cash of amounts under $50 and in five-year non-negotiable bonds for larger sums.

Under the War department's procedure, veterans will send their applications to the finance office of the posts where they were discharged and receive cash or bonds by mail.

The method of paying navy, marine and coast guard veterans was worked out in advance in co-ordination with the War department and is believed to be similar, but the Navy and Treasury departments temporarily withheld details.

Officials declined to speculate how long it will take for the checks or bonds to be delivered. An initial rush of possibly millions of applications is looked for. The War department made preparations for a disbursing job requiring the temporary expansion of finance office staffs by hundreds of employes.

Although not otherwise negotiable, the bonds may be used to pay premiums on wartime or permanent government life insurance, to convert one to the other, or to pay a policy loan granted before enactment of the bill. Those retaining bonds until maturity will be paid 2½ per cent interest.

Amounts due for leave earned but unused during military service at the rate of two and a half days per month will be figured by the veteran himself at the rate of his base and longevity pay at the time of discharge, plus 70 cents a day subsistance allowance and—in the case of enlisted men of the first three grades—$1.25 a day for quarters

Prisoners Know Jail Inside Out

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill. (AP)—Oldtimers spin many escape yarns about the antiquated Hardin County jail here, but authorities hoped a year might pass without a break.

Ten months after one prisoner was recaptured twice after twice escaping, two youths sawed a cell bar and poked an escape route through the brick jail wall.

Although they were re-taken, State's Attorney Clarence Soward threatened to act to stop the housing of prisoners in the vulnerable calaboose.

Veterans' benefits come out of taxes, and veterans are now taxpayers.

Map Changers and That Elusive Peace

The long-desired and long-blocked peace conference is well underway. Twenty-one Allied nations are represented at Paris, but the show is programmed by the four biggest. The small nations will have a voice, but the conference actually is only a consultative body, with power only to recommend, and its decisions can be completely overruled by the Big Four.

The agenda is restricted to considering treaties with Germany's five wartime partners—Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland. Italy has the unenviable distinction of being the greatest loser among the lesser enemy nations. As matters now stand, the peace treaty would deprive Italy of colonies, award the northwest mountain areas to France, bring the Italian frontier with Yugoslavia many miles westward, internationalize the Italian city of Trieste and require Italy to pay a possible $300,000,000 in reparations to Russia, Greece and Yugoslavia—mainly Russia.

But Italy has at last been set on its feet, it is contended, with free trade established, its reparations and war claim liability determined, military occupation approaching an end, the way opened to enter the fold of the United Nations.

Russia goes into this conference as the biggest winner in war prizes to date. Moscow has imposed "friendly governments" on Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland. Russia has completely absorbed the Baltic states. But Russia's power drive in the Mediterranean has been stalled, with the Italian colonial issue deferred, the Dodecanese islands turned over to Greece and Soviet troops to be withdrawn from the Dardanelles under agreement.

But the real problem children of Europe, Germany and Austria, are not on the agenda. Nor has a date been set for their consideration. We repeat that the scope and authority of the conference are so limited that it is little more than a 21-nation forum, and observers at the scene see only the hope that it can develop sufficient world opinion to rescue future European settlement from big power conflict and stalemate caused by Russia's policies and tactics of delaying and beclouding the issues.

John Foster Dulles, Republican foreign policy expert and an alternate member of the American delegation to the United Nations General Assembly, has expressed the view that the peace meeting in Paris will not "accomplish much" and that unless the Big Four powers can reconcile their views "there is no use in having a formal conference." We agree with his contention that the conference started its deliberations on the basis of compromises which were painfully negotiated by the Big Four and which would satisfy no one. These compromises will undoubtedly work much injustice and will perpetuate much uncertainty and unrest.

Victory did not bring peace. Perhaps world opinion can, but its realization may be several conferences around the corner.

California now has 19 American Legion posts, each of which has a 1946 membership in excess of 1,000.

British Wheat Deal Irks U. S. Lawmakers

It is unfortunate that the British deal to buy 600 million bushels of Canadian wheat during the next four years, with a guaranteed floor under prices, has come so soon after approval of the British loan. The deal is certain to cast doubt on the sincerity of the British pledge to support American plans for expanded world-wide trade unfettered by special arrangements among nations. It is already bringing objections from lawmakers who feel that the British ought to spend the money they borrow here on American products.

True, the United States has just completed a deal to buy the Cuban sugar crop at a guaranteed price which is very similar to the British-Canadian agreement. If Washington is eager to have other nations abstain from government-to-government arrangements and put trade back into the hands of private enterprise, it may be held, the United States must set the pace by following the same course itself. There is a difference in the two deals. The United States did not borrow the money from Britain to finance the sugar deal.

Moreover, there is a price advantage to Britain in the wheat deal. United States wheat now is selling at prices ranging from $2 to $2.30 a bushel, whereas the British have been able to buy wheat in Canada for the first two years of the agreement at $1.55 a bushel. The United States never sold much wheat to Britain because American wheat has generally been priced above the Canadian price. Wheat shipments to England during the war were mainly on a lend-lease or similar basis.

But it is to be hoped that this will not be the forerunner of other agreements of the same kind. For this certain to obstruct competition in world-wide commerce.

Apparently Senator Taft would rather be right than even appear to be the friend of a President.

Critical Press Is Nation's Safeguard

Much has been written concerning freedom of speech and freedom of the press. Both are recognized as inalienable rights of a free people. Today England is engaged in controversy over freedom of the press. The labor government demands an investigation of newspapers, apparently with the purpose of proposing laws curbing newspaper criticism of the present regime.

Charges that newspapers are too critical of government have been made in this country in recent years. These charges are not sustained by the evidence. It could be said with more justification that they are not critical enough. There are newspapers which always find the administration to be headed in the right direction. Its most minute acts win approbation of this claque press. There are others which take both sides of every question with the obvious purpose of not antagonizing the winner.

A people is no longer free when it has been deprived of the right to criticize its government. Criticism of government is never popular with those on the payroll, as the situation in England proves. May the American people never forget that a critical press, reflecting a critical public, is the nations safeguard.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

A CASE OF MISTAKEN DIAGNOSIS

RABIES has been found in practically all the countries of the world, including the arctic and tropical regions. Exceptions are Hawaii and Australia, although a recent article in the medical journal of Australia describes a case in 1867 in which a boy was bitten by a dog. The wound was dressed and healing occurred. No one suspected rabies and the incident was forgotten.

However, 24 days later the lad became indisposed. Considerable publicity ensued and a dramatic account of his late days appeared in the newspapers. Excerpts of the story are as follows:

"On Thursday last the boy become ill. The next day he complained of headaches; he swallowed an aperient draught with difficulty, staring wildly and spilling a portion of it. On Saturday, Dr. Smart found the case to be one of thoroughly developed hydrophobia, the patient suffering under the most severe paroxysms perculiar to that disease when offered fluids or attempting to drink. He continued in this condition thruout the day, every movement in the room or breath of air throwing him into the most extreme state of agitation and suffering with total inability to swallow the smallest particle of food or drink.

"By Sunday he had become eager for food and drink, struggling under the most violent convulsions and calling on his mother to hold him tight while he endeavored to drink. In the course of the morning he became rapidly worse, growing wild and excited, and a large quantity of saliva issuing from his mouth. In this condition he continued until about 2:30, when he expired in his mother's arms."

The tragedy produced anxiety, even horror, in the community. Indignant citizens sent letters questioning the treatment and rumor had it that one physician [the grandfather of the author of the article in question] had cast doubt on the diagnosis. Altho this doctor had not examined the boy, and his only information was the newspaper accounts, he believed that tetanus [lockjaw] and not rabies was the cause of death. Furthermore, he had worked with Pasteur in Paris and had experience with rabies.

But there is more to the story. On the same afternoon that the unfortunate boy had been attacked, the owner of the dog had asked a friend to take care of it. Two days later her son was walking down the street with the animal tied to a leash and was bitten on the hand. The dog broke loose and when the child's mother attempted to secure it, she, too, was lacerated. That night the animal was noisy, and, in the morning, was found lying dead.

A public investigation was called but no laboratory tests had been performed. This would have been a simple matter was was somehow neglected. The dissenting medical man stated that he had no right to say what he did inasmuch as he had not attended the patient. His opinion was still in doubt and depended upon the outcome of the other two who had been bitten. If hydrophobia had been present, they would also become victims. One can well imagine the suspense of the potential sufferers as they awaited their fate. But rabies never developed so it must be assumed that the lone physician who had the courage of his convictions was correct.

TENNIS ELBOW

T. R. writes: A friend told me he has tennis elbow. Since he does not play the game, how could he develop it?

REPLY

This form of bursitis affects the structures used most frequently in playing tennis. The condition may occur in any one whose occupation requires constant rotation of the forearm, causing irritation of the elbow joint.

NOT THE QUANTITY

C.T.S. writes: Does high blood pressure mean that a person has an oversupply of blood?

REPLY

No. In the majority of cases the blood channels are narrowed and increased tension is required to force the vital fluid along.

INFLAMMATION OF FIBERS

T. O. writes: Is fibrositis the same as muscular rheumatism?

REPLY

They are generally used synonymously, altho the word "rheumatism" is a catch-all for numerous types of aches and pains. Fibrositis produces muscular soreness.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Paris Conference Might Well End Without a Treaty Rather Than Sign One That Furthers World Unrest; U.S. Diplomacy Should Call Kremlin Bluff

By DREW PEARSON

PARIS, Aug 1.—It is always easy to give advice from the sidelines and if the newsmen now coaching the American Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, were really running the Conference of Paris, it would probably accomplish even less. However, this observer—having attended many international parleys from the Washington Arms Conference of 1921 to the present—humbly offers two suggestions:

1.—The United States has become so confused trying to straighten out the back alleys of Trieste that we have lost sight of the guiding stars for which we fought—the Four Freedoms and The Atlantic Charter.

2.—Any treaty signed at Paris will be a mere scrap of paper unless there is good will between peoples to guarantee that its terms are carried out.

No Hodgepodge Treaty Wanted

Some old-school diplomats have the idea that if Secretary Byrnes should return from Paris without a treaty, it would be a defeat for American diplomacy and a setback to world peace. On the contrary, it might be extremely healthy to end this conference without a treaty, especially if that treaty is a hodgepodge which adds to the unrest of the world while simultaneously lulling the American people to sleep.

If Secretary Byrnes should demand that Russia sign a treaty giving American, British and other members of the United Nations free access to the Russian people, it would be worth all the agreements on Trieste, Italian reparations and the Balkans which he could negotiate in a year. If he should demand that American students and professors have the same right to visit Russia that Russians are granted by the U. S., that American movies, books and magazines be admitted to Russia, that American newspapermen and the ordinary John Q. Citizen have a right to travel in Russia, it would do more to stabilize world peace than all the other treaties imaginable.

It is quite true, of course, that Byrnes would not get a "free access to Russia" treaty. Russia's M. Molotoff would scream to high heaven, tear his hair and claim this was not on the agenda. He would even accuse Byrnes of sabotaging the peace.

However, that is no reason for not putting M. Molotoff on the spot. He has put plenty of others on the spot. He has taken great pleasure in hearing them scream and it might be interesting to hear him scream for a change.

Kremlin Fosters Distrust

Furthermore, the world at large—including a small but vocal pro-Communist segment of the American people—needs to be educated to the fact that the Russians simply do not want friendship with the outside world. They thrive on distrust and suspicion. In fact, the Kremlin has a better hold on the Russian people when they are suspicious of outsiders. That is why all Moscow radio broadcasts, why all the Russian newspapers, constantly warn of the capitalist menace and claim the United States bristles with people eager to massacre innocent Russian peasants.

For some strange reason no one in the United States has ever called the Russian bluff. The State Department has made polite overtures, it is true, but no high official has ever stood up publicly and told the Kremlin that it is time for a showdown as to whether Russia wants peace and understanding between the Russian and American people.

I can think of no better place to call for such a showdown than at a conference convened for the purpose of establishing peace. Furthermore I am certain that nine-tenths of the delegates present, plus most of the people of the world, would applaud so vigorously such a stand on our part that even the hard-boiled, thick-skinned Molotoff would be impressed.

U. S. Has Lost World Leadership

However, the unfortunate but inescapable fact is that the United States has lost its world leadership. Our diplomats have been led through so many Venezia Gillia labyrinths and up so many Trieste blind alleys with Slav diplomats yapping at their heels that they are weary and confused. They have partly lost their bearings. The great goal of a peace based on the Four Freedoms seems very dim, very blurred, and very far away.

The United States also has lost much of the respect and admiration of the smaller powers. The nations which have nothing to gain from war except seeing their fields laid waste and their cities bombed once looked to us as their great champion.

The small nations knew we had no ulterior motives. They knew we had only one great objective, permanent peace, but they have seen us get bogged down, outwitted and sidetracked time after time. The fox Molotoff, whom they know has only his own ax to grind, has taken us off the trail, confused us, and led us around in circles.

Good Will Between Peoples Needed

The small remnant of a treaty we are now called upon to sign means almost nothing. Molotoff has whittled it down until it chiefly settles a few points he wants settled and almost none of the problems we want settled. Austria can't be discussed. Therefore, Russian troops can still remain in Austria, can still send reinforcements to Jugoslavia, backed by the Red Army, can find an excuse to move into Trieste the day after U. S.-British troops move out. In other words, whatever treaty is signed here means nothing unless it is based on the firm foundation of good will between peoples.

The United States and Great Britain will never fight each other because the bond between their peoples is too strong. They understand each other and they would impeach overnight any President or Prime Minister who proposed war between them.

Byrnes' Big Obstacle

But friendship between the Russian and American people, while anxious to sprout, has no soil in which to grow. The leaders in Moscow will not permit it. Briefly, that is the big obstacle Secretary Byrnes must overcome before he can bring home anything which even remotely bears resemblance to a treaty of peace.

Until we re-emphasize the lofty goals for which we fought this war, any peace treaty signed at Paris will be a mere mockery. It would be far better to sign nothing than to come away from the Conference with a piece of paper supposed to fulfill the great hopes for which men fought but which actually means so little.

Supreme Court Box Score Before And After Packing

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

In the year when Franklin Delano Roosevelt tried to pack the Supreme Court, it was unanimous in 81% of its decisions. The "nine old men" disagreed in 19% of the cases.

That was terrible! Didn't they know what the law was?

So a mighty war whoop was emitted from the White House and the hounds of outraged virtue were let loose. Their yelps echoed from coast to coast, and the country was put on the alert to the grave peril it was in. Boobus Americanus, together with at least four men now on the court, as well as Senator Truman, joined in the alarm.

Thanking God they were not as other men, Mr. Roosevelt, Attorney General Cummings, and his Assistant, Mr. Robert Jackson (now one of the Judges) descended upon the Senate Judiciary Committee. The Great White Father, concerned over the impending fate of his children said there was "a persistent and dramatic split among the Justices," and oh, terrible, terrible, "a welter of uncomposed differences has brought the law, the courts, and indeed the entire administration of justice dangerously near to disrepute."

And then, Mr. Robert Jackson, like a brave knight, tilted his shining lance at the "welter," and solemnly and pontifically proclaimed to the shocked and silent throng that: "The Judicial house is stubbornly divided against itself!" They "protest publicly and sharply" against each other. But if "their split were decisvely resolved by the addition of new members," the Court would then have a "viewpoint less divergent" and there would be "greater harmony within the Government."

Well, this appealed to that profound legal light, Mr. Harry Hopkins, and he appealed to the poor devils on W.P.A. to rescue the Court. And various other Galahads, Lochinvars, and flowers of chivalry girded themselves with armor and spurred their horses in every direction until a mighty din arose and there was a clash of resounding arms.

The self-appointed defenders of virtue were defeated for a brief moment, but the Man with the Scythe reinforced them and, on a second charge against the battlements of the wicked, they carried the day.

What a noble victory that was, my countrymen! It was the end of 19% disagreements! Such divisions and schisms have totally disappeared! Of course, Jackson and Black may slap each other gently on their judicial wrists, but the Court and justice have been saved!

* * *

At this moment of victory and glad feasting, I know I will be blamed for bringing up a discordant note, but my fidelity to the truth of events requires me to speak. So here is the score. When the Court-packing bill was introduced, as stated above, the percentage of cases in which the Judges disagreed among themselves was 19%. It was not until 1941 that Father Time permitted Mr. Roosevelt to pack the Court. In 1941, the judges disagreed in 38% of the cases; in 1942, 44%; in 1943, 60%; in 1944, 60%; and in 1945-6, 57%. Average cases in which there was disagreement in four years, 52%.

In other words, the Roosevelt Court has been able to agree as to what the law is in only 48% of its decisions. In five years the Court decided 784 cases. It was unanimous in 381, and disagreed in 403. This latter figure included 71 five-to-four decisions. In twelve cases they could not agree on any decision whatever!

Well, the court has been rescued from their "hardened judicial arteries," but if you now know what the law is more than 48 times in 100, you're a better man than I am, Gunga Din.

Theory Savings Will Be Spent In Unprecedented Boom Not Borne Out

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—The impression that the American people saved a lot of money during the war and that this is to be spent in an unprecedented boom is pointedly refuted by some government studies.

The first important fact that has been disclosed is that the top 10 per cent of the nation's families have 60 per cent of the savings and that the balance is distributed over various income groups but with very little savings in the bottom 30 per cent. In fact, 24 per cent of the nation's families have no savings at all.

Savings For Emergencies

The next important fact that has come out is that it is the intention of those who have savings to use these for emergencies and not for items that normally come out of current incomes.

The studies were made for the Federal Reserve Board by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics of the Department of Agriculture. The data were obtained by the approved sampling techniques which have been found scientifically accurate by disinterested statistical bodies.

Most important is the information these studies bring to those who are planning sales campaigns. For obviously products which the top 10 per cent need and will buy cannot produce a demand much greater than the number of individuals in that group.

The concentration of 60 per cent of the savings, however, in the hands of the top 10 per cent of the families may have an important bearing on investment developments in the next few years, for obviously this group, having satisfied its immediate needs for consumer products, will have an abundant amount of capital to finance industrial expansion and perhaps to invest in business enterprises abroad.

Theory On Boom Not Borne Out

But the theory that, because many billions of dollars of savings were accumulated during the war, this constitutes a backlog which will cause a tremendous boom is not borne out by the latest studies.

The most significant piece of information is with reference to the intention of those who have saved money during the war.

Thus only eight per cent of the savers expressed an intent to use any of their savings bonds on 1946 expenditures. Another 28 per cent intended to draw somewhat on their savings account for current expense, showing that they were not making ends meet or were already buying beyond their needs.

As to war-bond holders, 78 per cent said they would use their bonds only in case of emergency. About 50 per cent of another group—savings-bank depositors—stated that they intend to draw only in case of emergency.

Depending On Current Income

The conclusion is reached, therefore, that current income from wages and salaries as well as borrowing is to be depended upon to buy new autos or to build new houses and to purchase other types of durable goods.

The figures show, of course, a vast amount of money to be borrowed. Somewhere between 21 and 28 billion dollars is to be invested in houses, cars, and other durables. But current income or borrowing, on the other hand, is to provide from 15 to 21 billions of this amount, whereas savings are to be tapped to the extent of only 5 to 7 billion dollars.

The total amount saved out of 1945 income was close to 20 billion dollars, and this is a part of the total liquid assets of about 81 billions. But of this big sum, about 48.6 billions are in the hands of the top 10 per cent of the nation's families, who each have $3,400 or more in savings.

Liquid Assets Of Nation

The huge amount of liquid assets of the nation is distributed about as follows: 9.2 million families in America have 62.37 billions of dollars in savings; 23 million families have 18.63 billions of dollars, and 13.8 million families have no savings whatever. There are about 46 million spending units in all.

Whether the American people as a whole spent too much out of their current income during the war and did not develop thrift habits or whether the amount that was saved is sizable, the fact remains that the intention to spend savings in vast amounts is not borne out by the latest data. People will be buying mostly out of their current wages and salaries or borrowing. This is not a situation that resembles what has been forecast these last several months. It argues that sooner or later the demands for a balanced budget for individuals will make it impracticable to engage in spending sprees.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I do not dislike rainy days. The earth gets thirsty, like we do. Its rain is essential to its growth, and essential to all growers of the food which we must have. I welcome the rain. Followed by the warm sunshine all Nature is astir — bright, fresh and glorious.

Rainy days furnish the opportunity for spiritual cleansing as well. We need contrasts in weather to enliven our minds and put us on an even keel. The patter of rain upon the roof, and the music of its motion by the accompanying winds, are welcoming sounds. How the foliage glistens under the wash of the rain, and how fresh everything is after the shower is over!

There are notes of triumph in the aftermath of every rainy day. The smell of the forest, especially, is delightful, after a good rain. The mosses smile anew, and there is a fragrance produced that is absent on the sunny day. And many a flower awaits the rain for its coming out time.

Here upon my summer island home, the rain is like a Lord coming to bless all the numberless interests that crowd about me. I am indoors so little here that when the rain comes I look upon it as an outdoor guest, and give to it my cheers and appreciative nods. Here I read less on a rainy day, and try to think more. Time doesn't run out here. It merely hesitates and then moves on, like a casual friend relieving his journey for a good word or so.

Too many associate rainy days with gloom and disappointment. What kind of a world would we have it no rain ever fell? And we would soon look upon the continuous days of sunshine as days without character and too monotonous, for the best of anything, all the time in the end, proves unsatisfactory We need balance in the weather as in everything.

People of reflective and serious natures usually welcome the rainy days. It leads them into speculative moods and self-examination, usually resulting in good. Anyway we have no voice in the weather — a greater one has that!

"IT Says Here"

By BOB HOPE

On August the sixth Hollywood will have reached another milestone when it celebrates the twentieth anniversary of sound pictures. Yessir, silence is golden, but sound made plenty.

The Warner brothers produced the first talking-picture in 1926 and they haven't shut up since. The production was "Don Juan," starring John Barrymore, and it was really marvelous....you could hear the snorts clear back to the last row. That was before my time, of course, but I'll take Crosby's word for it.

I'll never forget my first motion picture. I was only twelve at the time but it was the turning point in my life....As soon as I saw Clara Bow, I knew I wasn't a kid anymore. Those were tough days for Hollywood....in fact, they had to make "The Birth Of A Nation" without the assistance of Doctor Kildare.

Motion pictures have come a long way since then and the movie of today is really something to marvel at. You can see them, hear them, and mine can even be smelled. There's no doubt about it, sound adds immeasurably to the dramatic effect of a motion picture. Just think....without it, we wouldn't have heard the phizz in "Lost Weekend."

With the advent of talkies Hollywood grew up to be the motion picture center of the world. It's ironical, though .... after twenty years of perfecting sound, our biggest star is Lassie.

Map Changers and That Elusive Peace

The long-desired and long-blocked peace conference is well underway. Twenty-one Allied nations are represented at Paris, but the show is programmed by the four biggest. The small nations will have a voice, but the conference actually is only a consultative body, with power only to recommend, and its decisions can be completely overruled by the Big Four.

The agenda is restricted to considering treaties with Germany's five wartime partners—Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland. Italy has the unenviable distinction of being the greatest loser among the lesser enemy nations. As matters now stand, the peace treaty would deprive Italy of colonies, award the northwest mountain areas to France, bring the Italian frontier with Yugoslavia many miles westward, internationalize the Italian city of Trieste and require Italy to pay a possible $300,000,000 in reparations to Russia, Greece and Yugoslavia—mainly Russia.

But Italy has at last been set on its feet, it is contended, with free trade established, its reparations and war claim liability determined, military occupation approaching an end, the way opened to enter the fold of the United Nations.

Russia goes into this conference as the biggest winner in war prizes to date. Moscow has imposed "friendly governments" on Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Poland. Russia has completely absorbed the Baltic states. But Russia's power drive in the Mediterranean has been stalled, with the Italian colonial issue deferred, the Dodecanese islands turned over to Greece and Soviet troops to be withdrawn from the Dardanelles under agreement.

But the real problem children of Europe, Germany and Austria, are not on the agenda. Nor has a date been set for their consideration. We repeat that the scope and authority of the conference are so limited that it is little more than a 21-nation forum, and observers at the scene see only the hope that it can develop sufficient world opinion to rescue future European settlement from big power conflict and stalemate caused by Russia's policies and tactics of delaying and beclouding the issues.

John Foster Dulles, Republican foreign policy expert and an alternate member of the American delegation to the United Nations General Assembly, has expressed the view that the peace meeting in Paris will not "accomplish much" and that unless the Big Four powers can reconcile their views "there is no use in having a formal conference." We agree with his contention that the conference started its deliberations on the basis of compromises which were painfully negotiated by the Big Four and which would satisfy no one. These compromises will undoubtedly work much injustice and will perpetuate much uncertainty and unrest.

Victory did not bring peace. Perhaps world opinion can, but its realization may be several conferences around the corner.

California now has 19 American Legion posts, each of which has a 1946 membership in excess of 1,000.

British Wheat Deal Irks U. S. Lawmakers

It is unfortunate that the British deal to buy 600 million bushels of Canadian wheat during the next four years, with a guaranteed floor under prices, has come so soon after approval of the British loan. The deal is certain to cast doubt on the sincerity of the British pledge to support American plans for expanded world-wide trade unfettered by special arrangements among nations. It is already bringing objections from lawmakers who feel that the British ought to spend the money they borrow here on American products.

True, the United States has just completed a deal to buy the Cuban sugar crop at a guaranteed price which is very similar to the British-Canadian agreement. If Washington is eager to have other nations abstain from government-to-government arrangements and put trade back into the hands of private enterprise, it may be held, the United States must set the pace by following the same course itself. There is a difference in the two deals. The United States did not borrow the money from Britain to finance the sugar deal.

Moreover, there is a price advantage to Britain in the wheat deal. United States wheat now is selling at prices ranging from $2 to $2.30 a bushel, whereas the British have been able to buy wheat in Canada for the first two years of the agreement at $1.55 a bushel. The United States never sold much wheat to Britain because American wheat has generally been priced above the Canadian price. Wheat shipments to England during the war were mainly on a lend-lease or similar basis.

But it is to be hoped that this will not be the forerunner of other agreements of the same kind. For this certain to obstruct competition in world-wide commerce.

Apparently Senator Taft would rather be right than ever appear to be the friend of a President.

Critical Press Is Nation's Safeguard

Much has been written concerning freedom of speech and freedom of the press. Both are recognized as inalienable rights of a free people. Today England is engaged in controversy over freedom of the press. The labor government demands an investigation of newspapers, apparently with the purpose of proposing laws curbing newspaper criticism of the present regime.

Charges that newspapers are too critical of government have been made in this country in recent years. These charges are not sustained by the evidence. It could be said with more justification that they are not critical enough. There are newspapers which always find the administration to be headed in the right direction. Its most minute acts win approbation of this claque press. There are others which take both sides of every question with the obvious purpose of not antagonizing the winner.

A people is no longer free when it has been deprived of the right to criticize its government. Criticism of government is never popular with those on the payroll, as the situation in England proves. May the American people never forget that a critical press, reflecting a critical public, is the nations safeguard.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

A CASE OF MISTAKEN DIAGNOSIS

RABIES has been found in practically all the countries of the world, including the arctic and tropical regions. Exceptions are Hawaii and Australia, although a recent article in the medical journal of Australia describes a case in 1867 in which a boy was bitten by a dog. The wound was dressed and healing occurred. No one suspected rabies and the incident was forgotten.

However, 24 days later the lad became indisposed. Considerable publicity ensued and a dramatic account of his late days appeared in the newspapers. Excerpts of the story are as follows:

"On Thursday last the boy become ill. The next day he complained of headaches; he swallowed an aperient draught with difficulty, staring wildly and spilling a portion of it. On Saturday, Dr. Smart found the case to be one of thoroughly developed hydrophobia, the patient suffering under the most severe paroxysms perculiar to that disease when offered fluids or attempting to drink. He continued in this condition thruout the day, every movement in the room or breath of air throwing him into the most extreme state of agitation and suffering with total inability to swallow the smallest particle of food or drink.

"By Sunday he had become eager for food and drink, struggling under the most violent convulsions and calling on his mother to hold him tight while he endeavored to drink. In the course of the morning he became rapidly worse, growing wild and excited, and a large quantity of saliva issuing from his mouth. In this condition he continued until about 2:30, when he expired in his mother's arms."

The tragedy produced anxiety, even horror, in the community. Indignant citizens sent letters questioning the treatment and rumor had it that one physician (the grandfather of the author of the article in question) had cast doubt on the diagnosis. Altho this doctor had not examined the boy, and his only information was the newspaper accounts, he believed that tetanus (lockjaw) and not rabies was the cause of death. Furthermore, he had worked with Pasteur in Paris and had experience with rabies.

But there is more to the story. On the same afternoon that the unfortunate boy had been attacked, the owner of the dog had asked a friend to take care of it. Two days later her son was walking down the street with the animal tied to a leash and was bitten on the hand. The dog broke loose and when the child's mother attempted to secure it, she, too, was lacerated. That night the animal was noisy, and, in the morning, was found lying dead.

A public investigation was called but no laboratory tests had been performed. This would have been a simple matter was was somehow neglected. The dissenting medical man stated that he had no right to say what he did inasmuch as he had not attended the patient. His opinion was still in doubt and depended upon the outcome of the other two who had been bitten. If hydrophobia had been present, they would also become victims. One can well imagine the suspense of the potential sufferers as they awaited their fate. But rabies never developed so it must be assumed that the lone physician who had the courage of his convictions was correct.

TENNIS ELBOW

T. R. writes: A friend told me he has tennis elbow. Since he does not play the game, how could he develop it?

REPLY

This form of bursitis affects the structures used most frequently in playing tennis. The condition may occur in any one whose occupation requires constant rotation of the forearm, causing irritation of the elbow joint.

NOT THE QUANTITY

C.T.S. writes: Does high blood pressure mean that a person has an oversupply of blood?

REPLY

No. In the majority of cases the blood channels are narrowed and increased tension is required to force the vital fluid along.

INFLAMMATION OF FIBERS

T. O. writes: Is fibrositis the same as musuclar rheumatism?

REPLY

They are generally used synonymously, altho the word "rheumatism" is a catch-all for numerous types of aches and pains. Fibrositis produces muscular soreness.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

PARIS, Aug. 1.—It is always easy to give advice from the sidelines and if the newsmen now coaching the American Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, were really running the Conference of Paris, it would probably accomplish even less. However, this observer—having attended many international parleys from the Washington Arms Conference of 1921 to the present—humbly offers two suggestions:

1.—The United States has become so confused trying to straighten out the back alleys of Trieste that we have lost sight of the guiding stars for which we fought—the Four Freedoms and The Atlantic Charter.

2.—Any treaty signed at Paris will be a mere scrap of paper unless there is good will between peoples to guarantee that its terms are carried out.

No Hodgepodge Treaty Wanted

Some old-school diplomats have the idea that if Secretary Byrnes should return from Paris without a treaty, it would be a defeat for American diplomacy and a setback to world peace. On the contrary, it might be extremely healthy to end this conference without a treaty, especially if that treaty is a hodgepodge which adds to the unrest of the world while simultaneously lulling the Amercian people to sleep.

If Secretary Byrnes should demand that Russia sign a treaty giving American, British and other members of the United Nations free access to the Russian people, it would be worth all the agreements on Trieste, Italian reparations and the Balkans which he could negotiate in a year. If he should demand that American students and professors have the same right to visit Russia that Russians are granted by the U. S., that American movies, books and magazines be admitted to Russia, that American newspapermen and the ordinary John Q. Citizen have a right to travel in Russia, it would do more to stabilize world peace than all the other treaties imaginable.

It is quite true, of course, that Byrnes would not get a "free access to Russia" treaty. Russia's M. Molotoff would scream to high heaven, tear his hair and claim this was not on the agenda. He would even accuse Byrnes of sabotaging the peace.

However, that is no reason for not putting M. Molotoff on the spot. He has put plenty of others on the spot. He has taken great pleasure in hearing them scream and it might be interesting to hear him scream for a change.

Kremlin Fosters Distrust

Furthermore, the world at large—including a small but vocal pro-Communist segment of the American people—needs to be educated to the fact that the Russians simply do not want friendship with the outside world. They thrive on distrust and suspicion. In fact, the Kremlin has a better hold on the Russian people when they are suspicious of outsiders. That is why all Moscow radio broadcasts, why all the Russian newspapers, constantly warn of the capitalist menace and claim the United States bristles with people eager to massacre innocent Russian peasants.

For some strange reason no one in the United States has ever called the Russian bluff. The State Department has made polite overtures, it is true, but no high official has ever stood up publicly and told the Kremlin that it is time for a showdown as to whether Russia wants peace and understanding between the Russian and American people.

I can think of no better place to call for such a showdown than at a conference convened for the purpose of establishing peace. Furthermore I am certain that nine-tenths of the delegates present, plus most of the people of the world, would applaud so vigorously such a stand on our part that even the hard-boiled, thick-skinned Molotoff would be impressed.

U. S. Has Lost World Leadership

However, the unfortunate but inescapable fact is that the United States has lost its world leadership. Our diplomats have been led through so many Venezia Gillia labyrinths and up so many Trieste blind alleys with Slav diplomats yapping at their heels that they are weary and confused. They have partly lost their bearings. The great goal of a peace based on the Four Freedoms seems very dim, very blurred, and very far away.

The United States also has lost much of the respect and admiration of the smaller powers. The nations which have nothing to gain from war except seeing their fields laid waste and their cities bombed once looked to us as their great champion.

The small nations knew we had no ulterior motives. They knew we had only one great objective, permanent peace, but they have seen us get bogged down, outwitted and sidetracked time after time. The fox Molotoff, whom they know has only his own ax to grind, has taken us off the trail, confused us, and led us around in circles.

Good Will Between Peoples Needed

The small remnant of a treaty we are now called upon to sign means almost nothing. Molotoff has whittled it down until it chiefly settles a few points he wants settled and almost none of the problems we want settled. Austria can't be discussed. Therefore, Russian troops can still remain in Austria, can still send reinforcements to Jugoslavia, backed by the Red Army, can find an excuse to move into Trieste the day after U. S.-British troops move out. In other words, whatever treaty is signed here means nothing unless it is based on the firm foundation of good will between peoples.

The United States and Great Britain will never fight each other because the bond between their peoples is too strong. They understand each other and they would impeach overnight any President or Prime Minister who proposed war between them.

Byrnes' Big Obstacle

But friendship between the Russian and American people, while anxious to sprout, has no soil in which to grow. The leaders in Moscow will not permit it. Briefly, that is the big obstacle Secretary Byrnes must overcome before he can bring home anything which even remotely bears resemblance to a treaty of peace.

Until we re-emphasize the lofty goals for which we fought this war, any peace treaty signed at Paris will be a mere mockery. It would be far better to sign nothing than to come away from the Conference with a piece of paper supposed to fulfill the great hopes for which men fought but which actually means so little.

Supreme Court Box Score Before And After Packing

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

In the year when Franklin Delano Roosevelt tried to pack the Supreme Court, it was unanimous in 81% of its decisions. The "nine old men" disagreed in 19% of the cases.

That was terrible! Didn't they know what the law was?

So a mighty war whoop was emitted from the White House and the hounds of outraged virtue were let loose. Their yelps echoed from coast to coast, and the country was put on the alert to the grave peril it was in. Boobus Americanus, together with at least four men now on the court, as well as Senator Truman, joined in the alarm.

Thanking God they were not as other men, Mr. Roosevelt, Attorney General Cummings, and his Assistant, Mr. Robert Jackson (now one of the Judges) descended upon the Senate Judiciary Committee. The Great White Father, concerned over the impending fate of his children said there was "a persistent and dramatic split among the Justices," and oh, terrible, terrible, "a welter of uncomposed differences has brought the law, the courts, and indeed the entire administration of justice dangerously near to disrepute."

And then, Mr. Robert Jackson, like a brave knight, tilted his shining lance at the "welter," and solemnly and pontifically proclaimed to the shocked and silent throng that: "The Judicial house is stubbornly divided against itself!" They "protest publicly and sharply" against each other. But if "their split were decisvely resolved by the addition of new members," the Court would then have a "viewpoint less divergent" and there would be "greater harmony within the Government."

Well, this appealed to that profound legal light, Mr. Harry Hopkins, and he appealed to the poor devils on W.P.A. to rescue the Court. And various other Galahads, Lochinvars, and flowers of chivalry girded themselves with armor and spurred their horses in every direction until a mighty din arose and there was a clash of resounding arms.

The self-appointed defenders of virtue were defeated for a brief moment, but the Man with the Scythe reinforced them and, on a second charge against the battlements of the wicked, they carried the day.

What a noble victory that was, my countrymen! It was the end of 19% disagreements! Such divisions and schisms have totally disappeared! Of course, Jackson and Black may slap each other gently on their judicial wrists, but the Court and justice have been saved!

* * *

At this moment of victory and glad feasting, I know I will be blamed for bringing up a discordant note, but my fidelity to the truth of events requires me to speak. So here is the score. When the Court-packing bill was introduced, as stated above, the percentage of cases in which the Judges disagreed among themselves was 19%. It was not until 1941 that Father Time permitted Mr. Roosevelt to pack the Court. In 1941, the judges disagreed in 38% of the cases; in 1942, 44%; in 1943, 60%; in 1944, 60%; and in 1945-6, 57%. Average cases in which there was disagreement in four years, 52%.

In other words, the Roosevelt Court has been able to agree as to what the law is in only 48% of its decisions. In five years the Court decided 784 cases. It was unanimous in 381, and disagreed in 403. This latter figure included 71 five-to-four decisions. In twelve cases they could not agree on any decision whatever!

Well, the court has been rescued from their "hardened judicial arteries," but if you now know what the law is more than 48 times in 100, you're a better man than I am, Gunga Din.

Theory Savings Will Be Spent In Unprecedented Boom Not Borne Out

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7—The impression that the American people saved a lot of money during the war and that this is to be spent in an unprecedented boom is pointedly refuted by some government studies.

The first important fact that has been disclosed is that the top 10 per cent of the nation's families have 60 per cent of the savings and that the balance is distributed over various income groups but with very little savings in the bottom 30 per cent. In fact, 24 per cent of the nation's families have no savings at all.

Savings For Emergencies

The next important fact that has come out is that it is the intention of those who have savings to use these for emergencies and not for items that normally come out of current incomes.

The studies were made for the Federal Reserve Board by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics of the Department of Agriculture. The data were obtained by the approved sampling techniques which have been found scientifically accurate by disinterested statistical bodies.

Most important is the information these studies bring to those who are planning sales campaigns. For obviously products which the top 10 per cent need and will buy cannot produce a demand much greater than the number of individuals in that group.

The concentration of 60 per cent of the savings, however, in the hands of the top 10 per cent of the families may have an important bearing on investment developments in the next few years, for obviously this group, having satisfied its immediate needs for consumer products, will have an abundant amount of capital to finance industrial expansion and perhaps to invest in business enterprises abroad.

Theory On Boom Not Borne Out

But the theory that, because many billions of dollars of savings were accumulated during the war, this constitutes a backlog which will cause a tremendous boom is not borne out by the latest studies.

The most significant piece of information is with reference to the intention of those who have saved money during the war.

Thus only eight per cent of the savers expressed an intent to use any of their savings bonds on 1946 expenditures. Another 28 per cent intended to draw somewhat on their savings account for current expense, showing that they were not making ends meet or were already buying beyond their needs.

As to war-bond holders, 78 per cent said they would use their bonds only in case of emergency. About 50 per cent of another group—savings-bank depositors—stated that they intend to draw only in case of emergency.

Depending On Current Income

The conclusion is reached, therefore, that current income from wages and salaries as well as borrowing is to be depended upon to buy new autos or to build new houses and to purchase other types of durable goods.

The figures show, of course, a vast amount of money to be borrowed. Somewhere between 21 and 28 billion dollars is to be invested in houses, cars, and other durables. But current income or borrowing, on the other hand, is to provide from 15 to 21 billions of this amount, whereas savings are to be tapped to the extent of only 5 to 7 billion dollars.

The total amount saved out of 1945 income was close to 20 billion dollars, and this is a part of the total liquid assets of about 81 billions. But of this big sum, about 48.6 billions are in the hands of the top 10 per cent of the nation's families, who each have $3,400 or more in savings.

Liquid Assets Of Nation

The huge amount of liquid assets of the nation is distributed about as follows: 9.2 million families in America have 62.37 billions of dollars in savings; 23 million families have 18.63 billions of dollars, and 13.8 million families have no savings whatever. There are about 46 million spending units in all.

Whether the American people as a whole spent too much out of their current income during the war and did not develop thrift habits or whether the amount that was saved is sizable, the fact remains that the intention to spend savings in vast amounts is not borne out by the latest data. People will be buying mostly out of their current wages and salaries or borrowing. This is not a situation that resembles what has been forecast these last several months. It argues that sooner or later the demands for a balanced budget for individuals will make it impracticable to engage in spending sprees.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

I do not dislike rainy days. The earth gets thirsty, like we do. Its rain is essential to its growth, and essential to all growers of the food which we must have. I welcome the rain. Followed by the warm sunshine all Nature is astir — bright, fresh and glorious.

Rainy days furnish the opportunity for spiritual cleansing as well. We need contrasts in weather to enliven our minds and put us on an even keel. The patter of rain upon the roof, and the music of its motion by the accompanying winds, are welcoming sounds. How the foliage glistens under the wash of the rain, and how fresh everything is after the shower is over!

There are notes of triumph in the aftermath of every rainy day. The smell of the forest, especially, is delightful, after a good rain. The mosses smile anew, and there is a fragrance produced that is absent on the sunny day. And many a flower awaits the rain for its coming out time.

Here upon my summer island home, the rain is like a Lord coming to bless all the numberless interests that crowd about me. I am indoors so little here that when the rain comes I look upon it as an outdoor guest, and give to it my cheers and appreciative nods. Here I read less on a rainy day, and try to think more. Time doesn't run out here. It merely hesitates and then moves on, like a casual friend relieving his journey for a good word or so.

Too many associate rainy days with gloom and disappointment. What kind of a world would we have it no rain ever fell? And we would soon look upon the continuous days of sunshine as days without character and so monotonous, for the best of anything, all the time in the end, proves unsatisfactory. We need balance in the weather as in everything.

People of reflective and serious natures usually welcome the rainy days. It leads them into speculative moods and self-examination, usually resulting in good. Anyway we have no voice in the weather — a greater one has that!

"IT Says Here"

By BOB HOPE

On August the sixth Hollywood will have reached another milestone when it celebrates the twentieth anniversary of sound pictures. Yessir, silence is golden, but sound made plenty.

The Warner brothers produced the first talking-picture in 1926 and they haven't shut up since. The production was "Don Juan," starring John Barrymore, and it was really marvelous....you could hear the snorts clear back to the last row. That was before my time, of course, but I'll take Crosby's word for it.

I'll never forget my first motion picture. I was only twelve at the time but it was the turning point in my life....As soon as I saw Clara Bow, I knew I wasn't a kid anymore. Those were tough days for Hollywood....in fact, they had to make "The Birth Of A Nation" without the assistance of Doctor Kildare.

Motion pictures have come a long way since then and the movie of today is really something to marvel at. You can see them, hear them, and mine can even be smelled. There's no doubt about it, sound adds immeasurably to the dramatic effect of a motion picture. Just think....without it, we wouldn't have heard the phizz in "Lost Weekend."

With the advent of talkies Hollywood grew up to be the motion picture center of the world. It's ironical, though .... after twenty years of perfecting sound, our biggest star is Lassie.

William Heirens Plans To Confess, Chicago Sun Says

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—A series of conferences involving William Heirens, his attorneys and State's Attorney William J. Tuohy fanned speculation today that new efforts were afoot to get the youth's formal statement regarding the Suzanne Degnan kidnap-killing and the slayings of two women.

Heirens's attorneys held a "confession conference" in Tuohy's office last Tuesday but the 17-year-old University of Chicago student upset the elaborate preparations by replying, "I don't remember" to all pertinent questions.

The Chicago Sun said tonight that Heirens told his lawyers today "that he had changed his mind about withholding his confession and would give a detailed account of three murders and other crimes to State's Attorney William J Tuohy."

The Sun said "the new attempt to take the youth's confession probably will be made tomorrow" (Saturday)

The Sun also said "it was learned that Heirens x x x balked at a confession arranged for last Tuesday because Tuohy had invited almost 30 law-enforcement officials and others to be present."

Heirens's attorneys could not be reached for comment on the Sun statement.

The youth's attorneys conferred with him for several hours in the county jail today and one of them, Malachy Coghlan, discussed the case for two hours with Tuohy and Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F Crowley.

"No conclusion was reached," Tuohy said in discussing today's talks. "At the request of Mr. Coghlan we will resume the discussion at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning."

JUST LIKE A WINDMILL—This Vought-Sikorsky XR-5 Helicopter, one of the newer additions to the United States Army Air Forces, will be seen at the Cumberland Air Show, Sunday afternoon at Cumberland Municipal Airport. Generally described by those who see it as "just like a windmill", the helicopter is capable of hovering over a single spot, and of landing and taking off from a small area. The demonstration here Sunday will be the first time a helicopter has been seen in action here. The air show is sponsored by the junior association of commerce, of Cumberland.

Huge Dry Dock Will Be Launched At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1 (AP) — A huge floating dry dock—so immense that army engineers had to "dig a hole" at the bottom of the Ohio river to submerge it—will be launched Saturday at the Neville Island Shipyards of the Drave Corporation, the company announced tonight.

The company said the vessel, named the ARD-33, is the largest ever to be launched in inland waters.

The dock, capable of handling most navy auxiliary tender-type ships, is 448 feet long and 97 feet wide and has a lifting capacity of 6,000 tons. Construction of the dock required 97 miles, or more than 384,000 feet of welding. Its dock chamber is 73 feet wide and its win walls 45 feet high.

College Fees Raised

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Price increases in tuition as well as room and board were announced today by Johns Hopkins university here and Western Maryland college in Westminster.

Tuition at Western Maryland next year was raised from $280 to $300 and its room and board fees from between $350 to $400 to between $400 and $475.

The Hopkins tuition was increased from $450 to $500 and the dormitory fee from $450 to $500.

World Court Resolution Considered By Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—The ticklish problem of keeping purely domestic affairs out of the hands of a world tribunal gave the Senate trouble today as it took up a resolution to grant compulsory jurisdiction to an international court of justice.

Senator after senator rose to stress the importance of American adherence to the principle that international legal cases should be decided by an international court.

But what bothered some senators was the idea that the court would determine in what cases it had jurisdiction—even though the United Nations Charter expressly forbids it to handle matters essentially within a nation's domestic sphere.

In an apparent attempt to head off some opposition, Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Foreign Relations committee, proposed to insert in the resolution language which would let the United States determine what matters were domestic.

A ballot on that was held over for tomorrow. So was any final decision on the entire resolution—which would grant Senate consent to the president's accepting compulsory jurisdiction for America.

Touching Will Of Young Lieutenant Is Filed

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — The touching will of a young lieutenant killed in the drive on Nuernberg last year, bequeathing his estate to his fiancee and a toast to his friends, was filed today for probate.

"I thank God, honestly, that I was the one to pay this tab," said Lt. Lewis Peale Elliott in the will. Of his friends he said:

"Through them and because of them, my life was a full one. Consequently, it was given cheerfully to help preserve for them and through them our ways of living . .

"Drink me a drink and God bless you all."

Atomic Control Bill Is Signed By Truman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—Army domination of atomic energy development in America ended legally today with President Truman's signature on a law giving control to a civilian commission.

Along with announcement of the signature that put the act on the books, Mr. Truman told his news conference that he plans to make public the personnel of the five-man commission as soon as he obtained acceptances from those he has asked to serve.

The $17,500-a-year chairman, his four $15,000 associates and a $15,000 general manager to handle administrative work all will be subject to Senate confirmation.

The commissioners must be civilian but there is no bar against retired members of the armed forces.

Clarksburg Publishing Firm Strike Continues

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP) — The presses of the Clarksburg Publishing Company remained silent today as a strike of typographic union employes continued, with little immediate prospect of a settlement.

L. V. Caveny, president of the AFL-typographical union local, reported that the printers were asking a wage scale of $58.30 weekly for day work and $61.30 for night shift men. The present scale is $43.50 day and $46 night.

Caveny said the union also was asking a two-weeks paid vacation and five paid holidays a year.

A former junior champion, Barnes served with the Navy during the war and was out of the game until a few months ago.

Truman Signs GI Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Truman signed into law today legislation liberalizing war-service insurance for GIs and veterans. Automobile License Suspensions Increase

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP) — The department of motor vehicles announced today that a net increase of 339 was shown from June 30 to July 31 in the number of motorists whose automobile licenses and registrations were suspended for failure to comply with provisions of the Maryland Financial Responsibility act.

Driving privileges of 1,419 motorists, 336 of them from out-of-state, were under suspension at the close of business Wednesday because they had failed to post security to cover injury and damages resulting from accidents in which they had been involved during the first five months of the year.

Woman Who Disappeared Had Quarrel With Mate

PLACERVILLE, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP) —Mrs. Barbara Walker, 23 and pretty, admitted to authorities today her disappearance from a picnic at her home in North Conway, N. H., a week ago had nothing to do with kidnaping, but was just a case of a quarrel with her husband.

At North Conway, Langdon Walker said he was ready to "forgive and forget" the whole thing. A reconciliation appeared in prospect, as Mrs. Walker told newsmen she hoped her husband would come here with their 2-year-old son, Lenny.

"I thought maybe if I left mysteriously it would help bring my family back together," she said. "My husband told me he never wanted to see me again."

The young woman was found yesterday working as a waitress in a small restaurant at State Line, Lake Tahoe, Nev., after a week's furore over her disappearance.

William Heirens Plans To Confess, Chicago Sun Says

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—A series of conferences involving William Heirens, his attorneys and State's Attorney William J. Tuohy fanned speculation today that new efforts were afoot to get the youth's formal statement regarding the Suzanne Degnan kidnap-killing and the slayings of two women.

Heirens's attorneys held a "confession conference" in Tuohy's office last Tuesday but the 17-year-old University of Chicago student upset the elaborate preparations by replying, "I don't remember" to all pertinent questions.

The Chicago Sun said tonight that Heirens told his lawyers today "that he had changed his mind about withholding his confession and would give a detailed account of three murders and other crimes to State's Attorney William J Tuohy."

The Sun said "the new attempt to take the youth's confession probably will be made tomorrow" (Saturday).

The Sun also said "it was learned that Heirens x x x balked at a confession arranged for last Tuesday because Tuohy had invited almost 30 law-enforcement officials and others to be present."

Heirens's attorneys could not be reached for comment on the Sun statement.

The youth's attorneys conferred with him for several hours in the county jail today and one of them, Malachy Coghlan, discussed the case for two hours with Tuohy and Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F Crowley.

"No conclusion was reached," Tuohy said in discussing today's talks. "At the request of Mr. Coghlan we will resume the discussion at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning."

Huge Dry Dock Will Be Launched At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1 (AP) — A huge floating dry dock—so immense that army engineers had to "dig a hole" at the bottom of the Ohio river to submerge it—will be launched Saturday at the Neville Island Shipyards of the Drave Corporation, the company announced tonight.

The company said the vessel, named the ARD-33, is the largest ever to be launched in inland waters.

The dock, capable of handling most navy auxiliary tender-type ships, is 448 feet long and 97 feet wide and has a lifting capacity of 6,000 tons. Construction of the dock required 97 miles, or more than 384,000 feet of welding. Its dock chamber is 73 feet wide and its win walls 45 feet high.

World Court Resolution Considered By Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—The ticklish problem of keeping purely domestic affairs out of the hands of a world tribunal gave the Senate trouble today as it took up a resolution to grant compulsory jurisdiction to an international court of justice.

Senator after senator rose to stress the importance of American adherence to the principle that international legal cases should be decided by an international court.

But what bothered some senators was the idea that the court would determine in what cases it had jurisdiction—even though the United Nations Charter expressly forbids it to handle matters essentially within a nation's domestic sphere.

In an apparent attempt to head off some opposition, Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Foreign Relations committee, proposed to insert in the resolution language which would let the United States determine what matters were domestic.

A ballot on that was held over for tomorrow. So was any final decision on the entire resolution—which would grant Senate consent to the president's accepting compulsory jurisdiction for America.

Touching Will Of Young Lieutenant Is Filed

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — The touching will of a young lieutenant killed in the drive on Nuernberg last year, bequeathing his estate to his fiancee and a toast to his friends, was filed today for probate.

"I thank God, honestly, that I was the one to pay this tab," said Lt. Lewis Peale Elliott in the will. Of his friends he said:

"Through them and because of them, my life was a full one. Consequently, it was given cheerfully to help preserve for them and through them our ways of living . .

"Drink me a drink and God bless you all."

Atomic Control Bill Is Signed By Truman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—Army domination of atomic energy development in America ended legally today with President Truman's signature on a law giving control to a civilian commission.

Along with announcement of the signature that put the act on the books, Mr. Truman told his news conference that he plans to make public the personnel of the five-man commission as soon as he obtained acceptances from those he has asked to serve.

The $17,500-a-year chairman, his four $15,000 associates and a $15,000 general manager to handle administrative work all will be subject to Senate confirmation.

The commissioners must be civilian but there is no bar against retired members of the armed forces.

Clarksburg Publishing Firm Strike Continues

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP) — The presses of the Clarksburg Publishing Company remained silent today as a strike of typographic union employes continued, with little immediate prospect of a settlement.

L. V. Caveny, president of the AFL-typographical union local, reported that the printers were asking a wage scale of $58.30 weekly for day work and $61.30 for night shift men. The present scale is $43.50 day and $46 night.

Caveny said the union also was asking a two-weeks paid vacation and five paid holidays a year.

Woman Who Disappeared Had Quarrel With Mate

PLACERVILLE, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Barbara Walker, 23 and pretty, admitted to authorities today her disappearance from a picnic at her home in North Conway, N. H., a week ago had nothing to do with kidnaping, but was just a case of a quarrel with her husband.

At North Conway, Langdon Walker said he was ready to "forgive and forget" the whole thing. A reconciliation appeared in prospect, as Mrs. Walker told newsmen she hoped her husband would come here with their 2-year-old son, Lenny.

"I thought maybe if I left mysteriously it would help bring my family back together," she said. "My husband told me he never wanted to see me again."

The young woman was found yesterday working as a waitress in a small restaurant at State Line, Lake Tahoe, Nev., after a week's furore over her disappearance.

North End Festival Closes Tonight

The North End festival will be held tonight from 7:30 until midnight, William E. McCullough, president of the playground association and general chairman of the festival, announces. Because of the rain yesterday, it was not attempted last night.

A grand prize will be awarded at approximately 11 o'clock, and the winner must be present to receive the award. Proceeds from the festival will be used for improving the grounds, and probably planting grass this fall.

ARE JOBS BAD FOR FUTURE MOTHERS?

I have an odd letter from a father. His 18-year-old daughter, just out of high, wants to take a job as a stenographer in a large city firm. He doesn't approve.

"I have enough to take good care of her, without her working," he writes. "But it really isn't a question of money. I think working life spoils a young girl, hardens her. I have seen it happen so often. They become so sophisticated that they lose the sensitiveness and innocence future mothers should have. I don't want my little girl to know all the rottenness there is in the world, I want her to keep her illusions, believe in fairy tales. So I have put my foot down and said she must stay at home with mother for the next few years. She will find enough to do if she learns housekeeping and sewing."

But daughter, it seems, violently disagrees with this plan and is raising Cain. So they're asked for a disinterested referee.

Well—what about it? Is friend father right? Yes, I admit his plea is touching but isn't it based on a wrong premise?

Does any girl of 18 still believe in fairy tales?

Does she even want to believe in fairy tales?

And would she be worth a hoot as wife or mother if she did believe in them?

A knowledge of this hard boiled world forces me to admit that she doesn't....and wouldn't. The average young female of eighteen has a fair knowledge of what it's all about . . . and is burning to know more. This does not mean that she has indulged in illicit adventuring or is possessed of a vulgar mind. It simply means that modern life places her right in the middle of the racket and, unless she's a ninny, she can't escape a certain amount of worldly knowledge.

And why should she want to escape? Why shouldn't she learn the truth about the world exactly as her brother learn it? She will need that information just as much as he will need it.

Motherhood is a complicated profession in 1946. It requires much more than a knowledge of domestic science. It requires a knowledge of the business of living. The young wife who doesn't know what people are all about, and who hasn't gotten some of that knowledge at first hand, is tragically handicapped. She can neither understand her husband nor train her children properly. She may be cute to have around but she's useless for all practical purposes.

MOREOVER, a short term of business life is necessary as a matter of discipline. No woman can appreciate the strain of weariness and anxiety or know the value of system unless she has experienced these things in her own training. Six months of office training are worth more to a girl than six years of home sweet home. And if I were a young man looking for a wife, I wouldn't marry a girl who hadn't had such a training. Would YOU?

This does not mean that she has indulged in illicit adventuring or is possessed of a vulgar mind. It simply means that modern life places her right in the middle of the racket and, unless she's a ninny, she can't escape a certain amount of worldly knowledge.

And why should she want to escape? Why shouldn't she learn the truth about the world exactly as her brother learn it? She will need that information just as much as he will need it.

Motherhood is a complicated profession in 1946. It requires much more than a knowledge of domestic science. It requires a knowledge of the business of living. The young wife who doesn't know what people are all about, and who hasn't gotten some of that knowledge at first hand, is tragically handicapped. She can neither understand her husband nor train her children properly. She may be cute to have around but she's useless for all practical purposes.

MOREOVER, a short term of business life is necessary as a matter of discipline. No woman can appreciate the strain of weariness and anxiety or know the value of system unless she has experienced these things in her own training. Six months of office training are worth more to a girl than six years of home sweet home. And if I were a young man looking for a wife, I wouldn't marry a girl who hadn't had such a training. Would YOU?

Here's Why Military Men Talk Openly Now Of Secret Weapons

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON — If you've felt concern about the way the military men have recently been disclosing so-called "secret" weapons, just take it easy.

They haven't been spilling anything that major foreign nations haven't been aware of—for as much as five years, in some cases.

In other words, while announcements regarding our research and development in the line of supersonic speed, guided missiles, push-button aircraft and molten jet weapons may be news to you, they're relatively old stuff to scientists of other nations.

"We're just bringing the public up-to-date on certain developments which were either known to our enemies in the last war, or which they had in the developmental stage," said an Air Forces man who declined to be quoted by name.

Why Talk About Them?

Then why, you may ask, is there all the fanfare about announcing that we have such weapons at our disposal, or in the developmental stage?

There are several reasons for this:

1. The public is being told a little of what is going on behind the scenes just so the people will have a hint of the big things America is planning in order to be ready for any eventuality in a world where scientific war-making is becoming increasingly accented.

2. The developments which have so far been disclosed make it plain to any nations which might now or later feel war-like that the United States has a scientific "potential" not to be taken lightly.

3. Disclosures that the United States continues to keep its eye on the ball in a scientific way "give our State Department a club to swing and enhance its power in international relations," says a military man.

Another reason — which may sound unusual to you—is that some military men feel that too much secrecy is just an invitation to enemy agents to come prowling around.

Quenching Curiosity

In a sense, the philosophy is: "Feed 'em a little dope that won't do any harm—and they won't be so curious."

Still another reason for some of the recent disclosures is that the military men need money to go ahead with their researches.

"We were behind the Germans on scientific development until well into the war—with the exception of work on the atomic bomb," said the air forces man, "but since 1943 we've been pretty well ahead. And now, our future plans are such that we're going to be away ahead of everybody from now on."

Many who talk little say much; others who talk much say little.

Survey Of Nation Finds Trend Among Vets To Republican Party

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Aug. 1—The Democratic party would win a majority of the votes cast by World War II veterans if a presidential election were held today.

So far the veterans have not emerged as a group having sharply different preferences from the other voters of the same age group.

Up to the present time, veterans continue to follow the voting preferences of the youngest age group (21 to 29) in which the bulk of them find themselves.

Winning a greater proportion of the vote in the youngest age group is of course a long-time problem of the G.O.P., and the size of the defection from the Democratic party among the youngest voters (including veterans), as well as among the veterans taken as a separate group, attests to the progress being made. However, the young voters still incline more toward the Democratic Party than older voters.

* * *

In gauging present party strength among World War II veterans, the Institute had field reporters ask:

"If a presidential election were being held today, which party would you vote for, the Democratic or the Republican?"

The results, comparing today's findings with the 1944 election vote of veterans:

	TODAY	1944 Election
Democratic	51%	58%
Republican	49	41

*This figure is based on tabulations in states where the soldier vote was counted separately.

* * *

The extent to which the Republican party has been making progress—since 1944 among the youngest voters—is shown by the proportion among these voters who today would support the Republican Party in a presidential election.

The following table compares the results of today's poll of veterans along with those of a survey dealing with all voters in the 21 to 29 age bracket including voters who did not serve in the armed forces in World War II, as well as veterans.

	% Republican of Major Party Vote 1944 Election	TODAY	Gain
21-29 Age group	42%	47%	5%
Veterans	41	49	8

Big Arms Cache Found In Tel Aviv

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS

TEL AVIV, Palestine, Aug. 1 (AP)—British troops in a boys' technical school taken over as a battalion headquarters today discovered the largest arsenal of arms yet found in their inch-by-inch search of Tel Aviv.

Some troops had been in the building since Monday, unaware of the powder keg hidden in a secret labyrinth of rooms beneath them. Thousands of rounds of ammunition, mortar bombs and hand grenades and hundreds of rifles and pistols were found in sealed rooms below the main floor of the school.

Officials said they believed the arsenal belonged to the powerful Jewish underground, Hagana.

A communique declared 664 persons had been arrested up to noon today in the careful screening of the city's 200,000 population.

Sappers of an airborne division still were hacking away this afternoon at false walls and other hollow-sounding places in the boys' school.

GOV. O'CONOR INSPECTS MARYLAND GUARDSMEN

CAMP RITCHIE, Md., Aug. 1 (AP)—Fifteen hundred Maryland state guardsmen encamped in this Blue Ridge mountain training center for a week's military exercises were inspected today by their commander-in-chief, Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor.

The governor, accompanied by a number of new and former national guard officers, made his annual visit to the training center here.

The day's program included a theatrical entertainment for the 1,400 enlisted men, and a reception for the governor's party, which included William Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown, former commanding officer of the guard's Eighth battalion and Democratic nominee for governor.

Rain starting early in the morning washed out the plan to complete orientation firing of all weapons by the guardsmen before the training period ends Sunday morning.

BELGRADE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Fiorello H. LaGuardia, UNRRA director-general, has sent a strongly worded message to Allied headquarters in Caserta, Italy, in which he declared that "millions of dollars of our supplies are being pilfered" in the Trieste area.

He described conditions affecting UNRRA operations in that Adriatic port as "deplorable and intolerable."

LaGuardia reiterated previous demands for authority to call on the receiving governments to furnish armed guards for UNRRA supplies at Trieste.

The country's smallest tree farm, on which trees are being cultivated for eventual cutting, is 22 acres; the largest is 700,000 acres.

A combination chemical has been developed that kills plant pests such as rust, blight and mildew in addition to insects.

Mistake In Identity

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP) — A mistake in the identity of a drowning victim was discovered today in time to stop funeral preparations for the wrong man in Inwood, W. Va.

A father and brother erroneously identified a body taken from the Potomac river yesterday as that of Richard Barrow, Inwood cab driver. Later a fingerprint check disclosed that the victim was Carl Cecil, Bluff City, Tenn.

Big Arms Cache Found In Tel Aviv

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS

TEL AVIV, Palestine, Aug. 1 (AP)—British troops in a boys' technical school taken over as a battalion headquarters today discovered the largest arsenal of arms yet found in their inch-by-inch search of Tel Aviv.

Some troops had been in the building since Monday, unaware of the powder keg hidden in a secret labyrinth of rooms beneath them. Thousands of rounds of ammunition, mortar bombs and hand grenades and hundreds of rifles and pistols were found in sealed rooms below the main floor of the school.

Officials said they believed the arsenal belonged to the powerful Jewish underground, Hagana.

A communique declared 864 persons had been arrested up to noon today in the careful screening of the city's 200,000 population.

Sappers of an airborne division still were hacking away this afternoon at false walls and other hollow-sounding places in the boys' school.

GOV. O'CONOR INSPECTS MARYLAND GUARDSMEN

CAMP RITCHIE, Md., Aug. 1 (AP)—Fifteen hundred Maryland state guardsmen encamped in this Blue Ridge mountain training center for a week's military exercizes were inspected today by their commander-in-chief, Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor.

The governor, accompanied by a number of new and former national guard officers, made his annual visit to the training center here.

The day's program included a theatrical entertainment for the 1,400 enlisted men, and a reception for the governor's party, which included William Preston Lane, Jr., Hagerstown, former commanding officer of the guard's Eighth battalion and Democratic nominee for governor.

Rain starting early in the morning washed out the plan to complete orientation firing of all weapons by the guardsmen before the training period ends Sunday morning.

COMPANY C STATE GUARD—The second largest unit in the state, Company C, Eighth Battalion, Maryland State Guard, is spending this week at Camp Albert C. Ritchie, for summer training. The unit numbers 56 men and three officers. Capt. Thomas F. Conlon, company commander is shown at the left front, and second from the right in the front row is Lieut. Robert J. Herstine. Next to him is Sgt. Verner Winner, a veteran of World War II. Lieut. James N. Gilford, the third officer, did not accompany the unit to camp. Other members shown include Fst. Sgt. C. W. Local Boy Accused Of Illicit Acts With Young Girl

Already facing a bigamy count, Robert Lee Shipe, 19-year-old veteran of World War II, yesterday was ordered held without bond for the October term of court on charges of "carnal knowledge and abuse" of a 13 year-old girl.

Shipe, who gave his address as 541 Eastern avenue, this city, admitted in trial magistrates court, that he had illicit relations with the girl on the night of July 22 in a car parked on Baltimore Pike, in a signed statement presented by the state's attorney's office.

Used Friend's Car

The ex-soldier told authorities that he and another young man, who is employed at the Celanese, met two girls near the Ridgeley bridge and took them for a ride in his friend's car, and parked on the Baltimore pike.

The girl at first resisted his advances, Shipe admitted in his statement, but later submitted without a struggle. Admitting that he didn't ask the girl her age, the defendant said her girl friend told him she was 17 years of age.

Shipe said that following the affair on Baltimore pike the four returned to the city, and his friend let the other girl out at the Walton hotel and parked the car at a nearby service station. He added that he and the 13-year-old girl remained in the car until after 5 a. m.

Reported Missing From Home

Authorities began investigating the case after the victim was reported missing from her home all night. Shipe was apprehended Tuesday at his home by Deputy Sheriff J. W. Radcliffe.

Court records show that Shipe, who also used the name Lorrie Schipe, two weeks ago was released on $500 bond for grand jury action on charges of bigamy. According to the testimony his wife, Mrs. Ruth Cecelia Lewis, from whom he was separated charged that he married Dorris Fay Twigg, this city on May 16, 1946, without obtaining a divorce.

Vets Convert Hangar Into Roller Rink

HERRIN, Ill. (AP)—A portable airplane hangar, 130 x 96, purchased as surplus property from the War Assets Administration, has been converted into a roller skating rink by Phillip and Paul McSpadden, World War II veterans. Interior decorations also consisted of surplus war materials.

Chinese Reds Admit Clash With Marines

PEIPING, Aug. 1 (AP) — Official Chinese Communist agencies acknowledged today their troops fought a battle with United States Marines Monday, but pleaded self-defense and told the Americans to get out of China if they wanted to avoid trouble.

The marine corps announced that a motor convoy of 42 marines was ambushed 35 miles southeast of Peiping and escaped only after a prolonged battle in which three marines were killed and 12 wounded. Two others were injured when their jeep overturned. The local Chinese press added that three marines were missing.

In defending themselves, the marines killed 12 Chinese and wounded an undetermined number, according to the latest marine announcement, which still identified the assailants merely as uniformed Chinese.

The Yenan radio, the Emancipation Daily, and the New China News Agency—all of them official organs of the Chinese Communists—joined today, however, in admitting Communist responsibility.

Hardwoods are so plentiful in Nigeria, Africa, that mahogany planks are used in boardwalks and to cover mudholes.

SCHOOL LUNCH FUND AGREEMENT IS SIGNED

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP) — An agreement which will make $550,000 available to the State of Maryland for its school lunch program was signed today by Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools, and Joseph H. Blandford, state director of the Production and Marketing Administration.

The funds were appropriated under the National School Lunch act and will be administered by the state board of education.

Money Is Root Of Case Of Jitters

FAIRBURY, Neb. (AP)—The man walked into the Fairbury Police Station and tossed a roll of bills on Chief Joe Cook's desk.

"Put me in jail," he pleaded. "With this much money I'm so nervous I can't work, and if I don't get rest soon I'll go crazy."

The man, a laborer about 60, had $956 saved in 14 months.

The chief accommodated and stuck the money in the safe. Next morning his guest said thank you and checked out.

Gilbert Miller Returns From Western Trip

Artifical irrigation, as practiced in the fruit sections of the West, would be more practical in the Winchester, Va., section than for the local orchards, Gilbert Miller, Spring Gap, orchardist, said last night in speaking of the trip he made to the West, as the representative of the Consolidated Orchard Company.

Water from Deep Creek lake, the Savage river dam, and the dams in the proposed Cumberland flood control project could be diverted to the orchards, if the government would sponsor the project and industries would stop dumping acid in the water, Miller explained, but added it would take some time to work it out. In the West dams have been built to back up the water from the melting snow capping the mountains and is then diverted by 75 to 100 miles of canals to the orchards, he said.

The group of 21 orchardists from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, New Jersey and West Virginia, and including besides Miller, J. Howard Rannels, Romney; Stanley Fulton and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Repburn, Hancock, went from here to Salt Lake City, Grand Junction, Colo., the Yakima section of Washington state, the Wenatchee Valley, Milford, Ore., and then California.

The "Peace Tour" was sponsored by the National Peach Council.

OPA Still Controls Restaurant Prices

Although local restaurants now have the authority to increase meal prices they are still under the jurisdiction of OPA, Harry A. Porch, local chairman announced yesterday.

According to Porch the increase can't exceed an amount that will permit the owners to realize a greater percentage of profit than they were realizing June 31, this year.

The increases will be governed by a bulletin which reads:

"Where the major ingredient of a food item, meal or beverage, already being served is exempt from price control at all other levels, the price of such food item, meal or beverage is to be calculated to realize not more than the percentage profit of June 31. The highest price line limitation for the food category group in which the item, meal or beverage falls does not apply in such cases.

According to the bulletin all increases must be reported to the OPA office within six days of the increase.

Chinese Reds Admit Clash With Marines

PEIPING, Aug. 1 (AP) — Official Chinese Communist agencies acknowledged today their troops fought a battle with United States Marines Monday, but pleaded self-defense and told the Americans to get out of China if they wanted to avoid trouble.

The marine corps announced that a motor convoy of 42 marines was ambushed 35 miles southeast of Peiping and escaped only after a prolonged battle in which three marines were killed and 12 wounded. Two others were injured when their jeep overturned. The local Chinese press added that three marines were missing.

In defending themselves, the marines killed 12 Chinese and wounded an undetermined number, according to the latest marine announcement, which still identified the assailants merely as uniformed Chinese.

The Yenan radio, the Emancipation Daily, and the New China News Agency—all of them official organs of the Chinese Communists—joined today, however, in admitting Communist responsibility.

The funds were appropriated under the National School Lunch act and will be administered by the state board of education.

Money Is Root Of Case Of Jitters

FAIRBURY, Neb. (AP)—The man walked into the Fairbury Police Station and tossed a roll of bills on Chief Joe Cook's desk.

"Put me in jail," he pleaded. "With this much money I'm so nervous I can't work, and if I don't get rest soon I'll go crazy."

The man, a laborer about 60, had $956 saved in 14 months.

The chief accommodated and stuck the money in the safe. Next morning his guest said thank you and checked out.

Gilbert Miller Returns From Western Trip

Artifical irrigation, as practiced in the fruit sections of the West, would be more practical in the Winchester, Va., section than for the local orchards, Gilbert Miller, Spring Gap, orchardist, said last night in speaking of the trip he made to the West, as the representative of the Consolidated Orchard Company.

Water from Deep Creek lake, the Savage river dam, and the dams in the proposed Cumberland flood control project could be diverted to the orchards if the government would sponsor the project and industries would stop dumping acid in the water, Miller explained, but added it would take some time to work it out. In the West dams have been built to back up the water from the melting snow capping the mountains and is then diverted by 75 to 100 miles of canals to the orchards, he said.

The group of 21 orchardists from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, New Jersey and West Virginia, and including besides Miller, J. Howard Rannels, Romney; Stanley Fulton and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Repburn, Hancock, went from here to Salt Lake City, Grand Junction, Colo., the Yakima section of Washington state, the Wenatchee Valley, Milford, Ore., and then California.

The "Peace Tour" was sponsored by the National Peach Council.

OPA Still Controls Restaurant Prices

Although local restaurants now have the authority to increase meal prices they are still under the jurisdiction of OPA, Harry A. Porch, local chairman announced yesterday.

According to Porch the increase can't exceed an amount that will permit the owners to realize a greater percentage of profit than they were realizing June 31, this year.

The increases will be governed by a bulletin which reads:

"Where the major ingredient of a food item, meal or beverage, already being served is exempt from price control at all other levels, the price of such food item, meal or beverage is to be calculated to realize not more than the percentage profit of June 31. The highest price line limitation for the food category group in which the item, meal or beverage falls does not apply in such cases.

According to the bulletin all increases must be reported to the OPA office within six days of the increase.

Bedford Child, 4, Killed By Truck

BEDFORD, Pa., Aug. 1—Struck by a heavy truck when he darted into the street to retrieve a toy, four-year-old Vincent Ross Rhodes, of Bedford was killed instantly yesterday afternoon.

Coroner Vernon Geisel said the accident occurred almost directly in front of the Rhodes home on the Lincoln Highway. The child died of a crushed skull when a dual wheel of the truck passed over his head.

The coroner listed Clarence Fisher, 37-year-old Manns Choice father of two children, as the driver of the truck. The vehicle was loaded with five tons of salt.

Coroner Geisel said he will conduct an inquest into the fatality probably early next week.

Fisher informed authorities he was driving about 10 or 12 miles per hour when the youngster, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oden Rhodes, dashed onto the highway.

The trucker said he made every effort to avoid striking the boy but was unable to swerve the truck in time to miss him. The lad was knocked down by the left front fender of the car and a dual wheel passed over him. The driver stopped the truck about 15 or 20 feet from the spot where the boy was hit.

Authorities released Fisher on his own recogniance pending the outcome of the inquest.

The boy's father was working on a pipeline near Ebensburg when he was notified of the tragedy.

Besides the parents, the child leaves two sisters, Delores Jean, five, and Phyllis June, two, and two brothers, William, three, and Robert Lee, three months.

Truman Fails To Challenge Report U. S. Is Opposed To Palestine Plan

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. — (AP) — Diplomatic authorities reported today that the United States and Britain, after nearing agreement on a Palestine plan, are again far apart on the whole issue. Prospects for the early admission of 100,000 Jews to the Holy Land were described as slight.

President Truman himself left unchallenged at a news conference today a report that the American government is opposed to a British-backed plan to divide Palestine. The plan would set aside separate Jewish and Arab zones and let the Jews in their zone handle the immigration problem directly.

The president was asked for reaction to dispatches from London saying Prime Minister Attlee had rushed back from Paris to discuss reported American opposition with his cabinet, and that Attlee had been in consultation with the president.

Mr. Truman confined himself to denying that he had had any consultation with Attlee, explaining that the whole thing had been handled by Secretary Byrnes in Paris at the peace conference. Mr Truman said otherwise he had no comment beyond the earlier White House statement that he had ordered his special negotiators home from London to talk about the situation.

Henry F. Grady, chairman of this cabinet committee as alternate for Byrnes; G. H. Door, representing Secretary of War Patterson, and Assistant Treasury Secretary Herbert Gaston, representing Secretary Snyder, arrived here today by plane.

Behind all this activity, diplomats seeking to assess the present realities of the Palestine situation sized it up this way:

When the Anglo-American cabinet committee concluded the Palestine partition plan last week, it was sent to Washington and made a favorable impression on Secretary of State Byrnes. He along with his advisers saw in it a "practical" approach to a solution of the Palestine problem and early admittance of 100,000 Jews.

After Byrnes conferred in Paris Monday with Brady and his group there were some indications in reports from Paris that Byrnes and the president were inclined to go along with the British plan.

Subsequently leaders of the Palestine movement, representing powerful political influences in New York and other large cities, made known to the White House and, according to some dispatches, to Byrnes their uncompromising opposition.

Local Man Hit By Car Is Reported Improved

Roy R. Henley, 39, 1136 Holland street, manager of Peter Pan Cleaners, who was admitted to Allegany hospital Wednesday afternoon for treatment of serious injuries suffered when he was struck by a car on North Centre street, was reported "improved" yesterday.

According to Stanford I. Ringler, 35, Route 1, Braddock Farms, in his report to the state commissioner of motor vehicles, Henley ran in front of the car Ringler was driving west on North Centre street at 4:30 p. m. Ringler reported it was raining and said Henley apparently did not see the approaching car as he ran out from between the parked vehicles. The driver said he applied the brakes but could not come to a stop.

FDR Considered Kaiser As Timber For Vice President

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP) — Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, advisor to the late President Roosevelt, said today that for a short time in 1944 the wartime president "was thinking of Henry J. Kaiser — as a liberal industrialist — as a possible vice presidential candidate."

Rosenman's comment was made in connection with an article in the current issue of Collier's magazine in which Writer Lester Velie said "political machine bosses turned thumbs down" on Kaiser.

The former presidential advisor declined further comment on the magazine story which said that Kaiser was summoned to Hyde Park by the president in July, 1944, to learn that Mr. Roosevelt "looked on him favorably for vice-president."

It appeared, the article said, that "Kaiser, a liberal industrialist with a labor following, could add strength to the fourth term ticket." Rosenman was quoted as still telling close friends: "If only we had pushed just a bit harder."

When informed of the article at Oakland, Calif., Kaiser said:

"Although the late President Roosevelt never at any time discussed with me the question of my being a candidate, I later learned that he discussed it with others and did consider it seriously. I have had hundreds of letters from members of both parties urging me to become a candidate, but over the past 20 years I have always taken the position that I would be helpful to any administration which concerned itself with the welfare of the United States.

"I have never been interested in being a candidate for any political office nor have I any intention of changing my position."

'MAGIC CAPE' . . . Good news for shiverers. New fall hats will keep the neck warm. This rose felt derby has a filmy scarf of pale pink balloon silk.

Truman Fails To Challenge Report U. S. Is Opposed To Palestine Plan

By JOHN HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. — (AP) — Diplomatic authorities reported today that the United States and Britain, after nearing agreement on a Palestine plan, are again far apart on the whole issue. Prospects for the early admission of 100,000 Jews to the Holy Land were described as slight.

President Truman himself left unchallenged at a news conference today a report that the American government is opposed to a British-backed plan to divide Palestine. The plan would set aside separate Jewish and Arab zones and let the Jews in their zone handle the immigration problem directly.

The president was asked for reaction to dispatches from London saying Prime Minister Attlee had rushed back from Paris to discuss reported American opposition with his cabinet, and that Attlee had been in consultation with the president.

Mr. Truman confined himself to denying that he had had any consultation with Attlee, explaining that the whole thing had been handled by Secretary Byrnes in Paris at the peace conference. Mr Truman said otherwise he had no comment beyond the earlier White House statement that he had ordered his special negotiators home from London to talk about the situation.

Henry F. Grady, chairman of this cabinet committee as alternate for Byrnes; G. H. Door, representing Secretary of War Patterson, and Assistant Treasury Secretary Herbert Gaston, representing Secretary Snyder, arrived here today by plane.

Behind all this activity, diplomats seeking to assess the present realities of the Palestine situation sized it up this way:

When the Anglo-American cabinet committee concluded the Palestine partition plan last week, it was sent to Washington and made a favorable impression on Secretary of State Byrnes. He along with his advisers saw in it a "practical" approach to a solution of the Palestine problem and early admittance of 100,000 Jews.

After Byrnes conferred in Paris Monday with Brady and his group there were some indications in reports from Paris that Byrnes and the president were inclined to go along with the British plan.

Subsequently leaders of the Palestine movement, representing powerful political influences in New York and other large cities, made known to the White House and, according to some dispatches, to Byrnes their uncompromising opposition.

Local Man Hit By Car Is Reported Improved

Roy R. Henley, 39, 1136 Holland street, manager of Peter Pan Cleaners, who was admitted to Allegany hospital Wednesday afternoon for treatment of serious injuries suffered when he was struck by a car on North Centre street, was reported "improved" yesterday.

According to Stanford I. Ringler, 35, Route 1, Braddock Farms, in his report to the state commissioner of motor vehicles, Henley ran in front of the car Ringler was driving west on North Centre street at 4:30 p. m. Ringler reported it was raining and said Henley apparently did not see the approaching car as he ran out from between the parked vehicles. The driver said he applied the brakes but could not come to a stop.

HINTS AT BLACKMAIL—Paul A. Olson (above) tells the Mead committee as a witness that Elvind Anderson, Tacoma, Wash., contractor, tried to "blackmail" him into withdrawing as a candidate for mayor of Tacoma, by threatening to "injure him in some way" by use of a check for $2,500 which Anderson gave Olson while Olson was secretary to Rep. John Coffee (D-Wash).

Hold That 'C'

Oranges were a rare delicacy in grandmother's time, to be enjoyed chiefly at the holiday season. That's when the custom started of putting bright, golden oranges in the children's Christmas stockings. Oranges appear on most lists of plentiful foods these days. And remember, oranges are specially valuable for their high vitamin C content. They also contain vitamin A and B1 and some of the minerals. From every standpoint, organges deserve to go at the top of wintertime food shopping lists.

Fatty Meats

Since fat is the most concentrated source of heat and energy, the energy value of a piece of meat depends largely upon the amount of fat on the meat and how much of it is eaten. Fat increases the palatability of the meat. Meat which has little fat of its own—such as veal or very lean beef—is improved in eating quality when it is cooked with added fat. Extra fat may be added to a roast by larding the meat, or by laying strips of fat over the top. Lean beef which is ground should have extra fat ground with it.

Choosing Rings

When buying her own engagement and wedding ring, a practice which became a necessity during the war, the lady generally selects a neater, plainer and cheaper set than she would if her fiance were along to influence the choice, according to a jewelry survey in Cincinnati.

Persons who stand in their own light discover their mistake too late.

Girl Is Unwilling To Give Up Man Now Mentally Ill

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority On Problems Of Love And Marriage

Times have changed a lot, thank God, since the days when people thought the mentally ill were persons inhabited by devils. And while we still have a long way to go before society as a whole accepts mental illness with the same sympathetic understanding and the same practical viewpoint as it does physical disabilities, there are far fewer individuals today than there were five years ago who shy away from the subject, horrified and frightened, far more who are intelligent enough to realize that a mental illness does not inevitably disqualify a person forever as a useful, active member of the human race.

Here is a girl who belongs in the latter group; who is sensibly unwilling to shut a friend out of her life because he has had the misfortune to require care in a mental hospital.

She writes:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"What would you do in a case like mine?

"I've been corresponding with a serviceman for almost three years, and about a year ago he stopped writing to me. I took it for granted that he didn't want me to write either, so I stopped.

"About a month ago I heard that he was in some kind of an accident and was in a hospital here in the States. I got his address from a friend who lives near him. I wrote to him and here is what he wrote in answer: 'Just a few lines to let you know that I received your letter and was very glad to hear from you. The reason I haven't written to you before is because I'm in a mental hospital. When I was in that accident, I got hit in the head, and also got a broken pelvis. I was a whole month in bed with a cast and wasn't used to it. I had a nervous breakdown on account of that, and that's the reason why I'm sending your pictures and things back. Please don't tell anyone about me or where I am. Remember, I'm trusting you. I know you wouldn't want anyone who is in a mental hospital. Again I'll say don't tell anyone about me.'

"Now, Miss Fairfax, please tell me what I should do. He means a lot to me.

"DISAPPOINTED."

I think it is fine that this boy means a lot to you, and you can do a lot to help him back to his normal health by being a good friend to him in this hard time.

Here's what I'd do if I were you. I'd write him another letter—just the nice, cheerful, chatty kind of letter you'd write to anyone who happened to be laid up in any hospital for awhile. Tell him how glad you were to hear from him again, and say that you had often thought about him and wondered where he was and what he was doing, just as you would any other friend from whom you had not heard in a long time. Tell him of course you will keep his whereabouts confidential, if that is the way he wants it, but as far as you are concerned, you are very glad and proud that he had enough faith in you, and your friendship, to know that it would make no difference to you where he was and that you are sure his other friends would feel the same way.

Obviously he is recovering from his breakdown, if he was able to write you such a perfectly normal letter, and until you hear from somebody that really knows that his condition is anything more than a temporary one, you have every right to believe that he will eventually be quite himself again.

If he is anywhere near you, you might suggest coming to make him a little call some time. I'm sure it would do him good to see you. To know that he has loyal friends will help him more than anything else to regain the self-confidence he has evidently lost, and which is so necessary to speed his recovery.

HINTS AT BLACKMAIL—Paul A. Olson (above) tells the Mead committee as a witness that Elvind Anderson, Tacoma, Wash., contractor, tried to "blackmail" him into withdrawing as a candidate for mayor of Tacoma, by threatening to "injure him in some way" by use of a check for $2,500 which Anderson gave Olson while Olson was secretary to Rep. John Coffee (D-Wash).

Hold That 'C'

Oranges were a rare delicacy in grandmother's time, to be enjoyed chiefly at the holiday season. That's when the custom started of putting bright, golden oranges in the children's Christmas stockings. Oranges appear on most lists of plentiful foods these days. And remember, oranges are specially valuable for their high vitamin C content. They also contain vitamin A and B1 and some of the minerals. From every standpoint, organges deserve to go at the top of wintertime food shopping lists.

Fatty Meats

Since fat is the most concentrated source of heat and energy, the energy value of a piece of meat depends largely upon the amount of fat on the meat and how much of it is eaten. Fat increases the palatability of the meat. Meat which has little fat of its own—such as veal or very lean beef—is improved in eating quality when it is cooked with added fat. Extra fat may be added to a roast by larding the meat, or by laying strips of fat over the top. Lean beef which is ground should have extra fat ground with it.

Choosing Rings

When buying her own engagement and wedding ring, a practice which became a necessity during the war, the lady generally selects a neater, plainer and cheaper set than she would if her fiance were along to influence the choice, according to a jewelry survey in Cincinnati.

Persons who stand in their own light discover their mistake too late.

Girl Is Unwilling To Give Up Man Now Mentally Ill

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority On Problems Of Love And Marriage

Times have changed a lot, thank God, since the days when people thought the mentally ill were persons inhabited by devils. And while we still have a long way to go before society as a whole accepts mental illness with the same sympathetic understanding and the same practical viewpoint as it does physical disabilities, there are far fewer individuals today than there were five years ago who shy away from the subject, horrified and frightened, far more who are intelligent enough to realize that a mental illness does not inevitably disqualify a person forever as a useful, active member of the human race.

Here is a girl who belongs in the latter group; who is sensibly unwilling to shut a friend out of her life because he has had the misfortune to require care in a mental hospital.

She writes:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"What would you do in a case like mine?

"I've been corresponding with a serviceman for almost three years, and about a year ago he stopped writing to me. I took it for granted that he didn't want me to write either, so I stopped.

"About a month ago I heard that he was in some kind of an accident and was in a hospital here in the States. I got his address from a friend who lives near him. I wrote to him and here is what he wrote in answer: 'Just a few lines to let you know that I received your letter and was very glad to hear from you. The reason I haven't written to you before is because I'm in a mental hospital. When I was in that accident, I got hit in the head, and also got a broken pelvis. I was a whole month in bed with a cast and wasn't used to it. I had a nervous breakdown on account of that, and that's the reason why I'm sending your pictures and things back. Please don't tell anyone about me or where I am. Remember, I'm trusting you. I know you wouldn't want anyone who is in a mental hospital. Again I'll say don't tell anyone about me.'

"Now, Miss Fairfax, please tell me what I should do. He means a lot to me.

"DISAPPOINTED."

I think it is fine that this boy means a lot to you, and you can do a lot to help him back to his normal health by being a good friend to him in this hard time.

Here's what I'd do if I were you. I'd write him another letter—just the nice, cheerful, chatty kind of letter you'd write to anyone who happened to be laid up in any hospital for awhile. Tell him how glad you were to hear from him again, and say that you had often thought about him and wondered where he was and what he was doing, just as you would any other friend from whom you had not heard in a long time. Tell him of course you will keep his whereabouts confidential, if that is the way he wants it, but as far as you are concerned, you are very glad and proud that he had enough faith in you, and your friendship, to know that it would make no difference to you where he was and that you are sure his other friends would feel the same way.

Obviously he is recovering from his breakdown, if he was able to write you such a perfectly normal letter, and until you hear from somebody that really knows that his condition is anything more than a temporary one, you have every right to believe that he will eventually be quite himself again.

If he is anywhere near you, you might suggest coming to make him a little call some time. I'm sure it would do him good to see you. To know that he has loyal friends will help him more than anything else to regain the self-confidence he has evidently lost, and which is so necessary to speed his recovery.

Market Extends Average Advance But Many Leaders Act Bit Tired

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—While the stock market today started the new month by extending its average advance into the seventh consecutive session, many recent leaders acted a bit tired and were inclined to limp.

Dealings picked up at intervals though slowdowns were plentiful. Advances of fractions to a point or so predominated at the close with a few "thin" stocks executing wider jumps. Transfers of 830,000 shares compared with 1,020,000 Wednesday.

Pond Creek common was up 4¾ at $51.50, a 1946 top. New York and Harlem, added 25 points at $310. Eastman Kodak tacked on five at $234 and Hiram Walker 3½ at $143.50.

On the upside were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Sunshine Mining, Kennecott, Cerro De Pasco, American Smelting, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, du Pont, Philip Morris, Electric Auto-Lite and United States Gypsum.

Casualities included Bethlehem, General Motors, Goodrich, American Telephone, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Texas Company, General Electric, American Water Works, Johns-Manville, Douglas Aircraft and Owens-Illinois.

Among Curb advancers were Aireon, American Gas, Gleaner Harvester, National Mallison Fabric, Cities Service and United Light. Turnover here was 220,000 shares versus 300,000 yesterday.

Rails, notably those in the reorganization group, improved over a broad front in the bond market. While price changes were fractional for the most part, several issues affected by specific news developments swung far outside the general range.

In the over-the-counter market long-term United States governments continued a modest rally. Victory loan December 2½s gained 2-32 of a point at 102 28-32 bid.

Sales of $3,750,000 compared with $3,705,000 Wednesday.

Market Extends Average Advance But Many Leaders Act Bit Tired

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—While the stock market today started the new month by extending its average advance into the seventh consecutive session, many recent leaders acted a bit tired and were inclined to limp.

Dealings picked up at intervals though slowdowns were plentiful. Advances of fractions to a point or so predominated at the close with a few "thin" stocks executing wider jumps. Tranafers of 830,000 shares compared with 1,020,000 Wednesday.

Pond Creek common was up 4¾ at $51.50, a 1946 top. New York and Harlem, added 25 points at $310. Eastman Kodak tacked on five at $234 and Hiram Walker 3½ at $143.50.

On the upside were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Sunshine Mining, Kennecott, Cerro De Pasco, American Smelting, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, du Pont, Philip Morris, Electric Auto-Lite and United States Gypsum.

Casualities included Bethlehem, General Motors, Goodrich, American Telephone, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Texas Company, General Electric, American Water Works, Johns-Manville, Douglas Aircraft and Owens-Illinois.

Among Curb advancers were Alreon, American Gas, Gleaner Harvester, National Mallison Fabric, Cities Service and United Light. Turnover here was 220,000 shares versus 300,000 yesterday.

Rails, notably those in the reorganization group, improved over a broad front in the bond market. While price changes were fractional for the most part, several issues affected by specific news developments swung far butside the general range.

In the over-the-counter market long-term United States governments continued a modest rally. Victory loan December 2½s gained 2-32 of a point at 102 28-32 bid.

Sales of $3,750,000 compared with $3,705,000 Wednesday.

Keyser Groceries Won't Sell Milk, Eggs After Aug. 5

Price Changes And Delivery Methods Given As Reasons

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, Aug. 1—The retail food and grocery stores of Keyser have notified their customers that beginning August 5 they will no longer handle milk or fresh dairy products until further notice. They state that recent price changes and distribution methods adopted by the dairy industry, make this action necessary.

One grocer said customers are "up in arms" over the price of 19 cents per quart for milk and said retailers told dairymen they would continue to handle the products if they would lower the rates for milk and milk products.

Dairymen, it was reported, met several times but refused to lower prices. Grocery store spokesmen said the move will prove costly to the diaries since they will be forced to put on additional routes to supply the additional customers.

The dealer said grocers pay 17 cents for the quart of milk they sell for 19 cents and must chill, store and deliver the product and also must pay for lost bottles.

ALBERT RICE DIES

Albert Eugene Rice, 68, retired Baltimore and Ohio Railroad conductor, died this afternoon at his home, 49 Allegheny street following several months illness.

He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the Keyser Odd Fellows and attended First Methodist church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Lurena McIlwee Rice, two children, Mrs. Lillian Mae Baker and William G. D. Rice, both of Keyser, four sisters, Miss Maude Rice and Annie Rice, both of McCoole, Mrs. Berdie Hixenbaugh, and Mrs. Nellie Anderson, both of Keyser and one brother, Raymond Rice, Keyser. Four grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home by the Rev. O. H. Dorsey. Interment will be in Queen's Point cemetery.

In connection with the divorce proceedings, proper arrangements were made for the mother and children, and on motion of the prosecuting attorney, the misdemeanor charges against Whitacre were dismissed.

Elsie Bean from John A. Bean. Their children John Phillip and Donna Lee Bean were given into the custody of their mother.

Keyser Groceries Won't Sell Milk, Eggs After Aug. 5

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, Aug. 1—The retail food and grocery stores of Keyser have notified their customers that beginning August 5 they will no longer handle milk or fresh dairy products until further notice. They state that recent price changes and distribution methods adopted by the dairy industry, make this action necessary.

One grocer said customers are "up in arms" over the price of 19 cents per quart for milk and said retailers told dairymen they would continue to handle the products if they would lower the rates for milk and milk products.

Dairymen, it was reported, met several times but refused to lower prices. Grocery store spokesmen said the move will prove costly to the diaries since they will be forced to put on additional routes to supply the additional customers.

The dealer said grocers pay 17 cents for the quart of milk they sell for 19 cents and must chill, store and deliver the product and also must pay for lost bottles.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug 1—Our tip a few days ago about Lana Turner darkening her platinum blonde hair isn't just a whim on her part. Lana goes into M-G-M's $100,000 prize winning novel, "Green Dolphin Street" as Mary Ann, previously assigned to Katharine Hepburn. A switch in casting puts Miss Hep into "Song of Love" for Clarence Brown, and Lana into her role.

Carey Wilson, who produces "Green Dolphin Street" made a big pitch for Turner. He thought she gave her best dramatic performance in his "Postman Always Rings Twice" and sold the bosses on the idea that she was right for the seafaring costume opus. Victor Saville directs Elizabeth Goudge's story.

—o—

Arturo de Cordova just thought he was through with Hollywood when he left here last year to return to Mexico to make pictures with Dolores Del Rio. Yesterday the Mexican actor flew back to town with a surprise contract—he goes immediately into "New Orleans" for Jules Levey, courtesy of Brynie Foy who has Arturo signed for three Eagle-Lion movies. But the Eagle isn't ready to soar yet—so De Cordova gets time out to make this picture for Levey dealing with the birth of the blues in the title town. Arthur Lubin directs.

* —o—

Gambling equipment is moving into Hollywood like mad—but not because of the sensational Los Angeles Examiner gin rummy expose of last week. Twenty-four professional garbling house dealers, croupiers, and three truck loads of game tables whipped in from Las Vegas and Mexico to the Columbia studio yesterday for the Casino scenes in Dick Powell's "Johnny O'Clock". But before Dick, Evelyn Keyes and the rest of the cast start work, the "pros" will be coached for a full day by Director Robert Rossen on camera technique. In other wards, the real gamblers are going to have to learn to look like the movie variety.

—o—

Mayor William O'Dwyer, of New York, directs the first scene of "Carnegie Hall" when the picture starts shooting under that famed musical roof in August. And the topper is—that for performing this chore, his honor has to have permission from the screen directors guild. He gets it. President George Stevens, himself, will make the official presentation making Mayor O'Dwyer an honorary member of Hollywood's directors guild.

—o—

Dona Drake finished her final scene in "Dangerous Millions" for Sol Wurtzel and collapsed on the set. At first, it was thought it was just fatigue, but after she was rushed to the Cedars of LeBanon Hospital, the trouble was diagnosed as a severe attack of yellow jaundice, settled in her stomach. Dona is fed intravenously and unless she shows marked improvement within the next week she may have to bow out of her next movie job, "Flame of Tripoli" at Universal.

—o—

Hollywood in shorts: Came in this morning to find I had the best reporter in Hollywood covering the beat for me, so I'm printing the following letter from Louella Parsons just as I found it in my typewriter:

Dear Dorothy:

I've just heard that Maurice Costello, matinee idol of the long ago silent days and the Clark Gable-Errol Flynn-Van Johnson of his day, is in St. Vincent's hospital, lonely, unhappy, and feeling like all of us do when we're sick—depressed. I just thought it would be a nice gesture if some of the picture people would write to him, send some flowers, or let him know he's not completely forgotten. Won't you say a word?

I guess I'm an incurable fan, or I've been in so long I'm getting a thrill out of seeing old friends. I went to Romanoff's for dinner, and I've never seen such a turn-out of stars. Joan Crawford, looking oh so well, was there with Greg Bautzer, Spencer Tracy was one who greeted me with a kiss. I was so glad to see David Niven who was there with Young Douglas Fairbanks, who grows more and more like his dad. I thought he looked a little thin. Gene Tierney came in with her husband, Oleg Cassini. She looked much more New Yorkie than Hollywood and could easily claim to be one of the ten best dressed women in her moire suit and picture hat with two perky pink roses. Errol Flynn was there with his inseparable pal, Bruce Cabot, and the boys were stagging it. Is that news?

Have you printed that Gregory Peck is to do "Earth and High Heaven" for Sam Goldwyn? Someone whispered that in my pearly ear.

I met Kenny Delmar for the first time and, of course, he sat on the south side of the booth. I told him, "you look exactly as I pictured you" and Kenny laughed, "you're the first person who ever said that."

Those two grand gents, Lew Schreiber and Charlie Feldman were cooking up some deal—for 20th of course—that you'll have to find out yourself.

Well, dear, this is enough for now. I don't want to have Dr. Verne Mason, Dr. Johnny Jones to say nothing of Dr. Harry Martin, descend upon me.

Vitamin Chemist Would Enrich Rice

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Dr. Robert R. Williams, American chemist who helped develop manufacture of Vitamin B-1, has arrived in Shanghai to set up a process for enriching rice with this vitamin.

Dr. Williams, in China under auspices of the American Bureau of Medical Aid to China and at the invitation of the national health administrator, introduced vitamin-enriched bread and flour in the United States. He hopes a similar enrichment of rice will eradicate beriberi in China.

Rice, he says, can be enriched either by the addition of synthetic vitamins, or by a modification in milling process to preserve the vitamin content.

Use Of Penicillin May Make You Itchy

NEW YORK (AP)—Indiscriminate use of penicillin ointments may cause skin inflammations, particularly of the face, three physicians warn.

Drs. Leon Goldman, Forman Friend and Lester M. Mason of the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine examined 350 patients and found 16 reacted unfavorably to contact with penicillin, men more than women.

Their article in the Journal of the American Medical Association advised, "Use penicillin only where and when indicated . . . not indiscriminately for everything."

Thirst Cure

For a delicious thirst cure for hot afternoons and evenings, combine two tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup strained orange juice with one cup of White Port wine, shake with ice cubes to chill. Pour over ice cubes in tall glasses. Serves two.

That long lane that has no turning may lead homeward.

Nebraskan Rides Range In Airplane

AP Features

O'NEILL, Neb.—When a man has 26,000 acres of ranchland to watch over and in addition the problem of keeping his children down on the farm," he's got his hands full.

Dewey C. Shaffer believes he has the solution: an airplane. By air he can cover his 25,000 acres easily, oversee his 3,000 Herefords and check his 45 windmills and 175 miles of fencing. And the shiny red two-seater he bought in Alliance has put a glamorous punch into ranching for his young son, Larry, and his two daughters.

Shaffer says good ranching practice requires that all cattle, fences and windmills be seen at least twice a week.

"Larry should be able to do the entire job of range riding in an hour," he argues. "Certainly he can make it in two hours."

Larry has been taking flying lessons and has soloed. His sister, Patricia Ruth, who will be graduated from the University of Nebraska this summer, also has taken flying lessons. Shirley, 1946 O'Neill high school graduate, and Mary Elizabeth, sixth grader, are flying enthusiasts.

That's why Shaffer hopes the plane will help him solve that old problem:

"How you gonna keep them down on the farm?"

Every generous individual reaps a larger reward than his miserly contemporary.

The world is divided into two groups—the one living in the present, the other in the future.

The fellow who goes to extremes in one thing follows the same pattern in others.

Dona Drake finished her final scene in "Dangerous Millions" for Sol Wurtzel and collapsed on the set. At first, it was thought it was just fatigue, but after she was rushed to the Cedars of LeBanon Hospital, the trouble was diagnosed as a severe attack of yellow jaundice, settled in her stomach. Dona is fed intravenously and unless she shows marked improvement within the next week she may have to bow out of her next movie job, "Flame of Tripoli" at Universal.

Hollywood in shorts: Came in this morning to find I had the best reporter in Hollywood covering the beat for me, so I'm printing the following letter from Louella Parsons just as I found it in my typewriter:

Dear Dorothy:

I've just heard that Maurice Costello, matinee idol of the long ago silent days and the Clark Gable-Errol Flynn-Van Johnson of his day, is in St. Vincent's hospital, lonely, unhappy, and feeling like all of us do when we're sick—depressed. I just thought it would be a nice gesture if some of the picture people would write to him, send some flowers, or let him know he's not completely forgotten. Won't you say a word?

I guess I'm an incurable fan, or I've been in so long I'm getting a thrill out of seeing old friends. I went to Romanoff's for dinner, and I've never seen such a turn-out of stars. Joan Crawford, looking oh so-well, was there with Greg Bautzer. Spencer Tracy was one who greeted me with a kiss. I was so glad to see David Niven who was there with Young Douglas Fairbanks, who grows more and more like his dad. I thought he looked a little thin. Gene Tierney came in with her husband, Oleg Cassini. She looked much more New Yorkie than Hollywood and could easily claim to be one of the ten best dressed women in her moire suit and picture hat with two perky pink roses. Errol Flynn was there with his inseparable pal, Bruce Cabot, and the boys were stagging it. Is that news?

Have you printed that Gregory Peck is to do "Earth and High Heaven" for Sam Goldwyn? Someone whispered that in my pearly ear.

I met Kenny Delmar for the first time and, of course, he sat on the south side of the booth. I told him, "you look exactly as I pictured you" and Kenny laughed, "you're the first person who ever said that."

Those two grand gents, Lew Schreiber and Charlie Feldman were cooking up some deal—for 20th of course—that you'll have to find out yourself.

Well, dear, this is enough for now. I don't want to have Dr. Verne Mason, Dr. Johnny Jones to say nothing of Dr. Harry Martin, descend upon me.

Vitamin Chemist Would Enrich Rice

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Dr. Robert R. Williams, American chemist who helped develop manufacture of Vitamin B-1, has arrived in Shanghai to set up a process for enriching rice with this vitamin.

Dr. Williams, in China under auspices of the American Bureau of Medical Aid to China and at the invitation of the national health administrator, introduced vitamin-enriched bread and flour in the United States. He hopes a similar enrichment of rice will eradicate beriberi in China.

Rice, he says, can be enriched either by the addition of synthetic vitamins, or by a modification in milling process to preserve the vitamin content.

Use Of Penicillin May Make You Itchy

NEW YORK (AP)—Indiscriminate use of penicillin ointments may cause skin inflammations, particularly of the face, three physicians warn.

Drs. Leon Goldman, Forman Friend and Lester M. Mason of the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine examined 350 patients and found 16 reacted unfavorably to contact with penicillin, men more than women.

Their article in the Journal of the American Medical Association advised, "Use penicillin only where and when indicated . . . not indiscriminately for everything."

Nebraskan Rides Range In Airplane

AP Features

O'NEILL, Neb.—When a man has 25,000 acres of ranchland to watch over and in addition the problem of keeping his children down on the farm," he's got his hands full.

Dewey C. Shaffer believes he has the solution: an airplane. By air he can cover his 25,000 acres easily, oversee his 3,000 Herefords and check his 45 windmills and 175 miles of fencing. And the shiny red two-seater he bought in Alliance has put a glamorous punch into ranching for his young son, Larry, and his two daughters.

Shaffer says good ranching practice requires that all cattle, fences and windmills be seen at least twice a week.

"Larry should be able to do the entire job of range riding in an hour," he argues. "Certainly he can make it in two hours."

Larry has been taking flying lessons and has soloed. His sister, Patricia Ruth, who will be graduated from the University of Nebraska this summer, also has taken flying lessons. Shirley, 1946 O'Neill high school graduate, and Mary Elizabeth, sixth grader, are flying enthusiasts.

That's why Shaffer hopes the plane will help him solve that old problem:

"How you gonna keep them down on the farm?"

Every generous individual reaps a larger reward than his miserly contemporary.

The world is divided into two groups—the one living in the present, the other in the future.

New York Yanks' Home Run Power Sinks Tigers 4-2

Tommy Henrich Hits Two As Gothamites Regain Runner-Up Spot

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP)—Unleashing their home run power, the New York Yankees popped back into second place in American League standings today by slapping down the Detroit Tigers 4 to 2 as Tommy Henrich connected for two circuit clouts and Bill Johnson chipped in another.

The long-range outburst, constituting New York's 20th, 21st and 22nd homers off Detroit pitching this year, broke a Yankee losing streak at three games and restored them to second place, a game ahead of the Tigers. Box:

TRIBE BEATS BOSTON

CLEVELAND, Aug. 1 (AP) — A rapid-fire double play with the bases loaded in the ninth inning spiked a Boston threat today as the Cleveland Indians handed the league leaders their second straight loss, 2 to 1, in the deciding contest of a three-game series.

Mel Harder, dean of the Tribe pitching staff, needed help from Jittery Joe Berry in the ninth, but kept eight hits scattered to notch his second victory. Joe Dobson, relieved by Bob Klinger, was charged with the loss. Box:

How They Fake A Fight—In Hollywood

AP Newsfeatures

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — When you see the boys swapping punches with great fury on the screen, it looks like the real McCoy. But don't be fooled. Below is how it's done in the movies. Actually, before the fight goes before the cameras and sound men for the final take, there have been long rehearsals of the battle sequence. Punches that seem to crash off the jaw or body with seemingly telling effect are really feigned. Neither jaw nor body takes punches. The scars on the eyes and lips? They're put there by makeup men. They also provide the "blood" and "perspiration." The pictures below were taken on the Universal set where Ernest Hemingway's story, "The Killers," is being filmed.

The blows look authentic, so do facial expressions. But they're not. Practice does it.

Lancaster gets a manufactured "cut" over the eye from makeup man Carlie Taylor.

Knockout—Lancaster goes down for count. He takes a "beating" in "The Killers."

BALTIMORE ORIOLES CONSIDER FOUR SITES FOR NEW BALL PARK

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP) — The Baltimore Baseball Company, seeking a new home field for the Orioles, has reduced prospective sites from 12 to four, George Reed, president of the club, said today.

He said that he was eager to obtain suitable property and to start building at the earliest opportunity, but that a permanent site had not yet been agreed upon.

Although the club still owns the old Oriole Park at 29th and Barclay streets, it was indicated that lack of space and parking facilities would rule out that location.

Reed said he was considering a plant that would seat 35,000, with stands holding 15,000 to be completed during the first year. He added that the club desired a site of sufficient size to enable it to increase capacity whenever desired.

Plans call for a new park that would be made available for other sports, providing the city with another football arena, and a place in which outdoor fights could be held.

One-armed Pete Gray recently made seven hits in eight official times at bat in a twin bill against Columbus. His hits helped the Toledo Mud Hens to five runs.

Elks Seeking Win To Catch Caseys

BPOE Battles PE Today; Moose To Hook Up With Woodmen

Wet grounds caused postponement of four games scheduled yesterday in the Rocking Chair Softball League and effort will be made to get two contests out of the way today when the Elks battle Potomac Edison at Fort Hill and the Loyal Order of Moose opposes the Woodmen of the World on the Rolling Mill diamond at 6 o'clock.

The latter contest was scheduled in May but was postponed on account of rain.

A victory today over P. E. will tie the Elks with the Knights of Columbus for first place. The Caseys have won 20 games and lost 4, and the Elks have copped 19 and suffered four reverses.

If the Moose tossers defeat the Woodmen it would place the winners in a fourth place tie with the Texcel Club which has a record of 14 wins and 10 losses.

Racing Commission Opposes Transfer Of Marlboro Meet

Improvements Must Be Made At Marlboro If Races Are To Be Held

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1. (AP) — The Maryland Racing Commission today declined to permit the transfer of the fall race meeting at Marlboro to the Bowie race course, acting upon the advice of the attorney general.

By a 2 to 1 vote, the commission decided, however, to permit a 10-day meeting at the present Marlboro track during September on the condition that certain improvements be made in the track plant.

Chairman George P. Mahoney voted against the issuance of the license for the September meeting.

Discussing possible changes in rules governing stimulation of race horses, Mahoney said the commission was "just keeping its fingers crossed" pending formulation of a new methods to control violators of regulations.

The commission's much disputed Rule 146-D, which provided that a trainer was guilty either of complicity or negligence if analysis disclosed his horse had been drugged curing the 48 hours preceding a race, was held arbitrary and void last week by the Maryland Court of Appeals. The rule provided a suspension of not less than one year for violators.

The tribunal's decision upheld a lower court ruling.

Stating that the commission is trying to work out new rules in conjunction with the attorney general, Mahoney said that it might be some time before a new formula can be worked out.

The racing commissioner, asked what would happen if a case involving horse stimulation occurred tomorrow, replied that he would have to seek the advice of counsel before answering that.

He said further legislation on the subject would be asked at the next session of the general assembly.

CHAMP MARTY SERVO STOPS JIMMY ANEST IN FIFTH ROUND

New York, Aug. 1 (AP) — Welterweight Champion Marty Servo, of Schenectady, N. Y., stopped Jimmy Anest of Brooklyn tonight in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round fight carded as a tune-up for his title bout with Ray Robinson next month.

The champion, who weighed 145½ to Anest's 140, dropped his opponent late in the second round but the bell saved Anest at the count of six.

National League Delegates Meet

Suggestion By Hemsley May Be Discussed At Session Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Rollie Hemsley's suggestion that all major league clubs have player representatives at the policy meeting with club owners in New York next Monday likely will be the main topic for discussion tomorrow when the National League player-delegates resume their meeting in President Ford Frick's office.

Hemsley, now a catcher for the Philadelphia Phils, made the suggestion just as last Monday's National League meeting broke up. A second confab then was scheduled for tomorrow.

Prior to that the 16-man committee, made up of two players from each of the National League clubs, had named Marty Marion, St. Louis Cardinal Shortstop; Billy Herman, Boston infielder; and Dixie Walker, Brooklyn outfielder, as their delegates to the session next Monday with a trio of American league players and three club owners from each circuit.

A five-point program—including suggestions of a $5,500 annual minimum wage, a pension fund and 60-day severance pay—was approved by the national leaguers before Hemsley's request for full representation.

Hansrote Will Pitch Series Opener Here

Larry Hansrote has been nominated by Manager Norman Gerdeman to pitch the opening game of the series for Fort Cumberland Post when it plays Westport Post, of Baltimore, tomorrow at 3 o'clock at Community Park in the Maryland American Legion junior baseball tournament.

The second and third game, if necessary, will be staged in Baltimore Sunday and Monday at Mt. St. Joseph's College field.

Fort Cumberland Post has made an unsuccessful effort to have Legion officials in charge of the tourney transfer the third game, if it is needed, to Hagerstown, a neutral field.

North Carolina Pro Leads Field In St. Paul Open

Johnny Palmer Of Badin Posts 6-Under-Par 66 For One Stroke Edge

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 1 (AP) — Tall, husky Johnny Palmer, 27 year old professional from Badin, N. C., who spent three and a half years in the army air forces, "did everything right" today to score a six-under-par 66 and take the lead in the first day's play of the St. Paul $10,000 open.

Palmer was designated "one of the most promising rookies" by the PGA in 1942, put together consistent three-under-par rounds of 33 on each of the nines. He birdied the third, fifth, seventh, 12th, 15th and 18th holes.

Palmer's best previous showing in the approximately six months he has been with the touring pros was in the Kansas City Open when he carded a 277, three strokes off the 274 which brought victory to Frank Stranahan, Toledo, Ohio, amateur. Stranahan shot a 72 in today's play.

Just one stroke behind Palmer were Henry Ransom of Houston, Texas; Ellsworth Vines of Chicago and Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C. Haefner started on the out nine as though he were on fire, shooting a five-under-par 31. He faded, coming in with a par 36 for his total. New York Yanks' Home Run Power Sinks Tigers 4-2

Tommy Henrich Hits Two As Gothamites Regain Runner-Up Spot

DETROIT, Aug. 1 (AP)—Unleashing their home run power, the New York Yankees popped back into second place in American League standings today by slapping down the Detroit Tigers 4 to 2 as Tommy Henrich connected for two circuit clouts and Bill Johnson chipped in another.

The long-range outburst, constituting New York's 20th, 21st and 22nd homers off Detroit pitching this year, broke a Yankee losing streak at three games and restored them to second place, a game ahead of the Tigers. Box:

How They Fake A Fight—In Hollywood

AP Newsfeatures

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — When you see the boys swapping punches with great fury on the screen, it looks like the real McCoy. But don't be fooled. Below is how it's done in the movies. Actually, before the fight goes before the cameras and sound men for the final take, there have been long rehearsals of the battle sequence. Punches that seem to crash off the jaw or body with seemingly telling effect are really feigned. Neither jaw nor body takes punches. The scars on the eyes and lips? They're put there by makeup men. They also provide the "blood" and "perspiration." The pictures below were taken on the Universal set where Ernest Hemingway's story, "The Killers," is being filmed.

The blows look authentic, so do facial expressions. But they're not. Practice does it.

Lancaster gets a manufactured "cut" over the eye from makeup man Carlie Taylor.

Knockout—Lancaster goes down for count. He takes a "beating" in "The Killers."

BALTIMORE ORIOLES CONSIDER FOUR SITES FOR NEW BALL PARK

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP) — The Baltimore Baseball Company, seeking a new home field for the Orioles, has reduced prospective sites from 12 to four, George Reed, president of the club, said today.

He said that he was eager to obtain suitable property and to start building at the earliest opportunity, but that a permanent site had not yet been agreed upon.

Although the club still owns the old Oriole Park at 29th and Barclay streets, it was indicated that lack of space and parking facilities would rule out that location.

Reed said he was considering a plant that would seat 35,000, with stands holding 15,000 to be completed during the first year. He added that the club desired a site of sufficient size to enable it to increase capacity whenever desired.

Plans call for a new park that would be made available for other sports, providing the city with another football arena, and a place in which outdoor fights could be held.

One-armed Pete Gray recently made seven hits in eight official times at bat in a twin bill against Columbus. His hits helped the Toledo Mud Hens to five runs.

Elks Seeking Win To Catch Caseys

BPOE Battles PE Today; Moose To Hook Up With Woodmen

Wet grounds caused postponement of four games scheduled yesterday in the Rocking Chair Softball League and effort will be made to get two contests out of the way today when the Elks battle Potomac Edison at Fort Hill and the Loyal Order of Moose opposes the Woodmen of the World on the Rolling Mill diamond at 6 o'clock.

The latter contest was scheduled in May but was postponed on account of rain.

A victory today over P. E. will tie the Elks with the Knights of Columbus for first place. The Caseys have won 20 games and lost 4, and the Elks have copped 19 and suffered four reverses.

If the Moose tossers defeat the Woodmen it would place the winners in a fourth place tie with the Texcel Club which has a record of 14 wins and 10 losses.

FROSTBURG, Aug. 1 — Eckhart defeated Harris' Restaurant in a Frostburg Softball League game here today by the score of 7-3.

A meeting of the league will be held Monday at 8 p. m. at the V.F.W. home. Score:

Racing Commission Opposes Transfer Of Marlboro Meet

Improvements Must Be Made At Marlboro If Races Are To Be Held

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1, (AP) — The Maryland Racing Commission today declined to permit the transfer of the fall race meeting at Marlboro to the Bowie race course, acting upon the advice of the attorney general.

By a 2 to 1 vote, the commission decided, however, to permit a 10-day meeting at the present Marlboro track during September on the condition that certain improvements be made in the track plant.

Chairman George P. Mahoney voted against the issuance of the license for the September meeting.

Discussing possible changes in rules governing stimulation of race horses, Mahoney said the commission was "just keeping its fingers crossed" pending formulation of a new methods to control violators of regulations.

The commission's much disputed Rule 146-D, which provided that a trainer was guilty either of complicity or negligence if analysis disclosed his horse had been drugged during the 48 hours preceding a race, was held arbitrary and void last week by the Maryland Court of Appeals. The rule provided a suspension of not less than one year for violators.

The tribunal's decision upheld a lower court ruling.

Stating that the commission is trying to work out new rules in conjunction with the attorney general, Mahoney said that it might be some time before a new formula can be worked out.

The racing commissioner, asked what would happen if a case involving horse stimulation occurred tomorrow, replied that he would have to seek the advice of counsel before answering that.

He said further legislation on the subject would be asked at the next session of the general assembly.

CHAMP MARTY SERVO STOPS JIMMY ANEST IN FIFTH ROUND

New York, Aug. 1 (AP) — Welterweight Champion Marty Servo, of Schenectady, N. Y., stopped Jimmy Anest of Brooklyn tonight in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round fight carded as a tune-up for his title bout with Ray Robinson next month.

The champion, who weighed 145½ to Anest's 140, dropped his opponent late in the second round but the bell saved Anest at the count of six.

National League Delegates Meet

Suggestion By Hemsley May Be Discussed At Session Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Rollie Hemsley's suggestion that all major league clubs have player representatives at the policy meeting with club owners in New York next Monday likely will be the main topic for discussion tomorrow when the National League player-delegates resume their meeting in President Ford Frick's office.

Hemsley, now a catcher for the Philadelphia Phils, made the suggestion just as last Monday's National League meeting broke up. A second confab then was scheduled for tomorrow.

Prior to that the 16-man committee, made up of two players from each of the National League clubs, had named Marty Marion, St. Louis Cardinal Shortstop; Billy Herman, Boston infielder; and Dixie Walker, Brooklyn outfielder, as their delegates to the session next Monday with a trio of American league players and three club owners from each circuit.

A five-point program—including suggestions of a $5,500 annual minimum wage, a pension fund and 60-day severance pay—was approved by the national leaguers before Hemsley's request for full representation.

Hansrote Will Pitch Series Opener Here

Larry Hansrote has been nominated by Manager Norman Gerdeman to pitch the opening game of the series for Fort Cumberland Post when it plays Westport Post, of Baltimore, tomorrow at 3 o'clock at Community Park in the Maryland American Legion junior baseball tournament.

The second and third game, if necessary, will be staged in Baltimore Sunday and Monday at Mt. St. Joseph's College field.

Fort Cumberland Post has made an unsuccessful effort to have Legion officials in charge of the tourney transfer the third game, if it is needed, to Hagerstown, a neutral field.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 1 (AP) — Tall, husky Johnny Palmer, 27 year old professional from Badin, N. C., who spent three and a half years in the army air forces, "did everything right" today to score a six-under-par 66 and take the lead in the first day's play of the St. Paul $10,000 open.

Ask Closed Turkey Season

By C. V. BURNS

During the Fort Cumberland-Leonardtown junior American Legion baseball games here Sunday, a uniformed player sporting a goatee emerged from the local dugout and began warming up relief pitchers on the sidelines.

"Who is that guy?" asked one of the spectators.

"Maybe the Legion is running in a ringer from the House of David," wisecracked another fan.

"It couldn't be Sam Graham because that fellow doesn't have a plug of tobacco stuck in his jaw," observed the second cash customer.

"Could it be one of those fellows from the Mexican League we've been hearing so much about lately?" inquired Col. Nelson W. Russler, the official announcer.

"Perhaps it's Ralph Beard. He plays with one of the Legion teams. Maybe that's why they call him Beard," chimed another.

It was a mystery. Nobody seemed to know the name of the bearded beauty.

We asked Sam Graham on Wednesday night if he knew the name of the fellow with the chin draperies, who warmed up pitchers on Sunday, and the former commander replied:

"Darned if I know."

Sam admitted that there are so many baseball players with the Legion now that it's going to take some time to get acquainted.

Here are the five top pitchers in Cumberland's two softball circuits:

CITY LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Underdonk, Williams St.	12	3	.800
C. Scaletta, East Side	8	2	.800
Roby, Lacy's	16	5	.762
Taylor, Legion	14	6	.700
Decker, Williams St.	8	4	.667

ROCKING CHAIR LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Wallis, Elks	5	0	1.000
Neubiser, K. of C.	9	1	.900
Warnick, Texcel	5	1	.833
Wilkinson, Elks	12	4	.750
A. Scaletta, K. of C.	9	3	.750

The records do not include the two playoff games in the first half when Roy Taylor, of the Legion, marked up two wins and Gene Scaletta, East Side, and Jim Wright, of Lacy's, each lost one game.

While on the subject of pitchers we can't overlook the stellar performances turned in by Richard Lease Zembower, mainstay of the Fraternal Order of Engles of the Interstate League.

Zembower's record to date shows six wins and four defeats and "if" the Birds could have won instead of lost three games by the margin of a single run "Dick" would be right up at the top tied with William "Bootz" Miller, of the Legion, who has bagged nine wins and lost one. That one setback, incidentally, came at the hands of Zembower when the latter turned back the present pace-setters, 9-3.

Three of Miller's triumphs were one-run decisions, the same margin by which Zembower lost three games.

The Eagles' ace has suffered only one decisive defeat thus far, that being a 12-2 loss to Hyndman on May 26. His other reverses were dealt out by the Legion, 7-6, Mt. Savage 5-4 and Hyndman 3-2.

We've seen Zembower toil on the rubber in several games this season and we don't believe there is a harder working twirler than Rapid Richard.

Horses, horses, horses. There are 100 thoroughbreds stabled at Hagerstown awaiting the opening of the ten-day meeting which opens there next Tuesday. The Cumberland meeting follows Hagerstown, Aug. 20 to 31, and then comes Timonium, Sept. 2 to 12; Marlboro, Sept. 14 to 25; Laurel, Oct. 2 to 30; Pimlico, Oct. 31 to Nov. 14 and Bowie, Nov. 16 to 30.

Maryland summer and fall racing comprises 101 days—fifty for the five minor tracks and 51 for the millers.

At the recent meeting of the Maryland Inland Fish and Game Commission a resolution was presented by the League of Maryland Sportsmen asking for a closed season on wild turkey in Maryland and the closing of the wild turkey farm in Western Maryland. But the commission said "no soap."

Among other resolutions offered by the league were:

Reduction of the daily bag limit of trout from ten to five.

Opening of the trout season to be set for the second Saturday in April of each year and for black bass the first Saturday in July.

Asking for a rest period following the stocking of trout on all trouting waters of the state.

Petitioning the General Assembly to legalize the issuance of a special "trout stamp" which must be attached to the regular state angling license.

Nat Hickey, who played in the outfield for the great Johnstown Mid-Atlantic Club of 1925, whose roster included Joe Cronin, now manager of the Boston Red Sox, has been signed to coach the Buffalo Legion team of the National Professional Basketball League.

Hickey, who made a big hit here when he played with the Cleveland Rosenblums and Original Celtics of New Work, resides in Johnstown, Pa. He coached Indianapolis in the pro cage circuit last year.

Leo Mackey and Joe Brehany, Pittsburgh scouts, will direct the Pirates' baseball school to be held in Altoona, Pa., August 5, 6 and 7 from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. each day. Cumberland was dropped from the circuit this year due to the lack of a decent field on which to hold the daily drills.

Only three National League teams—the Cardinals, Braves and Phillies—failed to lead the circuit during the 1945 pennant race.

Pollet Puts Down Dodgers' Uprising As Cards Win 3-1

Brooklyn Lead Is Reduced To 2 1-2 Games; Pete Reiser Injured

BROOKLYN, August 1 (AP)—Howie Pollet strode from the Cardinal bullpen in a drizzling rain today to put down a threatening Brooklyn uprising and preserve a 3-1 St. Louis victory that sliced the Dodgers' National League lead to 1½ games.

PETE REISER

Called into action when the Brooks had Harry (The Cat) Brecheen reeling in the eighth inning Pollet calmly disposed of the threat.

Perhaps even more important to Brooklyn fans than the disappointing setback, their 11th in 15 meetings with the St. Louis gang, was the loss of Left Fielder Peter Reiser who was carried from the field on a stretcher after banging into the left field wall trying desperately to make a catch of Whitey Kurowski's double in the fifth.

Reiser was rushed to Peck Memorial Hospital where his injury was listed as a "slight concussion" on a hasty preliminary examination. There was no estimate of how long the star slugger would be out of the Dodger lineup, but it appeared certain it would be for at least two or three days.

Three innings after Reiser had thumped his head against the barrier, Left Fielder Erv Dusak of the Cards made a leaping stab of a drive off the bat of Joe Medwick that saved the day for the visitors.

Ferrell Anderson's pinch single opening the eighth and Peewee Reese's one-baser to center put the tying run at the plate when Medwick, who replaced Reiser, came to bat. Although Eddie Miksis was able to score after the catch, Dusak's great play helped stall the spurt. When Dixie Walker lashed single to right Manager Eddie Dyer called in Pollet who made Carl Furillo loft a 3-2 pitch to Red Schoendienst for the third out. Score:

Coon "Hunters" Make Their Sport—Hounds Do The Work

AP Newsfeatures

NEW ALBANY, Ind. — Most hunters going into the field with hound dogs trust to luck. But not the coon hunters. They guarantee their sport by laying trails for their hounds to follow. First they take a burlap sack, fill it with bedding from a live coon den and soak it in water. Then they drag the sack through the woods. The man-made coon trail leads to a slanting tree to which a captive coon is chained. After the hounds get a whiff of a live coon in a crate they are taken to the starting line, much against their wish, and sent off. The first hound to reach the tree at the end of the trail always makes an attempt to get to the coon — if he's a coon hound worthy of his name. Prizes are given for the first hound to "hit the line," that is to find the trail and start down it, and for the first dog to reach the tree. The sport flourishes in Southern Indiana. Fifty dogs raced in recent Floyd County Coon Hunters Association field trials.

D. A. KEACH lets his hound get a whiff of the quarry.

LEE RICHERT places a captive coon in a tree, goal of the race.

A. D. PIKE and E. MILLER release their hounds and the coon race is on. Thomas Taylor is the starter.

FIRST HOUND reaching coon in tree wins the race.

Allpulch Ringer Case Is Probed In New England

New Hampshire Will Take Action After Getting Full Report

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 1. (AP)—The New Hampshire Racing Commission checked upon its punitive powers today and then carried out a personal investigation at Rockingham Park of allegations that a five-year-old gelding running in Florida and New England as Allpulch actually was Sea Command, a son of War Admiral.

The Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, headed by Spencer J. Drayton, former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, made the charges yesterday, winding up an eight-state investigation of alleged "ringer" cases.

Drayton said one man made more than $30,000 on Allpulch on one race.

George W. Conway, chairman of the New Hampshire Racing Commissioners, conferred with Attorney General Ernest R. D'Amours.

Conway said afterward the commission took no action and planned none until it had seen the protective bureau's full report. He indicated action might be expected early next week.

Allpulch, listed as owned by the Frances Stable, was scratched from the fifth race yesterday on orders of Rockingham Park's General Manager Lou Smith.

Allpulch was purchased for $210 in June, 1945, and last November J. A. Creal bought the horse "sight unseen" for $500. Sea Command has not been listed among entries since he was claimed for $3,750 at Pimlico last fall.

DE-NAZIFIED GERMAN KIDS JAM GI SPORTS CLASSES

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
AP Newsfeatures

BERLIN, Aug. 1 — It's Abner Doubleday and baseball vs. Adolf Hitler and the Nazi virus in a tussle to reeducate German youth for democracy.

American soldiers, who are famed the world over for getting along famously with kids, are doing an important job on the playing fields of Berlin and the American occupation zone in western Germany, teaching thousands of German children baseball and other American games and giving them a dose of the "democratic spirit."

It's part of the Army's German youth program, designed to use sports as a means of curbing juvenile delinquency and "democratizing" German kids who formerly belonged to the Hitler youth organizations.

In this quadripartite - occupied city, the program is two-ply. The office of military government has a school which teaches baseball and softball to older German boys so they may coach youngsters. Candidates for this coaching school, headed by Capt. Fred Spiegelberg of Omak, Wash., are thoroughly screened under denazification rules.

The soldiers of the Berlin garrison are coaching German children directly at the Sportsplatz near Tempelhof airdrome. There a sports school with more than 600 schoolchildren has been organized and more than 200 turn out daily to be tutored by GI instructors.

"Things are going great," said Lieut. John P. Shinnick of Reynolds, North Dakota, former B-26 pilot who is in charge of the program at Tempelhof. "The kids show up early for play and they want to stay overtime."

Among Templehof soldiers assisting in the program are Sgt. Harry W. Huff of (913 Valley road) Charleston, W. Va.; Pvt. Francis Bolac of (1223 12th st., N. W.) Washington, D. C.; Corp. William Sproul of (318 Freeport Road) Blawnox, Pa., and Pfc. Leroy T. Troup of (Box 627) Saltsburg, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1 (AP)—Charles (Young) Zivic of Pittsburgh scored a stunning upset victory over Sammy Adragna of Carnegie, Pa., tonight in a 10-round bout before 2,529 fans in Zivic Arena.

Zivic entered the ring a 4 to 1 underdog but fought a strong battle all the way and won by a split decision. He weighed 150; Adragna, 147.

In other fights, Cab Calloway, 151, Homestead, Pa., decisioned Ted Diloreto, 150, Wellsville, O., (6); Bill Grombacker, 161, Youngstown, O., knocked out Olliz Madison, 169, Homestead, Pa. (3).

Whirlaway's Sons Bring High Prices

Top Figure Is $50,000; 310 Horses Auctioned For $3,146,100

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 1 (AP) — Thoroughbred buyers continued to build up an all-time yearling auction money record at the Keeneland summer sales today, but the trend was down slightly from the first three days of blistering bidding.

The record was hung up last night, when, at the end of the third day of auctions, 319 horses had been sold for $3,146,100, an average of $10,149 each.

That eclipsed the previous high, established in 1945, when 405 head sold for $3,134,250, an average of $7,739. All horses sold today and tonight will be added to the 1946 record.

Boosting today's afternoon turnover was the sale of a Blendheim II colt for $28,000. J. F. Flanagan, Maryland breeder, claimed the light bay, a foal of Annie Reigh. The consignor was Stoner Creek stud.

J. P. Smith, New York, who paid $54,000 for one yearling earlier in the sale, was high bidder today on a chestnut daughter of Whirlaway-Jeanne D'Arc, consigned by Keeneland Stud, for $19,000. It was the sixth member of Whirly's first crop of sons and daughters to be sold and each brought a price in the high five-numeral bracket. One returned $50,000 yesterday.

SENATORS SETTLE CAMPBELL DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Attorney W. A. Robert said today that President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators has "satisfactorily" settled his dispute with Bruce Campbell, outfielder who was released by the local club.

Roberts is attorney for Campbell who was released by the Senators this spring following his discharge from the armed forces. Campbell claimed he was entitled to a full year's pay under the GI Bill of Rights.

Roberts said Campbell will report to the Minneapolis club where he will be carried on the roster until the close of the season on Sept. 8. The terms of the settlement with Griffith were arranged by U. S. Attorney Edward M. Curran but were not immediately disclosed.

Clark Will Report To West Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—The list of war veterans who will try for berths on West Virginia University's football team increased today when Andy Clark, a regular left end in 1942, paid a visit to the campus and informed Coach Bill Kern he would report to the Jackson's Mill training camp.

The Oak Hill athlete was separated from the army last Monday after serving 18 months in the Pacific Theater as a lieutenant.

His return means Kern will have both of his regular ends of 1942 back this fall. Chet Spelock, who held down the right side of the line, returned from army duty in Europe in time to take part in the summer drills at Keyser.

Kern reported that Howard Lewellen, an end in 1940 who dropped out of school in 1941 and was in the Marines for four years, also may return to the university.

Ask Closed Turkey Season

By C. V. BURNS

During the Fort Cumberland-Leonardtown junior American Legion baseball games here Sunday, a uniformed player sporting a goatee emerged from the local dugout and began warming up relief pitchers on the sidelines.

"Who is that guy?" asked one of the spectators.

"Maybe the Legion is running in a ringer from the House of David," wisecracked another fan.

"It couldn't be Sam Graham because that fellow doesn't have a plug of tobacco stuck in his jaw," observed the second cash customer.

"Could it be one of those fellows from the Mexican League we've been hearing so much about lately?" inquired Col. Nelson W. Russler, the official announcer.

"Perhaps it's Ralph Beard. He plays with one of the Legion teams. Maybe that's why they call him Beard," chimed another.

It was a mystery. Nobody seemed to know the name of the bearded beauty.

We asked Sam Graham on Wednesday night if he knew the name of the fellow with the chin draperies, who warmed up pitchers on Sunday, and the former commander replied:

"Darned if I know."

Sam admitted that there are so many baseball players with the Legion now that it's going to take some time to get acquainted.

Here are the five top pitchers in Cumberland's two softball circuits:

CITY LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Underdonk, Williams St.	12	3	.800

Coon "Hunters" Make Their Sport—Hounds Do The Work

AP Newsfeatures

NEW ALBANY, Ind. — Most hunters going into the field with hound dogs trust to luck. But not the coon hunters. They guarantee their sport by laying trails for their hounds to follow. First they take a burlap sack, fill it with bedding from a live coon den and soak it in water. Then they drag the sack through the woods. The man-made coon trail leads to a slanting tree to which a captive coon is chained. After the hounds get a whiff of a live coon in a crate they are taken to the starting line, much against their wish, and sent off. The first hound to reach the tree at the end of the trail always makes an attempt to get to the coon — if he's a coon hound worthy of his name. Prizes are given for the first hound to "hit the line," that is to find the trail and start down it, and for the first dog to reach the tree. The sport flourishes in Southern Indiana. Fifty dogs raced in recent Floyd County Coon Hunters Association field trials.

D. A. KEACH lets his hound get a whiff of the quarry.

LEE RICHERT places a captive coon in a tree, goal of the race.

A. D. PIKE and E. MILLER release their hounds and the coon race is on. Thomas Taylor is the starter.

FIRST HOUND reaching coon in tree wins the race.

Allpulch Ringer Case Is Probed In New England

New Hampshire Will Take Action After Getting Full Report

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 1. (AP)—The New Hampshire Racing Commission checked upon its punitive powers today and then carried out a personal investigation at Rockingham Park of allegations that a five-year-old gelding running in Florida and New England as Allpulch actually was Sea Command, a son of War Admiral.

The Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, headed by Spencer J. Drayton, former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, made the charges yesterday, winding up an eight-state investigation of alleged "ringer" cases.

Drayton said one man made more than $30,000 on Allpulch on one race.

George W. Conway, chairman of the New Hampshire Racing Commissioners, conferred with Attorney General Ernest R. D'Amours.

Conway said afterward the commission took no action and planned none until it had seen the protective bureau's full report. He indicated action might be expected early next week.

Allpulch, listed as owned by the Frances Stable, was scratched from the fifth race yesterday on orders of Rockingham Park's General Manager Lou Smith.

Allpulch was purchased for $210 in June, 1945, and last November J. A. Creal bought the horse "sight unseen" for $500. Sea Command has not been listed among entries since he was claimed for $3,750 at Pimlico last fall.

DE-NAZIFIED GERMAN KIDS JAM GI SPORTS CLASSES

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
AP Newsfeatures

BERLIN, Aug. 1 — It's Abner Doubleday and baseball vs. Adolf Hitler and the Nazi virus in a tussle to reeducate German youth for democracy.

American soldiers, who are famed the world over for getting along famously with kids, are doing an important job on the playing fields of Berlin and the American occupation zone in western Germany, teaching thousands of German children baseball and other American games and giving them a dose of the "democratic spirit."

It's part of the Army's German youth program, designed to use sports as a means of curbing juvenile delinquency and "democratizing" German kids who formerly belonged to the Hitler youth organizations.

In this quadripartite - occupied city, the program is two-ply. The office of military government has a school which teaches baseball and softball to older German boys so they may coach youngsters. Candidates for this coaching school, headed by Capt. Fred Spiegelberg of Omak, Wash., are thoroughly screened under denazification rules.

The soldiers of the Berlin garrison are coaching German children directly at the Sportsplatz near Tempelhof airdrome. There a sports school with more than 600 schoolchildren has been organized and more than 200 turn out daily to be tutored by GI instructors.

"Things are going great," said Lieut. John P. Shinnick of Reynolds, North Dakota, former B-26 pilot who is in charge of the program at Tempelhof. "The kids show up early for play and they want to stay overtime."

Among Templehof soldiers assisting in the program are Sgt. Harry W. Huff of (913 Valley road) Charleston, W. Va.; Pvt. Francis Bolac of (1223 12th st., N. W.) Washington, D. C.; Corp. William Sproul of (318 Freeport Road) Blawnox, Pa., and Pfc. Leroy T. Troup of (Box 627) Saltsburg, Pa.

Zivic entered the ring a 4 to 1 underdog but fought a strong battle all the way and won by a split decision. He weighed 150; Adragna, 147.

In other fights, Cab Calloway, 151, Homestead, Pa., decisioned Ted Diloreto, 150, Wellsville, O., (6); Bill Grombacker, 161, Youngstown, O., knocked out Olliz Madison, 169, Homestead, Pa. (3).

Whirlaway's Sons Bring High Prices

Top Figure Is $50,000; 310 Horses Auctioned For $3,146,100

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 1 (AP) — Thoroughbred buyers continued to build up an all-time yearling auction money record at the Keeneland summer sales today, but the trend was down slightly from the first three days of blistering bidding.

The record was hung up last night, when, at the end of the third day of auctions, 319 horses had been sold for $3,146,100, an average of $10,149 each.

That eclipsed the previous high, established in 1945, when 406 head sold for $3,134,250, an average of $7,739. All horses sold today and tonight will be added to the 1946 record.

Boosting today's afternoon turnover was the sale of a Blendheim II colt for $28,000. J. P. Flanagan, Maryland breeder, claimed the light bay, a foal of Annie Reigh. The consignor was Stoner Creek stud.

J. P. Smith, New York, who paid $54,000 for one yearling earlier in the sale, was high bidder today on a chestnut daughter of Whirlaway-Jeanne D'Arc, consigned by Keeneland Stud, for $19,000. It was the sixth member of Whirly's first crop of sons and daughters to be sold and each brought a price in the high five-numeral bracket. One returned $50,000 yesterday.

SENATORS SETTLE CAMPBELL DISPUTE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Attorney W. A. Robert said today that President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators has "satisfactorily" settled his dispute with Bruce Campbell, outfielder who was released by the local club.

Roberts is attorney for Campbell who was released by the Senators this spring following his discharge from the armed forces. Campbell claimed he was entitled to a full year's pay under the GI Bill of Rights.

Roberts said Campbell will report to the Minneapolis club where he will be carried on the roster until the close of the season on Sept. 8. The terms of the settlement with Griffith were arranged by U. S. Attorney Edward M. Curran but were not immediately disclosed.

Clark Will Report To West Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 1 (AP)—The list of war veterans who will try for berths on West Virginia University's football team increased today when Andy Clark, a regular left end in 1942, paid a visit to the campus and informed Coach Bill Kern he would report to the Jackson's Mill training camp.

The Oak Hill athlete was separated from the army last Monday after serving 18 months in the Pacific Theater as a lieutenant.

His return means Kern will have both of his regular ends of 1942 back this fall. Chet Speicock, who held down the right side of the line, returned from army duty in Europe in time to take part in the summer drills at Keyser.

Kern reported that Howard Lewellen, an end in 1940 who dropped out of school in 1941 and was in the Marines for four years, also may return to the university.

Rocky Mount Ace May Set Record For Strikeouts

Kennedy Has Whiffed 327; Trucks Holds World Mark Of 418

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., Aug. 1—(AP) — Southpaw Bill Kennedy of Rocky Mount in the Class D Coastal Plain League has fanned 327 batters this season and is well on the way towar setting a new baseball strike out record.

Organized baseball's modern record is held by Virgil (Fire) Trucks of the Detroit Tigers, set in 1939 when he struck out 418 in 273 innings of Andalustra, Ala., of the Class D Alabama-Florida League.

Modern major league record is Rube Waddell's 343 for the Philadelphia A's in 1904. Prior to 1900, when the modern period began, Charles Radbourne of Providence in the National League struck out 411, in 1884.

If the 6-feet-2, 195-pound Kennedy keeps up his present pace, he may be able to surpass Trucks' record.

He has to average 12 strikeouts a game for the rest of the season—figuring he'll pitch in at least seven games—to equal Radbourne's mark. That doesn't seem too difficult, for Kennedy's season average is 14 strikeouts a game.

He's moving at a much faster pace than Bob Feller of Cleveland, the American League and major league leader, who has struck out 239 batters in 207 innings.

The Coastal Plain League consists of eight eastern North Carolina towns. In one game Kennedy mowed down 24 Coastal Plain hitters and several times he has struck out 16.

He has won 20 games and lost three. Half of his victories have been shutouts. He has given up 106 hits and 68 bases on balls in 189 innings in 28 games and has been charged with 17 earned runs.

Tall, blonde and easy-going, Kennedy has attracted major league scouts. The Boston Red Sox got him. Club President Frank Walker did not disclose the sale price but said Kennedy would not join the Red Sox until the Coastal Plain season ends Sept. 2.

Bangert Quits Pro Football For Career As Operatic Singer

BEND, Ore., Aug. 1 (AP)—Wilfred Bangert said today he was quitting the Brooklyn Dodgers of the All-America Professional Football Conference for a career as an operatic singer.

Bangert, National AAU shotput and discus champion and former football player at Purdue and the University of Missouri, said he was leaving for New York, Friday or Saturday and seek assurance that his amateur athletic standing was not impaired. He said he had accepted no pay from the Dodgers, training here, and hoped to compete in the next Olympic games.

He said he would be auditioned by the Metropolitan Opera Company. He is a baritone and is to present a concert here tonight.

Airplane Is Used For Stocking Trout In Grant County

250 Fingerlings Dropped Into Stony River Lake In Experiment

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 1—(AP)—A Grant county lake was successfully stocked with 250 trout fingerlings dropped from an airplane in the first experiment of its kind in West Virginia's history, the conservation commission said today.

Games Protector Harrison Shobe, who made the experiment, said the 30 minute plane ride replaced a hard five-hour trip over a rough, steep mountain road.

The trout, obtained at the Petersburg hatchery, were taken to Stony River Lake in the Allegheny Mountains in a light plane piloted by Hugh Allen, Jr., of Petersburg.

For the dumping operation, Shobe said the craft flew over the lake at its widest part—about a mile—in a smooth glide approximately 20 feet above the surface. He added that the fish were in the lake 33 minutes after they were taken from the hatchery for the airport.

The fish could not be seen after they were dropped, but Shobe, who checked their condition just before dumping them, said "there is no reason why they did not all survive."

Conservation officials said that although fish stocking has been done by plane in other states it had never been tried in West Virginia. It is practical, they explained, only in stocking lakes.

U. S.-Sweden Davis Cup Matches Are Postponed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 1. (AP)—The interzone Davis Cup final between the United States and Sweden, winners of the North American and European Zone championships, has been postponed from mid-August to Sept. 13-15, the Swedish Tennis Association said today.

Lennart Bergelin and Torsten Johannson, Swedish stars who won 17 of 20 matches in their European sweep, plan to leave for the United States by plane approximately a week before the matches at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N. Y.

Stanky Is Spiked

BROOKLYN, Aug. 1. (AP)—Ed Stanky, second baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, had a spike wound on his left instep X-rayed today and was benched by Manager Leo Durocher until the pictures can be studied.

Stanky suffered his injury in the opening game of three game series with the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night when Enos Slaughter slid into second base attempting to break up a double play.

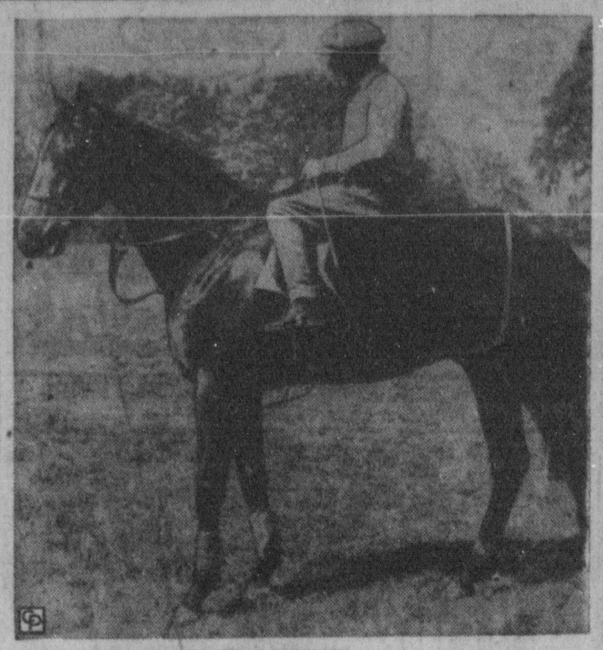

The X-rays revealed there was no fracture and in all probability the scrappy infielder would return to the lineup shortly.

Skins Sign Cifers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—Ed Cifers, 6 foot 2 inch, 235-pound end, signed today with the Washington Redskins.

Cifers, who played with the Redskins in 1941 and 1942 before entering the navy, formerly starred with the University of Tennessee. In three different years there, he played in Rose, Sugar and Cotton bowl games.

Frank Gilhooley, whose son, Frank, Jr., starred in center field for Notre Dame this season, roomed with Babe Ruth when the two performed for the Boston Red Sox in the early twenties.

MOST EXPENSIVE—If you think beef comes high take a look at this hunk of horseflesh which sold in England recently for 28,000 guineas — that's $123,000 in American money! The horse, Sayaji Rao, brother of the famous racer, Dante, was purchased by the Gaekwar of Baroda who will race the horse in England.

ROOKIE KINER NEARS RECORD FOR PITTSBURGH HOME RUNS

AP Newsfeatures

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1 — Ralph Kiner is slugging baseballs out of National League parks at a pace that may stamp him as the greatest home run clouter the Pittsburgh Pirates have ever had.

The 23-year-old rookie outfielder got his 16th homer July 17 against the New York Giants, putting him just seven shy of the Pittsburgh club record of 23 set by Johnny Rizzo in 1938.

Baseball men say he's a cinch to beat the mark, perhaps even press Johnny Mize and other reputable home run sluggers for the league championship.

With the exception of Brooklyn, Kiner has belted homers against every club. St. Louis Cardinal pitchers have been his cousins, he's nicked them for six of his homers.

"But that Brooklyn park really stumps me," the Alhambra, Calif., youngster commented recently. "That's the place in which I not only haven't hit a homer but haven't even got a hit."

Kiner, who stands 6 foot 1 inch and weighs 190 pounds, credits his long driving distance to powerful wrist action. Charlie Grimm, Chicago Cub manager, says he hits even a longer ball than Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox.

STOUT RIDES TRIPLE AT ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP)—Chicago Doctor, owned by J. W. Heinicke, won the Sandy Hook Purse, sixth and feature race at the Atlantic City track today to give veteran Jockey Jimmy Stout a riding triple for the afternoon.

There were ten starters in the six furlongs Sandy Hook and Chicago Doctor finished easy three lengths ahead of Carmel Town. The latter was three lengths ahead of My Malcha, which beat Major Jimmy 2½ lengths for third.

Chicago Doctor ran the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5 over a fast track. He was a popular winner with the estimated crowd of 12,500 and paid $5.30.

Wins Tarpon Roundup

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Aug. 1, (AP)—H. T. Willard, Hopewell, Va., sportsman, is the winner of St. Petersburg's 12th annual $10,000-added Tarpon roundup with the 146-pounder he caught in Crane's Bayou near Sarasota May 25.

Willard's catch became the official winner of the roundup at midnight last night after concentrated fishing from more than a dozen boats at Gandy Bridge had failed in the closing hours of the 11-week contest to displace his fish at the top of the standings.

Rocky Mount Ace May Set Record For Strikeouts

Kennedy Has Whiffed 327; Trucks Holds World Mark Of 418

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., Aug. 1—(AP) — Southpaw Bill Kennedy of Rocky Mount in the Class D Coastal Plain League has fanned 327 batters this season and is well on the way towar setting a new baseball strike out record.

Organized baseball's modern record is held by Virgil (Fire) Trucks of the Detroit Tigers, set in 1939 when he struck out 418 in 273 innings of Andalustra, Ala., of the Class D Alabama-Florida League.

Modern major league record is Rube Waddell's 343 for the Philadelphia A's in 1904. Prior to 1900, when the modern period began, Charles Radbourne of Providence in the National League struck out 411, in 1884.

If the 6-feet-2, 195-pound Kennedy keeps up his present pace, he may be able to surpass Trucks' record.

He has to average 12 strikeouts a game for the rest of the season—figuring he'll pitch in at least seven games—to equal Radbourne's mark. That doesn't seem too difficult, for Kennedy's season average is 14 strikeouts a game.

He's moving at a much faster pace than Bob Feller of Cleveland, the American League and major league leader, who has struck out 239 batters in 207 innings.

The Coastal Plain League consists of eight eastern North Carolina towns. In one game Kennedy mowed down 24 Coastal Plain hitters and several times he has struck out 16.

He has won 20 games and lost three. Half of his victories have been shutouts. He has given up 106 hits and 68 bases on balls in 189 innings in 28 games and has been charged with 17 earned runs.

Tall, blonde and easy-going, Kennedy has attracted major league scouts. The Boston Red Sox got him. Club President Frank Walker did not disclose the sale price but said Kennedy would not join the Red Sox until the Coastal Plain season ends Sept. 2.

Bangert Quits Pro Football For Career As Operatic Singer

BEND, Ore., Aug. 1 (AP)—Wilfred Bangert said today he was quitting the Brooklyn Dodgers of the All-America Professional Football Conference for a career as an operatic singer.

Bangert, National AAU shotput and discus champion and former football player at Purdue and the University of Missouri, said he was leaving for New York, Friday or Saturday and seek assurance that his amateur athletic standing was not impaired. He said he had accepted no pay from the Dodgers, training here, and hoped to compete in the next Olympic games.

He said he would be auditioned by the Metropolitan Opera Company. He is a baritone and is to present a concert here tonight.

Airplane Is Used For Stocking Trout In Grant County

250 Fingerlings Dropped Into Stony River Lake In Experiment

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 1—(AP)—A Grant county lake was successfully stocked with 250 trout fingerlings dropped from an airplane in the first experiment of its kind in West Virginia's history, the conservation commission said today.

Games Protector Harrison Shobe, who made the experiment, said the 30 minute plane ride replaced a hard five-hour trip over a rough, steep mountain road.

The trout, obtained at the Petersburg hatchery, were taken to Stony River Lake in the Allegheny Mountains in a light plane piloted by Hugh Allen, Jr., of Petersburg.

For the dumping operation, Shobe said the craft flew over the lake at its widest part—about a mile—in a smooth glide approximately 20 feet above the surface. He added that the fish were in the lake 33 minutes after they were taken from the hatchery for the airport.

The fish could not be seen after they were dropped, but Shobe, who checked their condition just before dumping them, said "there is no reason why they did not all survive."

Conservation officials said that although fish stocking has been done by plane in other states it had never been tried in West Virginia. It is practical, they explained, only in stocking lakes.

U. S.-Sweden Davis Cup Matches Are Postponed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 1. (AP)—The interzone Davis Cup final between the United States and Sweden, winners of the North American and European Zone championships, has been postponed from mid-August to Sept. 13-15, the Swedish Tennis Association said today.

Lennart Bergelin and Torsten Johannson, Swedish stars who won 17 of 20 matches in their European sweep, plan to leave for the United States by plane approximately a week before the matches at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N. Y.

Stanky Is Spiked

BROOKLYN, Aug. 1. (AP)—Ed Stanky, second baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, had a spike wound on his left instep X-rayed today and was benched by Manager Leo Durocher until the pictures can be studied.

Stanky suffered his injury in the opening game of three game series with the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night when Enos Slaughter slid into second base attempting to break up a double play.

The X-rays revealed there was no fracture and in all probability the scrappy infielder would return to the lineup shortly.

Skins Sign Cifers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1. (AP)—Ed Cifers, 6 foot 2 inch, 235-pound end, signed today with the Washington Redskins.

Cifers, who played with the Redskins in 1941 and 1942 before entering the navy, formerly starred with the University of Tennessee. In three different years there, he played in Rose, Sugar and Cotton bowl games.

Frank Gilhooley, whose son, Frank, Jr., starred in center field for Notre Dame this season, roomed with Babe Ruth when the two performed for the Boston Red Sox in the early twenties.

MOST EXPENSIVE—If you think beef comes high take a look at this hunk of horseflesh which sold in England recently for 28,000 guineas — that's $123,000 in American money! The horse, Sayaji Rao, brother of the famous racer, Dante, was purchased by the Gaekwar of Baroda who will race the horse in England.

ROOKIE KINER NEARS RECORD FOR PITTSBURGH HOME RUNS

AP Newsfeatures

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1 — Ralph Kiner is slugging baseballs out of National League parks at a pace that may stamp him as the greatest home run clouter the Pittsburgh Pirates have ever had.

The 23-year-old rookie outfielder got his 16th homer July 17 against the New York Giants, putting him just seven shy of the Pittsburgh club record of 23 set by Johnny Rizzo in 1938.

Baseball men say he's a cinch to beat the mark, perhaps even press Johnny Mize and other reputable home run sluggers for the league championship.

With the exception of Brooklyn, Kiner has belted homers against every club. St. Louis Cardinal pitchers have been his cousins, he's nicked them for six of his homers.

"But that Brooklyn park really stumps me," the Alhambra, Calif., youngster commented recently. "That's the place in which I not only haven't hit a homer but haven't even got a hit."

Kiner, who stands 6 foot 1 inch and weighs 190 pounds, credits his long driving distance to powerful wrist action. Charlie Grimm, Chicago Cub manager, says he hits even a longer ball than Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 1 (AP)—Chicago Doctor, owned by J. W. Heinicke, won the Sandy Hook Purse, sixth and feature race at the Atlantic City track today to give veteran Jockey Jimmy Stout a riding triple for the afternoon.

There were ten starters in the six furlongs Sandy Hook and Chicago Doctor finished easy three lengths ahead of Carmel Town. The latter was three lengths ahead of My Malcha, which beat Major Jimmy 2½ lengths for third.

Chicago Doctor ran the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5 over a fast track. He was a popular winner with the estimated crowd of 12,500 and paid $5.30.

Wins Tarpon Roundup

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Aug. 1, (AP)—H. T. Willard, Hopewell, Va., sportsman, is the winner of St. Petersburg's 12th annual $10,000-added Tarpon roundup with the 146-pounder he caught in Crane's Bayou near Sarasota May 25.

Willard's catch became the official winner of the roundup at midnight last night after concentrated fishing from more than a dozen boats at Gandy Bridge had failed in the closing hours of the 11-week contest to displace his fish at the top of the standings.

Song And Music To Replace "People Are Funny"

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—Last in the summer replacements could be the program on NBC at 8 p. m. Friday night. It will run seven weeks for Art Linkletter's vacationing People Are Funny.

In contrast to Art's efforts, the replacement is to be song and music under the title of Vacation With Music. Phil Bruto will baritone it and Harry Sosnik will direct the orchestra.

After a whole week without a fight broadcast—there was the Zale-Graziano postponement and none listed for last Friday—ABC gets back to the ringside at 9 for a scheduled welterweight mixup. One pair of gloves will be worn by Willie Joyce, the other by Danny Kapilow.

Originating at the University of Indiana, a program of the dedication of a memorial to Ernie Pyle will be brought in by NBC at 12:45 p. m. The memorial is a portrait of Pyle. Guest of the program is to be 77-year-old Mary Bales, who is Pyle's aunt.

The Mystery Theater of NBC at 9 is digging back into its files for a repeat performance of "The Man Who Murdered in Public." They say it was requested. . . Joan Edwards from the CBS Hit Parade songs will do the guesting with Bill Stern on NBC at 9:30.

Tena and Tim, CBS daytime serial now at 10:30 a. m. after being moved around a bit, moves off altogether with Friday's broadcast. In other words, goodbye.

Tom Howard still is holding forth at 2 p. m. on CBS with his board of experts in reverse for the weekly It Pays To Be Ignorant, sometimes described as an unnecessary quiz.

Navy And Business Are In Struggle Over Cane Land

AP Newsfeatures

HONOLULU—The navy and Hawaii's influential business leadership are quarreling over 1,200 acres of privately owned land within the 1,000-foot perimeter of Pearl Harbor.

The navy said it needed the land to guarantee naval control of the harbor environs. Business leaders, allied with estates owning much of the rich, cane-producing lowland, charged a navy "land grab" and "spending spree" and held the land an important part of the Hawaiian economy which must be kept under private ownership.

A naval spokesman said the navy would withdraw only 153 acres of the tract for freight yards at an ammunition depot and would lease most of the land, with plantation facilities, to present owners.

It's still a good policy to avoid even the appearance of evil.

He Didn't Know It But He Had A Drugstore

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. —(AP)—W. Ray Hagler retired in 1945 as a Murphysboro druggist—but returned to business without his knowledge.

Mrs. Hagler explained that she bought another drugstore here while her husband was in Canada fishing and she "didn't know where to get in tbuch with him."

She added, "I thought we needed something to do."

Success lies ahead, never behind.

Business leaders, allied with estates owning much of the rich, cane-producing lowland, charged a navy "land grab" and "spending spree" and held the land an important part of the Hawaiian economy which must be kept under private ownership.

A naval spokesman said the navy would withdraw only 153 acres of the tract for freight yards at an ammunition depot and would lease most of the land, with plantation facilities, to present owners.

But James L. Coke, representing the Campbell estate, asserted the navy would offer only short-term leases unacceptable to the owners.

It's still a good policy to avoid even the appearance of evil.

He Didn't Know It But He Had A Drugstore

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. —(AP)—W. Ray Hagler retired in 1945 as a Murphysboro druggist—but returned to business without his knowledge.

Mrs. Hagler explained that she bought another drugstore here while her husband was in Canada fishing and she "didn't know where to get in tbuch with him."

She added, "I thought we needed something to do."

Success lies ahead, never behind.

Barton Man, 52, Girl, 13, Denied Wedding License

Couple, Turned Down In Two States, Return To Their Homes

Thomas I. Metz, 52, and his 13-year-old intended bride, Annie Barshlow, were back at their respective homes in Barton last night, still unmarried after their applications for licenses to wed were rejected in two states because of age limitations.

Annie and Metz told a reporter they have decided to wait until she is 16 and the age barrier can be overcome.

Metz, a coal miner, and Annie, who said she was "nearly" 14 and in the sixth grade at Barton school, appeared at the office of the clerk of circuit court here yesterday morning to make application for a marriage license, but were refused by Clerk Robert Jackson who said the law prevented issuance of the permit.

They left Cumberland, court attaches said, with the intention of going to Bedford, Pa., to "see if the laws there will permit our marriage."

Applied At Bedford

Clerk of Court Harold L. Ritchey, of Bedford county, said Metz and Annie appeared before him at the court house shortly before noon yesterday to apply for a license but that he refused them because of age limitations and referred them to Judge J. Colvin Wright.

Judge Wright must have refused them, too, Clerk Ritchey said, because the couple did not return to his office.

Pennsylvania law, the clerk explained, prohibits the marriage of any person under 16 without the consent of the judge.

In Maryland, the law prevents issuance of a marriage license to a girl under 16 unless she has parental approval and a physician's certificate that she is pregnant.

H. O. Rogers, clerk of Mineral county, W. Va., court, reported that the couple did not apply to him for a license, but that he could not have issued one if they had. He explained that under West Virginia law a marriage license cannot be issued to a girl who is not a resident of the State of West Virginia.

Pictures Refused

A news photographer assigned to get pictures of Metz and Annie came away from their homes without success. He said Annie and her mother, Maggie, who consented to the marriage, were in favor of taking a picture but that her foster father and grandfathere were vehemently opposed to it. "They got pretty nasty," he added. At the Metz home, the photographer said, his requests for a picture were refused.

Metz, a widower, is the father of 14 children, several of them veterans of World War II. One of the sons, Harold, come to the court house here in an effort to halt his father's marriage plans, a News correspondent was informed.

A reputable resident of the Barton section, Metz once played second base on the Metz nine, Barton baseball team of a number of years ago.

Barton residents said the couple had been going together for "at least six months" and that "it's the talk of the town."

MULLAN WAREHOUSE PERMIT APPROVED

The Zoning Appeals Board yesterday morning, approved an application made by C. James Mullan, 507 Franklin street, to operate a warehouse at his home address, despite protests of Franklin street residents.

The board ruled that to deny Mullans request, filed under protest, would create "unwarranted hardship" on a man who was in business at his present location before the zoning law went into effect.

The neighborhood protests were filed when Mullan installed an electric motor under the porch of his home to provide power for a refrigeration unit. The residents claimed that the noise annoyed them and made a racket when it was operating.

In the opinion the board stated "that the noise made by the motor may have caused some annoyance to the neighbors" but not enough to disturb persons of normal susceptibilities. Also, the cause of the noise has been abated since the protests were made and the motor has been placed inside the building."

The opinion was signed by Joseph R. Mattingly, secretary of the board and Ralph G. Messmer, a member.

Colored Children Will Have Summer School

The annual summer school for colored children, sponsored by SS. Peter and Paul Catholic church, will open Monday morning. It will be conducted by the Ursuline sisters, under the direction of Sister Pietra, for three weeks.

Classes will be held in the parish school from 8:45 until 11:30 each morning.

Religion in all its different phases will be taught, and will include art, music and Bible readings.

Students will be from 6 to 14 years of age, taking care of school age children through the grades. Anyone wishing to attend, whether Catholic or non-catholic, is welcome to come Sister Pieria said last night.

City Asks Bids For Street Work

The mayor and city council yesterday indicated that work of grading and improving Warwick avenue and Victoria streets will begin in the near future, by advertising for sealed bids for the project.

According to the advertisement the work will embrace the grading, paving and improving of the avenue and grading and paving of Victoria street.

The ad states that approximately 940 tons of black top paving will be used on Warwick avenue and 130 tons will be used on Victoria street.

Local Woman Is Injured In Fall

Mrs. Bessie Shrout, 49, 116½ West Third street, was admitted to Memorial hospital yesterday at 4:15 p. m. for observation and treatment of injuries suffered when she slipped on a banana peel and fell down a flight of stairs at the G. C. Murphy Company store.

Attaches reported her condition as "good" and added she complained of pain in the back and right side.

Harvey Cook, 43, 224 Avirett avenue, was treated in the same hospital at 2:50 p. m. for a lacerated scalp. The B. and O. round house workers said he was injured when he raised up under a car and struck his head against a steel beam.

Ronald Cain, 9-year-old son of Howard Cain, 32 Howard street, was treated at 2:25 p. m. for a cut on the foot after he stepped on a piece of glass in a puddle of water.

Ronald Miller, 8-year-old son of Rodney Miller, Paw Paw, was treated in Memorial hospital yesterday at 7 p. m. for a severely lacerated first finger of the left hand. The lad told attaches he was cut while whittling out an airplane with a butcher knife. Attaches said the finger was almost severed at the first joint.

Claude DuVall, 37, Route 4, was treated at 6 p. m. for a cut on the left thumb. The Kelly worker said he cut himself with an axe at his home.

Robert Alkire, 25, Paw Paw, W. W. Va., was treated in Allegany hospital yesterday at 2:45 p. m. for cuts on the middle and second finger of the left hand. The mechanic said the clutch slipped as he was working on an automobile.

Democrats Pledge Support To Ticket

With party unity the theme, well over 100 Allegany county Democrats pledged their support to the party's state, Congressional and local tickets in the November general election, at a meeting last night in the Democratic Cosmopolitan Club, North Mechanic street.

Speakers at the meeting, presided over by Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., chairman of the Democratic state central committee, represented both the successful William Preston Lane camp and the defeated J. Millard Tawes camp in the gubernatorial primary election. All urged support of the ticket "down the line."

Speakers included William L. Wilson, Jr., a Tawes worker and member of the state central committee; Simon F. Reilly, who was in charge of Lane headquarters in the primary; David Kauffman, who was active in the Tawes campaign; W. Earle Cobey, Tawes candidate for attorney general; Edward J. Ryan, chairman of the Tawes committee; James E. Kenney, chairman of the Lane committee, and William C. Walsh, an active Lane worker.

All county Democratic candidates were introduced and spoke briefly.

It was announced that the party's county campaign committee will be selected by the state central committee, and that the campaign will be opened shortly after Labor day.

Five Are Named To School Posts

The appointment of four teachers and a librarian was announced yesterday by Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools.

Clyde L. Ball, 28, Great Cacapon, W. Va., a former navy lieutenant who commanded a tanker which was sunk off Bougainville, has been engaged as a science instructor at Fort Hill high school. Building Material Is Being Misused, Ramsey Declares

NHA Representative Says "Much Construction Work Unauthorized"

Duane V. Ramsey, area representative of the National Housing Administration, said yesterday that much of the building material shortage in this section is being caused by "non-essential and non-authorized" construction.

Ramsey who has been listening to protests of Cumberland and Western Maryland contractors for the past three days, explained that there is a shortage of material in this area, and the contractors have a right to seek relief, but he added, "large quantities of the needed materials are being used in unauthorized commercial construction work.

Will Give Assistance

The area representative explained that he is trying to do everything possible to correct the condition here, and promised some relief in the near future. He has been meeting with the local contractors to determine the quickest solution to the problems of "small contractors."

Explaining that many of the local builders are filing unjustified complaints, Ramsey said, "much of it is not intentional, but the very complaints that are being filed are about work that is unauthorized."

A lot of material arriving in this section is being channeled into "other than veteran housing projects," he said, "and this will be curtailed immediately. During the past three days I have investigated the protests and found many of the construction jobs are unauthorized."

Ramsey explained that contractors are applying to local lumber dealers for material without submitting the written certificates which are required to give assurance that all material obtained will be used for the approved project.

Permits Can Be Obtained

There are numerous commercial jobs for which permits can be obtained, Ramsey said, but the contractors must obtain permission from the Baltimore office of the Civilian Production Administration and the same is true of residential construction, the representative said. Permits for this type of work must come from the Baltimore office of the Federal Housing Administration.

Local supply dealers have been informed about the use of certified building permits, Ramsey said, and they aren't going to release material until the qualifications are complied with.

He explained that 75 per cent of the lumber received in this area must be held for veteran housing projects.

Ramsey who represents the housing administration in Maryland and New York completed his visit here yesterday.

Price Of Gasoline Increases One Cent

The price of gasoline, both standard and "high test" grades, was increased one cent a gallon generally throughout the county yesterday, R. B. MacBeth, sales supervisor of the local office of the Standard Oil Company, said last night.

At service stations and garages where the price was not hiked yesterday, the boost probably will take place today, he predicted. Standard gasoline went up from 20 to 21 cents and the price of premium grades was increased from 22 cents a gallon to 23 cents.

MacBeth said the increase is due to the fact that the wholesale price of gasoline has been hiked .85 per cent over existing prices.

Wholesalers were informed that kerosene was increased six-tenths of one per cent in this area along with heating fuel and Diesel fuel.

103rd Birthday Will Be Observed By Mrs. Lydia Hitchcock Saturday

Cumberlander Is Intensely Interested In Various Activities Around Her

Mrs. Lydia H. Hitchcock will celebrate her 103rd birthday tomorrow, and for several days, judging by the way her friends are beginning to send flowers and gifts to her, to avoid her having them all at one time.

A daughter of the late John J. and Sarah E. McKee Humbird, she was born in Cumberland August 3, 1843, and has resided here all her life, with the exception of the early years of her married life, when she traveled through the west with her husband, the late Luke H. Hitchcock.

Although a patient in Memorial hospital since November 7, 1945 Mrs. Hitchcock, while her condition is delicate, is in remarkably good health, and is intensely interested in all the activities about the hospital. With the exception of last February, when she contracted pneumonia, Mrs. Hitchcock had not been ill and is able to go out on the porch whenever she desires.

Always a great student and interested in life, Mrs. Hitchcock delights in the visits of her doctor and family and the student nurses visiting her know they must be careful of their English or she will correct them, for her mind is still alert and active.

At the age of 17 Miss Lydia Humbird became the bride of Luke H. Hitchcock, at the home of her parents, 105 Frederick street, with the Rev. Mr. Simms, of the Presbyterian church, officiating. As her wedding gift to her attendants, she took her entire bridal party by stage coach to Baltimore.

The young husband, a civil engineer employed by his father-in-law, assisted him in building railroads throughout the west, and his bride traveled with him. Becoming a widow at the age of 39, Mrs. Hitchcock returned to Cumberland and resided at 21 North Allegany street, until last year when she decided to make her home with her granddaughter, Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, 805 Mt. Royal avenue.

Mrs. Hitchcock is a member of Emmanuel Episcopal church and until recent years was an active member of both the Emmanuel Guild and the Ladies Aid.

Besides her granddaughter, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Hitchcock has two great grandsons, Charles Hitchcock Johnson and William Edward Johnson, who since their discharge from service are residing in Cumberland; three great-great grandchildren, Mary Josephine Johnson, 5 years, and William Edward Johnson, Jr., 7 months, this city, and Charles Walter Johnson, 2 years, who has lived with his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Howard Stayner, Broadway, Va., since his mother's death. One nephew, William DeVries, resides in LaVale.

Labor Unity Group Does Not Take Sides In Garment Dispute

Paul Burley, secretary, reported last night that the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference did not take sides in the strike at the Cumberland Undergarment Company since the organization's constitution forbids any interference in jurisdictional disputes.

Individually, he reported, members promised to do all they could for the girls who are now picketing the Gay street garment plant.

C. E. Stutzman, chairman, will call a meeting this week of the 16-man committee who will draw up plans for the Labor day celebration to be sponsored by the group representing AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods and Independent unions of Allegany county.

Army Recruiting Program To Have Kiwanis Backing

Members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club will participate in a volunteer army recruiting plan designed primarily to insure America's security and to promote world order, O. J. Hale, president of the club announced yesterday.

The War department sometime ago asked Kiwanis International to jointly sponsor the volunteer army recruiting plan and the service organization's board of trustees voted in June at Atlantic City to urge more than 2,300 Kiwanis clubs in the United States to actively co-operate in the drive for enlistments.

In this connection, President Truman expressed the hope that "every individual and group will give earnest and enthusiastic co-operation" to the War department's program to rebuild the regular army.

In calling for the support of Cumberland Kiwanians, the War department and Kiwanis International set a goal of one regular army enlistment for each 100 members in each Kiwanis club every month. Under this arrangement, the plan would produce several thousand enlistments a year.

To spur interest in the campaign, special awards will be offered to clubs achieving the highest percentage of quota each month.

At yesterday's meeting of the club Sgt. Bernard Roudabush, of the army recruiting office in Cumberland outlined the army recruiting program and then answered a number of questions asked by the members.

After announcing that the club would give its support to the recruiting program a committee composed entirely of World War 2 veterans was appointed by the club president to give whatever assistance it can to army recruiters here. Members of the committee are:

Thomas B. Finan, chairman; Dr. W. H. Ryan, W. Earle Cobey, John Oliver, Wilbur Bishop, Thomas E. Gilchrist, Jr., Thomas Cullen, Dr. F. B. Whitworth, and Dr. W. A. VanOrmer.

W. Rodes Lewis, Arlington, Va., lieutenant governor of the Capital Kiwanis District, spoke briefly and presented an award to the club for having already surpassed its membership goal for 1946.

Beer License Case Will Be Concluded This Morning

Petitioners Ask Revocation Of Peter V. Carpenti's Permit

Completion of a hearing on a petition requesting the revocation of the beer and wine license of Peter V. Carpenti, who operates the City cafe, 124 North Centre street, was postponed yesterday afternoon by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper until this morning at 10 a. m. to give him and attorneys time to study the law in such cases.

Judge Capper pointed out to William A. Gunter, attorney for Carpenti, and William M. Somerville, attorney for Mrs. Ethel B. Liles, North Centre street, one of the petitioners for the revocation, that there had been no revocation hearings since he had been on the bench.

The petitioners complained of disturbances and disorderly conduct at the establishment, both inside and outside. They declared that patrons of the establishment used nearby doorways and an alley as public toilets.

Received Numerous Calls

Sgt. John Sherry, desk sergeant at police headquarters, said he received numerous calls about disturbances at the cafe, but that the callers refused to give their names. Consequently, he added, officers were not sent to investigate. Sherry said, however, that Mrs. Liles had appeared in person at police headquarters on several occasions to report disturbances at the cafe and also had telephoned, giving her name, and that all of these reports were investigated. Sherry also told of one fight that took place recently in front of the establishment.

City Officer Arthur Kennell testified that in line of duty he has visited the place frequently since Carpenti got his license on May 1 and that there were no disturbances except on two occasions when police were summoned.

Respectable Establishment

Carpenti, Iva Cosgrove, a waitress in the cafe, and a bartender testified to the effect that the cafe is run as a respectable establishment.

All three testified that the last call for drinks is served at 11:30 p. m. and that at 11:45 patrons are asked to leave. They said very few persons congregate in front of the establishment and that most who do are waiting for taxicabs.

Carpenti said the cafe is as "quiet as any cocktail lounge in town. We all have our troubles. You have to expect troubles."

Police Probe Robbery At Purple Heart Club

City police said last night they are still seeking the intruder who broke into the club room of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, 72 Greene street, July 22, and escaped with cash and liquor valued at about $150.

Police said the robber entered the club by removing the screen and then forcing a rear window. The loot was described as a glass jar containing about $50 collected for the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and five cases of beer and two cases of whiskey worth about $100.

Albert Kliffner, 905 Shade's lane, reported to police that a billfold containing his operator's card and B. and O. pass and overalls were taken from his car while the vehicle was parked at Constitution park July 28.

Howard Rodeheaver, 206 Thomas street, said a .38 caliber Iver-Johnson revolver was stolen from the glove compartment of his truck parked in front of 136 North Centre street Tuesday at 11 a. m.

13 County Youths To Attend State 4-H Club Week

Two Members Win Free Trips For Records In Dairy Contest

Thirteen Allegany county 4-H club boys have registered to attend State 4-H Club week at the University of Maryland, beginning Monday, Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, reported yesterday.

Five days of classes, judging and demonstration contests, recreation and assembly programs are scheduled, with Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of the Selective Service program, slated to speak at an older youth meeting Thursday afternoon.

This 24th annual 4-H club week is the first since 1941, due to travel restrictions in the war years, and attendance from the 23 counties of the state is expected to exceed 900, Steger said.

He added that two youths who will attend from this county won free trips to club week as a result of their high standing in an efficient dairy production contest. They are Harry Johnson, Jr., Cumberland, and Robert Miller, Jr., Frostburg, Route 1. They will make the trip by bus along with 11 boys expected to attend, leaving the court house Monday at 6:30 a. m.

Following registration Monday afternoon, morning programs through the week will be devoted to contests and demonstrations, and afternoons will be devoted to assemblies and to feature speakers. There will be an evening twilight hour of recreation and group singing daily.

Among the speakers at club week will be Dr. R. Floyd Cromwell, of the state department of education; Dr. Charl Williams, of the National Education Association, Washington, D. C., and Dr. Warren D. Bowman, Church of the Brethren minister, Washington, D. C.

PEPSI-COLA STRIKE IS STILL UNSETTLED

A series of meetings yesterday failed to bring about an agreement on a settlement of the strike which began at the Pepsi-Cola plant here July 1, C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, reported last night.

The union official said the parties were "pretty close together" and said the company agrees to increases for inside workers while the union is asking a 15-cent hourly increase for all employes.

He reported the company offers paid holidays for plant workers but is unwilling to make the same offer for men on delivery routes.

Stutzman met at 7:30 p. m. with Frederick A. Puderbaugh, company attorney, and James A. Holden, federal conciliator, in an attempt to settle the lengthy strike.

Stutzman said workers met with him in the union hall at 8:30 p. m. and refused a company offer. The labor official met later last night with the company attorney but reported no progress, saying that the strike will continue.

Clerks Reject Offer By Rosenbaum Store

Members of Local 654, Retail Clerks, yesterday rejected a company offer for a new contract at the Rosenbaum department store, C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council said. He added agreement has been reached on all issues except hours and wages and said clerks still insist on a 40 hour week.

The store has offered a $2 weekly raise to clerks who also receive a commission and $3 weekly for employes who work without a commission.

Enlist In Marines

Two more men from this area have enlisted in the United States Marines, according to the local recruiting office. They are Herbert Lee Crites, of Greenspring, West Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Crites. He enlisted for two years in the aviation division and was shipped to Parris Island. The other is Curtis Richard Stahlman, 18, of Ellerslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Banks O. Stahlman. He enlisted for three years of general service and was also stationed at Parris Island.

Full Production Expected Today At Kelly Plant

Rubber Employes Resume Work After Accepting Compromise Offer

Limited production was resumed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company yesterday after workers of the curing room, at a meeting yesterday morning with officials of Local 26, URCLPWA, accepted a compromise production proposal and voted to return to work.

A Kelly official reported at 11:15 p. m. that he estimated 75 per cent of the 11 p. m. shift reported for duty and added plant officials were busy juggling help in order to secure balanced production. Half of the 3 p. m. shift reported for duty yesterday.

Ralph C. Beard, president of the union, reported last night that the settlement reached at yesterday morning's meeting was satisfactory to the membership and said all workers were expected to report on their regular shifts today.

Kelly officials reported at 4 p. m. yesterday that about half of the 650 to 700 workers on that shift had reported for work and that 36 of the 73 curing room employes were back at their posts.

Full production at the local tire plant, which was closed Tuesday afternoon by a strike which plant officials termed unauthorized, is expected this morning.

Precipitates Walkout

The walkout of ten workers of the curing room department early Tuesday morning precipitated a walkout which threw about 2,500 employes out of work that afternoon.

Ralph C. Beard, president of the union, said workers on Nos. 4 and 5 loop machines in the curing room met yesterday at 9:30 a. m. and voted to return to work after accepting a proposal for the settlement of the dispute.

The proposal the workers accepted will give the company approximately the production it requires and will at the same time guarantee the workers against any loss of pay, Beard said. Relief crews will be provided during lunch periods so that equipment may be operated continuously.

A company spokesman said the four-man crew has been producing 24 heats each shift and that the company requested 27 heats from the four-man crew with the addition of a relief man and 33 heats from the five-man crew with a relief man. (By a heat, rubber workers mean 18 or 19 molds in one vat, or in other words the curing of 18 or 19 tires per heat).

The company spokesman added that the compromise plan will offer a task allowance to enable the five-man crew to work up to 33 heats which would allow them to maintain normal earnings levels while they were working up to the higher output.

Ask Wage Increase

The union announced that it has notified the company of its intentions to open negotiations for a wage increase at the Kelly plant. Wage talks will begin in the near future, Beard said.

The union official reported on grievances at the Kelly plant at the night meeting and was instructed by the members as to how to proceed in the settlement of the issues.

The negotiating committee of the local was instructed by the members to meet with officers of the international union in Akron so they may check the contract now being negotiated with the Kelly plant with other agreements being negotiated in the rubber industry, Beard said. He added that seven issues still remain unresolved in the Kelly agreement.

A committee will be named, Beard reported, to draw up resolutions to be presented at the 11th annual URCLPWA convention to be held in San Francisco beginning September 16.

Three delegates will be named to represent the local at a meeting Sunday, August 18, at 2:30 p. m., Beard said. The three highest of the 150 nominees will be chosen, Beard said, and the next three will be named alternates.

GARMENT WORKERS WILL MEET TODAY

Recent developments in the strike which caused a shutdown of the Cumberland Undergarment Company will be reported at a meeting of Local 434, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, in Allegany Trades Council hall today at 2 p. m., Mrs. Wanda Ashenfelter, president, reported yesterday.

Maurice Milberg, manager of the garment company which has been closed since July 18 by a strike which ILGWU officials declared unauthorized, said the international has informed him that any arrangements made with the newly elected officers of the local will not be binding.

Millberg said he has no intentions of negotiating with the group headed by Mrs. Margaret Chase, former chair lady and declared the faction conducting the strike is an insurgent group.

Mrs. Chase said the union's committees and the Western Maryland Joint Labor Committee are continuing to support the strike for a wage increase.

Lightning Damages Church Steeple

A bolt of lightning which struck the top of the steeple of St. Patrick's Catholic church here yesterday at 1 p. m. during a severe rain and electrical storm caused some damage to the slate roof and timbers of the structure, Central Fire Company reported.

Firemen said the steeple was damaged about five feet above the bell and added that the bolt, fortunately did not cause a blaze.

East Side firemen answered a false alarm at the home of Mrs. H. L. Bolinger, 230 Cecilia street, yesterday at 10 a. m. Firemen said neighbors saw smoke from papers being burned in a can in the back yard and turned in an alarm.

Barton Man, 52, Girl, 13, Denied Wedding License

Couple, Turned Down In Two States, Return To Their Homes

Tiffomas I. Metz, 52, and his 13-year-old intended bride, Annie Barthlow, were back at their respective homes in Barton last night, still unmarried after their applications for licenses to wed were rejected in two states because of age limitations.

Annie and Metz told a reporter they have decided to wait until she is 18 and the age barrier can be overcome.

Metz, a coal miner, and Annie, who said she was "nearly" 14 and in the sixth grade at Barton school, appeared at the office of the clerk of circuit court here yesterday morning to make application for a marriage license, but were refused by Clerk Robert Jackson who said the law prevented issuance of the permit.

They left Cumberland, court attaches said, with the intention of going to Bedford, Pa., to "see if the laws there will permit our marriage."

Applied At Bedford

Clerk of Court Harold L. Ritchey, of Bedford county, said Metz and Annie appeared before him at the court house shortly before noon yesterday to apply for a license but that he refused them because of age limitations and referred them to Judge J. Colvin Wright.

Judge Wright must have refused them, too, Clerk Ritchey said, because the couple did not return to his office.

Pennsylvania law, the clerk explained, prohibits the marriage of any person under 16 without the consent of the judge.

In Maryland, the law prevents issuance of a marriage license to a girl under 16 unless she has parental approval and a physician's certificate that she is pregnant.

H. O. Rogers, clerk of Mineral county, W. Va., court, reported that the couple did not apply to him for a license, but that he could not have issued one if they had. He explained that under West Virginia law a marriage license cannot be issued to a girl who is not a resident of the State of West Virginia.

Pictures Refused

A news photographer assigned to get pictures of Metz and Annie came away from their homes without success. He said Annie and her mother, Maggie, who consented to the marriage, were in favor of taking a picture but that her foster father and grandfathere were vehemently opposed to it. "They got pretty nasty," he added. At the Metz home, the photographer said, his requests for a picture were refused.

Metz, a widower, is the father of 14 children, several of them veterans of World War II. One of the sons, Harold, come to the court house here in an effort to halt his father's marriage plans, a News correspondent was informed.

A reputable resident of the Barton section, Metz once played second base on the Metz nine, Barton baseball team of a number of years ago.

Barton residents said the couple had been going together for "at least six months" and that "it's the talk of the town."

MULLAN WAREHOUSE PERMIT APPROVED

The Zoning Appeals Board yesterday morning, approved an application made by C. James Mullan, 507 Franklin street, to operate a warehouse at his home address, despite protests of Franklin street residents.

The board ruled that to deny Mullans request, filed under protest, would create "unwarranted hardship" on a man who was in business at his present location before the zoning law went into effect.

The neighborhood protests were filed when Mullan installed an electric motor under the porch of his home to provide power for a refrigeration unit. The residents claimed that the noise annoyed them and made a racket when it was operating.

In the opinion the board stated "that the noise made by the motor may have caused some annoyance to the neighbors" but not enough to disturb persons of normal susceptibilities. Also, the cause of the noise has been abated since the protests were made and the motor has been placed inside the building."

The opinion was signed by Joseph R. Mattingly, secretary of the board and Ralph G. Messmer, a member.

Attaches reported her condition as "good" and added she complained of pain in the back and right side.

Harvey Cook, 43, 234 Avirett avenue, was treated in the same hospital at 2:50 p. m. for a lacerated scalp. The B. and O. round house workers said he was injured when he raised up under a car and struck his head against a steel beam.

Democrats Pledge Support To Ticket

With party unity the theme, well over 100 Allegany county Democrats pledged their support to the party's state, Congressional and local tickets in the November general election, at a meeting last night in the Democratic Cosmopolitan Club, North Mechanic street.

Speakers at the meeting, presided over by Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., chairman of the Democratic state central committee, represented both the successful William Preston Lane camp and the defeated J. Millard Tawes camp in the gubernatorial primary election. All urged support of the ticket "down the line."

Speakers included William L. Wilson, Jr., a Tawes worker and member of the state central committee; Simon F. Reilly, who was in charge of Lane headquarters in the primary; David Kauffman, who was active in the Tawes campaign; W. Earle Cobey, Tawes candidate for attorney general; Edward J. Ryan, chairman of the Tawes committee; James E. Kenney, chairman of the Lane committee, and William C. Walsh, an active Lane worker.

All county Democratic candidates were introduced and spoke briefly.

It was announced that the party's county campaign committee will be selected by the state central committee, and that the campaign will be opened shortly after Labor day.

Building Material Is Being Misused, Ramsey Declares

NHA Representative Says "Much Construction Work Unauthorized"

Duane V. Ramsey, area representative of the National Housing Administration, said yesterday that much of the building material shortage in this section is being caused by "non-essential and unauthorized" construction.

Ramsey who has been listening to protests of Cumberland and Western Maryland contractors for the past three days, explained that there is a shortage of material in this area, and the contractors have a right to seek relief, but he added, "large quantities of the needed materials are being used in unauthorized commercial construction work.

Will Give Assistance

The area representative explained that he is trying to do everything possible to correct the condition here, and promised some relief in the near future. He has been meeting with the local contractors to determine the quickest solution to the problems of "small contractors."

Explaining that many of the local builders are filing unjustified complaints, Ramsey said, "much of it is not intentional, but the very complaints that are being filed are about work that is unauthorized."

A lot of material arriving in this section is being channeled into "other than veteran housing projects," he said, "and this will be curtailed immediately. During the past three days I have investigated the protests and found many of the construction jobs are unauthorized."

Ramsey explained that contractors are applying to local lumber dealers for material without submitting the written certificates which are required to give assurance that all material obtained will be used for the approved project.

Permits Can Be Obtained

There are numerous commercial jobs for which permits can be obtained, Ramsey said, but the contractors must obtain permission from the Baltimore office of the Civilian Production Administration and the same is true of residential construction, the representative said. Permits for this type of work must come from the Baltimore office of the Federal Housing Administration.

Local supply dealers have been informed about the use of certified building permits, Ramsey said, and they aren't going to release material until the qualifications are compiled with.

He explained that 75 per cent of the lumber received in this area must be held for veteran housing projects.

Ramsey who represents the housing administration in Maryland and New York completed his visit here yesterday.

Price Of Gasoline Increases One Cent

The price of gasoline, both standard and "high test" grades, was increased one cent a gallon generally throughout the county yesterday, R. B. MacBeth, sales supervisor of the local office of the Standard Oil Company, said last night.

At service stations and garages where the price was not hiked yesterday, the boost probably will take place today, he predicted. Standard gasoline went up from 20 to 21 cents and the price of premium grades was increased from 22 cents a gallon to 23 cents.

MacBeth said the increase is due to the fact that the wholesale price of gasoline has been hiked .85 per cent over existing prices.

Wholesalers were informed that kerosene was increased six-tenths of one per cent in this area along with heating fuel and Diesel fuel.

103rd Birthday Will Be Observed By Mrs. Lydia Hitchcock Saturday

Cumberlander Is Intensely Interested In Various Activities Around Her

Mrs. Lydia H. Hitchcock will celebrate her 103rd birthday tomorrow, and for several days, judging by the way her friends are beginning to send flowers and gifts to her, to avoid her having them all at one time.

A daughter of the late John J. and Sarah E. McKee Humbird, she was born in Cumberland August 3, 1843, and has resided here all her life, with the exception of the early years of her married life, when she traveled through the west with her husband, the late Luke H. Hitchcock.

Although a patient in Memorial hospital since November 7, 1945 Mrs. Hitchcock, while her condition is delicate, is in remarkably good health, and is intensely interested in all the activities about the hospital. With the exception of last February, when she contracted pneumonia, Mrs. Hitchcock had not been ill and is able to go out on the porch whenever she desires.

Always a great student and interested in life, Mrs. Hitchcock delights in the visits of her doctor and family and the student nurses visiting her know they must be careful of their English or she will correct them, for her mind is still alert and active.

At the age of 17 Miss Lydia Humbird became the bride of Luke H. Hitchcock, at the home of her parents, 105 Frederick street, with the Rev. Mr. Simms, of the Presbyterian church, officiating. As her wedding gift to her attendants, she took her entire bridal party by stage coach to Baltimore.

The young husband, a civil engineer employed by his father-in-law, assisted him in building railroads throughout the west, and his bride traveled with him. Becoming a widow at the age of 39, Mrs. Hitchcock returned to Cumberland and resided at 21 North Allegany street, until last year when she decided to make her home with her granddaughter, Mrs. Eleanor Johnson, 805 Mt. Royal avenue.

Mrs. Hitchcock is a member of Emmanuel Episcopal church and until recent years was an active member of both the Emmanuel Guild and the Ladies Aid.

Besides her granddaughter, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Hitchcock has two great grandsons, Charles Hitchcock Johnson and William Edward Johnson, who since their discharge from service are residing in Cumberland; three great-great grandchildren, Mary Josephine Johnson, 5 years, and William Edward Johnson, Jr., 7 months, this city, and Charles Walter Johnson, 6 years, who has lived with his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Howard Stayner, Broadway, Va., since his mother's death. One nephew, William DeVries, resides in LaVale.

Labor Unity Group Does Not Take Sides In Garment Dispute

Paul Burley, secretary, reported last night that the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference did not take sides in the strike at the Cumberland Undergarment Company since the organization's constitution forbids any interference in jurisdictional disputes.

Individually, he reported, members promised to do all they could for the girls who are now picketing the Gay street garment plant.

C. E. Stutzman, chairman, will call a meeting this week of the 16-man committee who will draw up plans for the Labor day celebration to be sponsored by the group representing AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods and Independent unions of Allegany county.

Army Recruiting Program To Have Kiwanis Backing

Members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club will participate in a volunteer army recruiting plan designed primarily to insure America's security and to promote world order, O. J. Hale, president of the club announced yesterday.

The War department sometime ago asked Kiwanis International to jointly sponsor the volunteer army recruiting plan and the service organization's board of trustees voted in June at Atlantic City to urge more than 2,300 Kiwanis clubs in the United States to actively co-operate in the drive for enlistments.

In this connection, President Truman expressed the hope that "every individual and group will give earnest and enthusiastic co-operation" to the War department's program to rebuild the regular army.

In calling for the support of Cumberland Kiwanians, the War department and Kiwanis International set a goal of one regular army enlistment for each 100 members in each Kiwanis club every month. Under this arrangement, the plan would produce several thousand enlistments a year.

To spur interest in the campaign, special awards will be offered to clubs achieving the highest percentage of quota each month.

At yesterday's meeting of the club Sgt. Bernard Roudabush, of the army recruiting office in Cumberland outlined the army recruiting program and then answered a number of questions asked by the members.

After announcing that the club would give its support to the recruiting program a committee composed entirely of World War 2 veterans was appointed by the club president to give whatever assistance it can to army recruiters here. Members of the committee are:

Thomas B. Finan, chairman; Dr. W. H. Ryan, W. Earle Cobey, John Oliver, Wilbur Bishop, Thomas E. Gilchrist, Jr., Thomas Cullen, Dr. F. B. Whitworth, and Dr. W. A. VanOrmer.

W. Rodes Lewis, Arlington, Va., lieutenant governor of the Capital Kiwanis District, spoke briefly and presented an award to the club for having already surpassed its membership goal for 1946.

Beer License Case Will Be Concluded This Morning

Petitioners Ask Revocation Of Peter V. Carpenti's Permit

Completion of a hearing on a petition requesting the revocation of the beer and wine license of Peter V. Carpenti, who operates the City cafe, 124 North Centre street, was postponed yesterday afternoon by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper until this morning at 10 a. m. to give him and attorneys time to study the law in such cases.

Judge Capper pointed out to William A. Gunter, attorney for Carpenti, and William M. Somerville, attorney for Mrs. Ethel B. Liles, North Centre street, one of the petitioners for the revocation, that there had been no revocation hearings since he had been on the bench.

The petitioners complained of disturbances and disorderly conduct at the establishment, both inside and outside. They declared that patrons of the establishment used nearby doorways and an alley as public toilets.

Received Numerous Calls

Sgt. John Sherry, desk sergeant at police headquarters, said he received numerous calls about disturbances at the cafe, but that the callers refused to give their names. Consequently, he added, officers were not sent to investigate. Sherry said, however, that Mrs. Liles had appeared in person at police headquarters on several occasions to report disturbances at the cafe and also had telephoned, giving her name, and that all of these reports were investigated. Sherry also told of one fight that took place recently in front of the establishment.

City Officer Arthur Kennell testified that in line of duty he has visited the place frequently since Carpenti got his license on May 1 and that there were no disturbances except on two occasions when police were summoned.

Respectable Establishment

Carpenti, Iva Cosgrove, a waitress in the cafe, and a bartender testified to the effect that the cafe is run as a respectable establishment.

All three testified that the last call for drinks is served at 11:30 p. m. and that at 11:45 patrons are asked to leave. They said very few persons congregate in front of the establishment and that most who do are waiting for taxicabs.

Carpenti said the cafe is as "quiet as any cocktail lounge in town. We all have our troubles. You have to expect troubles."

Police Probe Robbery At Purple Heart Club

City police said last night they are still seeking the intruder who broke into the club room of the Military Order of the Purple Heart, 72 Greene street, July 22, and escaped with cash and liquor valued at about $150.

Police said the robber entered the club by removing the screen and then forcing a rear window. The loot was described as a glass jar containing about $50 collected for the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and five cases of beer and two cases of whiskey worth about $100.

Albert Kliffner, 906 Shade's lane, reported to police that a billfold containing his operator's card and B. and O. pass and overalls were taken from his car while the vehicle was parked at Constitution park July 28.

Howard Rodeheaver, 206 Thomas street, said a .38 caliber Iver-Johnson revolver was stolen from the glove compartment of his truck parked in front of 138 North Centre street Tuesday at 11 a. m.

13 County Youths To Attend State 4-H Club Week

Two Members Win Free Trips For Records In Dairy Contest

Thirteen Allegany county 4-H club boys have registered to attend State 4-H Club week at the University of Maryland, beginning Monday, Joseph M. Steger, assistant county farm agent, reported yesterday.

Five days of classes, judging and demonstration contests, recreation and assembly programs are scheduled, with Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of the Selective Service program, slated to speak at an older youth meeting Thursday afternoon.

This 24th annual 4-H club week is the first since 1941, due to travel restrictions in the war years, and attendance from the 23 counties of the state is expected to exceed 900, Steger said.

He added that two youths who will attend from this county won free trips to club week as a result of their high standing in an efficient dairy production contest. They are Harry Johnson, Jr., Cumberland, and Robert Miller, Jr., Frostburg, Route 1. They will make the trip by bus along with 11 boys expected to attend, leaving the court house Monday at 6:30 a. m.

Following registration Monday afternoon, morning programs through the week will be devoted to contests and demonstrations, and afternoons will be devoted to assemblies and to feature speakers. There will be an evening twilight hour of recreation and group singing daily.

Among the speakers at club week will be Dr. R. Floyd Cromwell, of the state department of education; Dr. Charl Williams, of the National Education Association, Washington, D. C., and Dr. Warren D. Bowman, Church of the Brethren minister, Washington, D. C.

PEPSI-COLA STRIKE IS STILL UNSETTLED

A series of meetings yesterday failed to bring about an agreement on a settlement of the strike which began at the Pepsi-Cola plant here July 1, C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union, reported last night.

The union official said the parties were "pretty close together" and said the company agrees to increases for inside workers while the union is asking a 15-cent hourly increase for all employes.

He reported the company offers paid holidays for plant workers but is unwilling to make the same offer for men on delivery routes.

Stutzman met at 7:30 p. m. with Frederick A. Puderbaugh, company attorney, and James A. Holden, federal conciliator, in an attempt to settle the lengthy strike.

Stutzman said workers met with him in the union hall at 8:30 p. m. and refused a company offer. The labor official met later last night with the company attorney but reported no progress, saying that the strike will continue.

Clerks Reject Offer By Rosenbaum Store

Members of Local 654, Retail Clerks, yesterday rejected a company offer for a new contract at the Rosenbaum department store, C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council said. He added agreement has been reached on all issues except hours and wages and said clerks still insist on a 40 hour week.

The store has offered a $2 weekly raise to clerks who also receive a commission and $3 weekly for employes who work without a commission.

Enlist In Marines

Two more men from this area have enlisted in the United States Marines, according to the local recruiting office. They are Herbert Lee Crites, of Greenspring, West Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Crites. He enlisted for two years in the aviation division and was shipped to Parris Island. The other is Curtis Richard Stahlman, 18, of Ellerslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Banks O. Stahlman. He enlisted for three years of general service and was also stationed at Parris Island.

Full Production Expected Today At Kelly Plant

Rubber Employes Resume Work After Accepting Compromise Offer

Limited production was resumed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company yesterday after workers of the curing room, at a meeting yesterday morning with officials of Local 26, URCLPWA, accepted a compromise production proposal and voted to return to work.

A Kelly official reported at 11:15 p. m. that he estimated 75 per cent of the 11 p. m. shift reported for duty and added plant officials were busy juggling help in order to secure balanced production. Half of the 3 p. m. shift reported for duty yesterday.

Ralph C. Beard, president of the union, reported last night that the settlement reached at yesterday morning's meeting was satisfactory to the membership and said all workers were expected to report on their regular shifts today.

Kelly officials reported at 4 p. m. yesterday that about half of the 650 to 700 workers on that shift had reported for work and that 36 of the 73 curing room employes were back at their posts.

Full production at the local tire plant, which was closed Tuesday afternoon by a strike which plant officials termed unauthorized, is expected this morning.

Precipitates Walkout

The walkout of ten workers of the curing room department early Tuesday morning precipitated a walkout which threw about 2,500 employes out of work that afternoon.

Ralph C. Beard, president of the union, said workers on Nos. 4 and 5 loop machines in the curing room met yesterday at 9:30 a. m. and voted to return to work after accepting a proposal for the settlement of the dispute.

The proposal the workers accepted will give the company approximately the production it requires and will at the same time guarantee the workers against any loss of pay, Beard said. Relief crews will be provided during lunch periods so that equipment may be operated continuously.

A company spokesman said the four-man crew has been producing 24 heats each shift and that the company requested 27 heats from the four-man crew with the addition of a relief man and 33 heats from the five-man crew with a relief man. (By a heat, rubber workers mean 18 or 19 molds in one vat, or in other words the curing of 18 or 19 tires per heat).

The company spokesman added that the compromise plan will offer a task allowance to enable the five-man crew to work up to 33 heats which would allow them to maintain normal earnings levels while they were working up to the higher output.

Ask Wage Increase

The union announced that it has notified the company of its intentions to open negotiations for a wage increase at the Kelly plant. Wage talks will begin in the near future, Beard said.

The union official reported on grievances at the Kelly plant at the night meeting and was instructed by the members as to how to proceed in the settlement of the issues.

The negotiating committee of the local was instructed by the members to meet with officers of the international union in Akron so they may check the contract now being negotiated with the Kelly plant with other agreements being negotiated in the rubber industry, Beard said. He added that seven issues still remain unresolved in the Kelly agreement.

A committee will be named, Beard reported, to draw up resolutions to be presented at the 11th annual URCLPWA convention to be held in San Francisco beginning September 16.

Three delegates will be named to represent the local at a meeting Sunday, August 18, at 2:30 p. m., Beard said. The three highest of the 150 nominees will be chosen, Beard said, and the next three will be named alternates.

GARMENT WORKERS WILL MEET TODAY

Recent developments in the strike which caused a shutdown of the Cumberland Undergarment Company will be reported at a meeting of Local 434, International Ladies Garment Workers Union, in Allegany Trades Council hall today at 2 p. m., Mrs. Wanda Ashenfelter, president, reported yesterday.

Maurice Milberg, manager of the garment company which has been closed since July 18 by a strike which ILGWU officials declared unauthorized, said the international has informed him that any arrangements made with the newly elected officers of the local will not be binding.

Millberg said he has no intentions of negotiating with the group headed by Mrs. Margaret Chase, former chair lady and declared the faction conducting the strike is an insurgent group.

Mrs. Chase said the union's committees and the Western Maryland Joint Labor Committee are continuing to support the strike for a wage increase.

Lightning Damages Church Steeple

A bolt of lightning which struck the top of the steeple of St. Patrick's Catholic church here yesterday at 1 p. m. during a severe rain and electrical storm caused some damage to the slate roof and timbers of the structure, Central Fire Company reported.

Firemen said the steeple was damaged about five feet above the bell and added that the bolt, fortunately did not cause a blaze.

East Side firemen answered a false alarm at the home of Mrs. H. L. Bolinger, 230 Cecilia street, yesterday at 10 a. m. Firemen said neighbors saw smoke from papers being burned in a can in the back yard and turned in an alarm.
